The PRESIDENT. There is objection to the granting of unanimous consent. What is the pleasure of the Senate?

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. JAMES. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 374, on second reading, go over in its order.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. JASPAN and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—21

Barr,	Gourley,	Jones,	Thomas,
Coleman,	Haluska,	Kephart,	Wade,
Cox,	Heyburn,	Scarlett,	Walker,
Crider,	Holland,	Snowden,	Watkins,
Ealy,	James,	Stevenson,	Woodring,
Geltz,

NAYS—18

Becker,	DiSilvestro,	Mallery,	Stiefel,
Bowers,	Farrell,	McGinnis,	Tyler,
Carr,	Homsher,	McQuiddy,	Wilson, H. I.,
Crowe,	Jaspan,	Ruth,	Woodward,
Dent,	Letzler,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 375, on second reading, entitled:

An Act to amend sections 504A, 607 and 608A of the act, approved the fifteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 565), entitled "An act relating to the powers and duties of the Department of Banking and the Secretary of Banking in exercising supervision over, and taking possession of and conducting or liquidating the business and property of, corporations, associations, and persons receiving deposits or otherwise transacting a banking business, corporations acting as fiduciaries and building and loan associations; providing for the payment of the expenses of the Department of Banking by supervised corporations, associations, or persons, and appropriating the Banking Department Fund; authorizing the Department of Banking, under certain circumstances, to examine corporations, associations, or persons affiliated or having business transactions with supervised corporations, associations or persons; authorizing appeals to the Supreme Court and prescribing and limiting the powers and duties of certain other courts and their prothonotaries, registers of wills, recorders of deeds, and certain State departments, commissions, and officers; authorizing certain local public officers and State departments to collect fees for services rendered under this act; providing penalties; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts," by providing for the taking of possession of the business and property of building and loan associations and savings and loan associations the shares of which are insured in the State Building and Loan Fund go over in its order.

Mr. WATKINS. I second the motion.

It was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BECKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, with respect to Senate Bill No. 374, and also with respect to Senate Bill No. 375, I wish to state that these bills came out of the Committee on Banking. We had a meeting of the Committee on Banking at which the members of the Committee were well represented. There was opposition to these bills. The sponsor of the bills, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Farrell, was not present for the reason that he is not a member of the committee. I have discussed with him the merits of these bills and I am aware of what the bills represent. We had opposition, and the opposition came from members of the committee who on the floor of the Senate are on the other side. It was at my personal request that these bills were permitted to come out on the floor so that our friends on the other side might be permitted to remove the objection, if possible, so that the bills could move. I think it only right that I should say, as Chairman of that Committee, supposed to be impartial in consideration of bills in the Committee of Banking, that if my friends on the other side who have spoken in favor of these bills can remove the objection that comes from their side, I think the bills will move on the floor of the Senate.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. DiSILVESTRO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, while my colleague from Lebanon, Senator Becker, was speaking he was looking directly in my direction when he said that there were Democrats opposed to these bills. I want it definitely understood that I was for these bills two years ago and I am still for them. I do not know whether the gentleman from Lebanon had me in mind or the vacant chair when he was looking in this direction.

Mr. BECKER. I did not say, sir, that the Democrats were opposed to the bill; I said the opposition came from the other side of the Senate.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 398, on second reading, entitled:

An Act enabling city county poor institution district ward school borough and township tax collectors their executors and administrators if they are deceased or either surety or sureties to collect taxes for the payment of which they have become personally liable without having collected the same by the expiration of the authority of their respective warrants or by the expiration of their terms of office extending the time for the collection of the same and validating collections and proceedings for collections made or commenced without previous authority

SENATE BILL No. 356, PRINTER'S No. 366 CALLED UP

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I call up at this time Senate Bill No. 356, Printer's No. 366, on page 19, of the Second Reading Calendar, which went over in order temporarily.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 356, entitled:

An Act to amend sections twelve and seventeen of the act, approved the twenty-first day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 626), entitled "An act providing for and regulating the assessment and valuation of all subjects of taxation in counties of the second class; creating and prescribing the powers and duties of a Board of Property Assessment, Appeals and Review; imposing duties on certain county and city officers; abolishing the board for the assessment and revision of taxes in such counties; and prescribing penalties," by providing for appeals from the judgment order or decrees of the court of common pleas to the Supreme or Superior Court, and for exoneration and refund of taxes when any assessment has been reduced by the Board of Property Assessment, Appeals and Review or by any court.

The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. BARR offered the following amendment:

Amend Section 1, Section 12, page two, line twenty-one, by inserting after the word "taxpayer" the following: "or the Board of Property Assessment, Appeals and Review."

It was agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The second section and title were separately read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

REQUEST THAT BILL GO OVER IN ORDER

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 554, on second reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, I object.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, it is embarrassing for me to even mention the word parole. I have been so interested in the proper supervision of the granting of paroles for the last three years, I am afraid that when I leave this Senate my middle name will be "parole".

In 1941 this Legislature passed a parole act, which was the result of a careful survey and a careful study; it was not a bill which was prepared, as many bills have been prepared which have passed this Legislature on the spur of the moment or without due thought and consideration. It was a bill that was carefully drafted, the study placed in the drafting of that bill came from all over the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, by men with great practical and scientific experience in the field of parole.

This is one bill which was bitten by a legislative gremlin the minute it became a law. If you listen to the history of the misfortunes that have happened to this bill, I am satisfied that you will agree with me that the bill has never had a chance and that the Parole Board has never had a chance to function in a manner that would enable us to determine whether or not the plan was a good plan or a bad plan.

The bill was approved in August, 1941. Appointment of the board was not made until the spring of 1942. The appointments were delayed by Governor James because it seems that shortly after he signed the bill he regretted having signed it.

In the Special Session of 1942, Governor James attempted to have the Legislature postpone the functioning of this plan, but friends of parole on both sides, both parties, refused to permit the postponement and it began to function.

The board started to work on June 1, 1942. That was the date under which the Act provided that the entire system would be set up and functioning, yet on that date the Board began to function for the first time.

In September 1942, civil service examinations were given. In March of 1942 the Supreme Court sustained the Act.

On January 18, 1943, which is a date during which the Legislature was in session, the first appointment of employes were made by the Board and at that time there were only five or six.

On February 1, 1943, the rest of the employes started. These dates are very recent dates.

It is interesting to note that in January 1943, the Jaspan ripper was introduced in the Senate, on January 18, 1943, the first employes were employed by the Board and on the next day the Jaspan ripper was introduced.

It seems that almost from the beginning of this Session of the Legislature that the plan and the Board were under attack. A hearing was held by the Committee on Judiciary General and the Board was brought before that Committee for the purpose of examination. Because of great public demand and great public interest in the parole plan, the Committee on Judiciary General held an open hearing. You, who attended that hearing, I know, were just as much impressed as I was with the character and the ability of the people who were here because of their interest in the bill, and strange to say, with all the noise that we had heard previously, at that hearing there was not one person who appeared in opposition to the parole plan—not one person.

I know from my own personal experience that many of the judges whose attitude was contrary to or against the parole plan in the beginning, have since either changed their minds or have, because of their ultimate fairness, made this statement, that the board has never had a chance to function so that we can determine whether it functions properly or not. Let us give it a chance.

Last week I talked with two of the most able judges of our county, Judge Ralph Smith, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor in the last primary election. I also talked with Judge Henry Ellenbogen. Both of those men helped to prepare this bill and both of those men still feel that it should have an opportunity.

The attack on the bill has been very varying and I think everything has been said that possibly could be said about it, that is, about things relative to the bill that are not good, but so far it has been mostly talk and it has not been proven.

Mr. President, understand my position to be this; I had nothing to do with the preparation of the bill; the members of the Board or the employes are not appointees of mine or friends of mine. The members of the Board were appointed by Governor James and I say to you very frankly that if those men are not qualified and if they are not doing the job that the Legislature or the Governor want them to do, the Governor has the right to replace them and if that is a fact I certainly am not going to do anything to attempt to prevent it.

One of the criticisms made of this Board was the fact that this year they submitted a request for an appropriation in excess of $1,600,000. Immediately certain persons within the Legislature rose up in arms. They felt that was a tremendously excessive budget and they felt that the cost of parole supervision was terrific, that the cost far exceeded the value and the good that came from proper parole supervision in Pennsylvania.

In order to be fair about the matter, I made a very careful study of comparative costs in other states which have parole acts.

Mr. President, do you know that under this budget the cost of parole per person, per day, in this state would be twenty-five cents and yet if we were to keep these people in jail in Pennsylvania, the average cost would be $1.25 per day? There would be and there will be, unless the Legislature changes the Act and changes the jurisdiction, approximately ten thousand people supervised by the Parole Board. This board has jurisdiction over all persons whose maximum sentence is two years or greater. This is important because it means that the Board has jurisdiction over all persons in any Court in Pennsylvania having criminal jurisdiction.

I have here some comparative figures which I think are quite interesting. In New York jurisdiction is confined to persons in state penitentiaries and reformatories only. The Parole Board of New York has no jurisdiction over the great city penal institutions in New York city or the other county institutions.

The case load in New York is 73.4 as compared to 100 in Pennsylvania. The budget is $616,190 per annum. The budget asked by our Parole Board is a little over $800,000, per annum and yet in number of persons served in jurisdiction the Parole Board of Pennsylvania has a far more difficult job to do than the Parole Board of New York. In parole affairs and parole circles, the Parole Act has been proven to have been very successful in New York.

Then, Mr. President, in the little state of New Jersey we have a similar situation. New Jersey is a very small state. Their jurisdiction is much restricted and our budget would compare favorably to that of New Jersey, considering the ratio of the number of persons under the jurisdiction of that board. When you measure cost you can not always do so by determining how much money you pay out.

All our papers today each day carry articles on the growing criminal wave among adolescents and small children. In the city of Pittsburgh I understand that there is a curfew act today which compels persons sixteen years of age or under to be off the streets. As acting clerk of courts of Allegheny County I am very close to what is happening there, in the office of the district attorney, the office of the sheriff and in the criminal court, and the business of our office has fallen away tremendously. That is true because many of the economic causes of crime have been eliminated, because a great percentage of the adult population has been taken out of the country, but we have found a steady and a very serious increase in crime by younger people.

Unfortunately, most people have a wrong impression of the reason for having a maximum and a minimum sentence. They seem to feel that once a man has served his minimum sentence that under the law he has the right to be released, but that is not the theory, that is not the fact—under the law his sentence is the maximum—but the courts have said under the provisions of the law, if a man behaves himself and proves that he has been rehabilitated when in prison that he can be paroled at the end of his minimum sentence.

The question of when to parole is a very vital one to the welfare of this Commonwealth. When a man is sentenced to prison he is sentenced there for one primary objective, that is, for the purpose of rehabilitation. If you were conversant with the way penitentiaries operate, you would realize that the amount of rehabiliation which takes place because of educational facilities and normal training is very little, and if we are to continue this process of rehabilitation we must do it during the time that a person is on parole.

Prior to passage of this Act we had no real parole supervision in Pennsylvania. We did have parole supervision under the Department of Justice, but everybody admitted very frankly that it was inadequate, because there were not sufficient employes, and their obligations and their duties consisted in the most part of getting data for the Pardon Board.

In the present bill, introduced by the gentleman from Luzerne, Senator Jones, who I am convinced is as much interested in proper parole as I am, we find certain changes that go absolutely to the basis of parole structure in Pennsylvania. For instance, under the present Act there are five members, and Senator Jones in his proposed bill cuts them to three members. Under the present Act there is a parole supervision. I was very much gratified today when out of the blue the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, told you of the fine antecedents of Doctor Giardini, your present Parole Director.

Under the present Act there are ten supervisors, ten men who each have one district in Pennsylvania to supervise. Those men received their positions on the basis of a civil service examination. Those men are the ten supervisors in Pennsylvania because in an examination they proved themselves to be the best qualified of all those who took the examination to supervise parole in Pennsylvania. One fundamental defect in the present bill amending the parole Act is the fact that civil service is taken away from these ten men.

The Parole Director is taken out of the act, the Board has been cut from five members to three members, and now we have a situation existing, if this bill should pass, where there would be three members of the Parole Board, there would be no Parole Director, there would be ten supervisors appointed by the Parole Board, with the consent of the Governor. That language sounds very nice, but we are all practical and we all know that means political patronage, and surely we must know from experience, in a field as involved and as important as crime, no system can operate if we are going to permit any of the executives of the system to be placed in a position where they must perform their duties because of the demands of people with political influence.

This bill would have the effect of placing in jeopardy the positions of these most important executives of the Parole Board, if any politican responsible for their appointment should lose interest in them.

Under the old system the Department of Justice had at its beginning out in Pittsburgh, one of the finest personnel offices that any city could ever have. It was very fortunate, because it had men who had years of training and who specialized in this very kind of work. I knew most of those men and their work intimately; I had worked with them in connection with my work at the Western Penitentiary. Due to a change in administration every one of those men lost his employment, other people were substituted, and then at the end of that administration they were all fired. If we amend this Act to take those ten supervisiors out of civil service, in my opinion, that will be a mortal blow to proper parole supervision in Pennsylvania.

These are only a few brief comments. I offer them to you in the hope that you will agree with me that it is ultimately fair, because of the fact that the Parole Board has not had a proper opportunity to show if it could function properly, to let the whole matter rest until 1945, until the next session of the Legislature. As you know, since January I have done everything in my power to get this Senate to consent to a real investigation of the whole penal system of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, not only the parole system alone. That is a matter of great necessity, it is going to come, and if it does not come in this Session of the Legislature, perhaps the next Legislature will recognize the necessity for doing it.

I am certainly going to hope that the present friends of proper parole and proper parole supervision have not diminished in number in the Senate and I hope that through the years we will have some converts so that this matter will not die and if I am back in the Senate in 1945, I certainly will be as eager as any man in this Senate to try to determine whether the Board and the system have properly functioned during that two year period.

At that time we can certainly remedy any defects in the system and if the system is not any good we can certainly toss it out and get a system that really will function.

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, this bill came up for second reading and the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Cox, raised questions as to its advisability, placing the burden upon me to explain the amendments to the bill.

I want to say at the outset that I have no personal interest in this matter whatsoever. I do not know a single member of that Board. I do know the individuals who wrote the original Act. They are close personal friends, friends that I regard highly both for their own personal selves and for their legal and intellectual ability.

They had written this bill, and in theory it was a good bill, but in practice it developed that there were many inadequacies, many mistakes in application and in administration, many errors, so that it became necessary to make definite corrections. This bill proposes to make those corrections.

I want to say, too, that I believe in the parole system and I believe that such a system should be in vogue and used to serve its purpose to the state of Pennsylvania.

When a man commits a crime it is the purpose of the law, in passing sentence upon him, first, to punish him, and secondly, to set an example to the public so that others shall not follow and do the same thing, but there is a point where both of those purposes are served, and so, in the passage of the Act providing for sentence, the law sets forth a minimum penalty and a maximum penalty, the maximum penalty being in double the time of the minimum penalty, and it is the intent and purpose that this minimum penalty shall serve the purpose of punishment and example to the people at large, and that after serving the minimum sentence, the remaining term, until the maximum period has expired, shall be a period of parole, at which time this prisoner is taken out of the walls surrounding him, where he as it were, was in a cage, where he follows the strict discipline and the regime of the prison and its strict regulations, where there is no opportunity for rebuilding. Having come out of that jail or that prison at the expiration of his minimum term, he is on parole, placed in the custody of officers who supervise his conduct.

Those officers must be trained, they must be skilled and qualified, and they must know this individual very thoroughly, his antecedents, his background, his habits, his environment, his associates and hundreds of other things, and from them they study his difficulties and know what should be done to bring him out of them, and thereby they rehabilitate him and he adjusts himself to society, he becomes an industrious, useful citizen and society is protected from him and he, himself, does not come in conflict again with the law.

It has been argued by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, a few days ago, that the principal objection to this parole system is that parolees violate the law afterwards, that there are numerous violations and infractions of the law afterwards and violations of parole, but I say to you because that there are such infractions, that does not negative the value of the parole system, it rather enhances its value and demonstrates its value and the efficiency with which parole officers are administering the parole law.

It would be just as well if the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, argued that because tires blow out we should not use tires any more, or because people get indigestion by eating food they should not eat food any more, or because there is heavy mortality at childbirth, therefore, there should not be any more childbirth.

On the other hand, constant regulation, supervision and the finding of those very infractions demonstrate the activity and the effiiciency and the earnestness with which parole officers are looking after those on parole; it does not discount the system, and I believe that the Senators are quite agreed that a parole system should continue, that this parole system continue with a civil service provision, but I have provided amendments which accomplish certain purposes, the first of which is to cut down the membership of the board from five to three members.

The state of New York, which just has been mentioned by the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Cox, has one of the best systems and operates most satisfactorily, and it has a three man board. I, myself, have been a member of a three man board for the last twelve years, the Board of Assessors in Luzerne County, and I know that a three man board operates efficiently and adequately and expeditiously and with considerable dispatch, whereas a five man board is more cumbersome, lacking in expedition and is slow in making decisions and in getting business done. I think these men should be men of the highest character, in order that they will perform their work honestly and conscientiously.

One of the main purposes of these amendments is to effect economies in the administration of the parole system, As you know, the Parole Board has only recently requested an appropriation of $1,650,000, an enormous sum of money for the operation of parole—that system ought to be operated at approximately half that cost; it can be accomplished. My bill will do it this way: it saves the cost and expense of two members of the board, aggregating $10,000 each; it saves the cost and salaries of a parole officer. I believe that the board ought to function as parole directors and not merely sit by and "let George do the work," so to speak, but they, themselves, each of them should perform their proper function in the operation of this parole system.

These amendments also propose to reduce the salary of supervisors by five hundred dollars; there are ten supervisors, which makes $5,000, making a total saving, if you count it up, of approximately $35,000.

The greatest saving would be accomplished in this circumstance: at the present time the board operates between the Eastern Penitentiary and the Western Penitentiary, White Hill, Muncy, Huntingdon, and so forth, and the members of the board travel back and forth and have hotel expenses, traveling expenses, incidental expenses, so that in the last biennium their total expenses were $300,000.

My bill proposes that the supervisor in the respective district shall function in that capacity; he is in the immediate vicinity, and he shall examine the prisoner six months before he is eligible for parole; expenses of the supervisor will be at a minimum, so that these economies will be thus effected.

I say, too, that my amendments provide a definite check and balance system. In our national government and in our state government we have checks and balances that make our government almost perfect as a Democratic organization—without those checks and balances would be to revert back to the monarchies and the despotisms of Europe—but taking the plan from our own form of government, we have provided that the Pardon Board shall exercise some supervision as a check on the activities of the Parole Board, and the Parole Board shall make reports each time it shall recommend parole and each time it refuses parole at the expiration of the minimum sentence.

If the Parole Board does not agree that a prisoner shall be released, it becomes their duty to give their reasons to the Pardon Board so that they, too, can double-check with the Parole Board and determine whether the prisoner is receiving just treatment. When an individual is recommended for parole, the Pardon Board likewise shall receive a report giving the reasons therefor and they then shall pass judgment, checking and rechecking the determination of the Parole Board that such prisoner shall be released or shall not be released. There in effect and in fact, the Superior Court exercises the jurisdiction of appeal.

There is another important amendment to this bill, which provides that the district attorney who tried the case, the judge who heard the case, and the warden or person or official in charge of the particular penal institution shall, and it becomes their duty, to recommend their position toward that prisoner, what they think about him, what they would recommend about parole, and in addition to that, the supervisors are compelled to make their reports. With this combined information and judgment of those who are closest to the prisoner, who knew him from the beginning, they can determine fairly and reasonably whether that prisoner should be on parole or whether he should be released.

In the penal institutions the wardens have particular advantages in that respect, they have their penologists, their psychiatrists, their social workers, and they have their qualifications, so that with their combined opinion crystalized, by the time the term expires they can reasonably and honestly know what the prisoner was like while in the institution.

I say, too, that this bill corrects some of the violations of the law made by the present board, and I need only refer to the opinion of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in which is appointed out, through Justices Drew and Patterson, the law as follows:

"The law as enacted (referring to the Parole Act of 1941) needlessly creates an extravagantly expensive system of parole (that comes, gentlemen, from the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania) by permitting the present costly county parole system as well as that of the Board of Pardons, to continue to function, although it calls for an 'exclusive' system of parole; it places the appointment of an unlimited number of parole officers and employes in political hands; and it is so inartistically drawn that, even its many and serious defects are now overlooked, it is bound to result in confusion and litigation before its true character is ascertained."

As you will see, this opinion refers to the inadequacy of the present system, in permitting the lower court to place prisoners on parole with the county officials, or to place a prisoner serving his minimum sentence or any part of the sentence as a special parolee with the Board of Pardons.

I say to you, too, that this board is violating the law in another particular which we correct by our amendments. They exercise jurisdiction over juveniles, not the juveniles who have been committed alone by the criminal courts, but the juveniles who have been committed to White Hill directly by the court, delinquent boys and girls, and they are under this parole system of 1941; they are no part of the parole system, they are entirely and exclusively within the hands of the court, and yet the President of the Parole Board, notwithstanding the advice of Justice Brown of the Philadelphia courts and of the counsel for the board itself, deliberately assumed jurisdiction over those juveniles. These amendments will correct that violation. I say to you, too, that there was another serious infraction by the Parole Board. The Parole Board would exercise supervision over a prisoner after the maximum term had expired. My bill proposes that when that maximum term expires, he is as free as though he had served his parole in prison, and it should be so. There is no reason under the sun, if after that person had gone through a process of education with the supervisors and the parole officers, between the minimum and the maximum sentence, that he should not be discharged and no longer kept under the supervision of the parole officers, perhaps for the rest of his life, if they should so elect.

It clarifies the act, it makes it definite in all of these provisions where it was weak, it adds strength to the present parole law, it gives vitality and greater force and effect without the criticisms that we have so frequently heard.

In this connection may I read a letter to you which was received by one of the Senators from his Court on April 22. The letter was addressed to Honorable Howard I. James, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, and is as follows:

"Doylestown, Pa., April 22, 1943.

"Honorable Howard I. James,
Senate Chambers,
Harrisburg, Pa.

"Dear Senator James:

"Judge Keller and I have received the copies of Senate Bill No. 554 to amend the present State Parole Board Act which you kindly sent us. We have gone over the proposed amendment and are both of the opinion that in general it is very satisfactory and a vast improvement over the original act. Judge Keller has authorized me to say that we would like to see this amending act enacted.

"However, there are several comments that we would like to make. In the first place we believe that it would simplify our sentencing of prisoners, particularly in such cases as drunken driving, manslaughter, etc., where the maximum sentence provided by the act is exactly three years, if the jurisdiction of the Parole Board were limited to cases where the maximum sentence imposed exceeds three years and that the Court retain exclusive jurisdiction where the maximum sentence was three years or less. As this act is drawn, if the Court wished to retain jurisdiction of the prisoner for the greatest maximum period, the maximum sentence would have to be, "two years, eleven months and twenty-seven days." This is not a serious matter, but is more a consideration of convenience. If the Court preferred to place such prisoner under the jurisdiction of the Board it could still do so by "Special Order" under Section 17.

"In Section 7, amending Section 17, I call attention to line 19 of page 7. As worded, this sentence does not appear to be very clear. In giving exclusive power to the Board in cases of maximum sentences for less than three years, this line reads; ". . . when the Court may by special order direct supervision by the Board . . ." It seems to us that for clarity it should read; ". . . if the Court shall by special order direct supervision by the Board . . ." Apparently the word, "directed" is a clerical error inasmuch as it does not appear in the original act.

"Our third criticism is that the act does not make any reference to the change in jurisdiction on the effective date of this amendment over cases then pending. It should be made clear whether, and how cases in which sentence was imposed before the effective date of this act, but in which the minimum sentence has not been served, will be effected by the amendment. The same doubt also arises in sentences imposed before the effective date of the act and in which the minimum sentence has been served, but no parole has been asked for and or acted upon.

"Thanking you for sending us these copies of the act and trusting that the bill may be passed, I remain,

Very truly yours,
CALVIN S. BOYER."

And so I appeal to the members of the Senate of Pennsylvania to approve these amendments to Senate Bill No. 554, and thereby improve the present parole act without in the slightest degree affecting its efficiency, its operation and without doing any damage or injury whatsoever.

I thank you.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

Mr. WINNER. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill 546 together with the message from the Senate which was laid on the table be taken from the table.

The motion was agreed to.

The message was read by the Clerk as follows:

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

HOUSE BILL No. 546.

An Act to reenact and amend the title and the act approved the sixteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (P. L. 208) entitled as amended "An act to provide revenue for State purposes by imposing an excise tax for a limited period of time on the net incomes of certain corporations joint-stock associations and limited partnerships providin for the assessment collection settlement and resettlement of taxes and reviews and appeal therefrom conferring powers and imposing duties on certain persons corporations joint-stock associations limited partnerships State and county officers boards and departments making an appropriation and providing penalties" as previously reenacted and amended by extending the provisions of the act for a further limited period of time by reducing the rate of tax eliminating the deduction for Federal taxes by further defining net income authorizing the Department of Revenue to grant an additional extension of time for filing reports changing the method of reporting in certain cases reducing the interest penalty on unpaid taxes and making certain of the changes effected by this reenacting and amending act retroactive to a certain extent

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend title page 2, line 1, by striking out after the word "taces" the word "by".

Amend Section 1, page 4, line 20, by inserting after the word "Federal" the words "income or excess profits"; also in line 29, by inserting after the word "Federal" the words "income or excess profits"; also on page 5, line 2, by inserting after the word "Federal" the words "income or excess profits"; also in line 6, by inserting after the word "for" the word "such"; also in line 8, by inserting after the word "for" the word "such"; also in line 12, by inserting after the word "Federal" the words "excess profits"; also on page 11, line 23, by striking out at the beginning of said line the word "pen" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "per".

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. WINNER. Mr. Speaker, I request that the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, on the request made by the gentleman from Montgomery relative to concurrence by this House in the amendments inserted in House Bill 546, Printer's No. 471, permit me to inform you, that House Bill 546, in order to refresh your memories, is the bill which fleeces from the United States Treasury the sum of over thirty million dollars, consistent with the Democratic party's stand, when this bill was on final passage in the House, we cannot vote for concurrence in the manipulation of a tax which would fleece from the United States Treasury over thirty million dollars in order that the Republican party in Pennsylvania might repay a political debt to the corporations and utilities of Pennsylvania.

The Senate has apparently found in its wisdom that it must include an amendment to an already disgraceful piece of legislation, and if I am correct the amendment further binds the corporations in the state of Pennsylvania to make their returns and to pay their tax every year. I would ask, Mr. Speaker, if the sponsor of the bill or if the Republican leadership of the House would dare answer the question to the people of Pennsylvania that this bill is doing more than the fleecing of over thirty million dollars from the United States Treasury. Then why the need for this piece of legislation? Certainly if this bill is to be the base of the teachers' higher cost of living wage, of course under House Bill 816 we contend that this is not the method that should be used.

As I said before in debate on House Bill 546, if this over thirty million dollars was to buy one tank or round of ammunition that is to be used in North Africa or in the Tunisian battlefield I say that the Republican party is today on final concurrence in this bill not cooperating with the Federal Government in its war program.

Mr. WINNER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, concerning the amendments inserted in House Bill 546, Printer's No. 471 by the Senate, I cannot understand why the gentleman would oppose these amendments. They are simply clarifying amendments. The one amendment has to do with the wording Federal taxes. Instead of "Federal taxes" they simply say "Federal income or excess profit taxes". And the other amendment is merely a correction of a misspelled word; instead of in the original bill as it passed the House, it was "pen" instead of "per" the amendments are very simple and do not affect the bill in any respect and I ask all Members of the House to vote for this amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

AMENDED SENATE BILL RECALLED FROM THE GOVERNOR RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

SENATE BILL No. 112.

An Act providing for the retention on the several permanent personal registration lists of electors of the names of persons who are members of any branch of the armed forces of the United States or of any uniformed organization of women officially connected therewith providing for proof of such membership prescribing penalties for making false statements in connection therewith prohibiting cancellation of registration for failure to vote during this period and suspending inconsistent laws during the effective period of the act

Said bill having been recalled from the Governor for amendment, the vote had on final passage and third reading reconsidered in the Senate and the bill amended, in which amendments the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 8, by striking out after the word "therewith" the words "prohibiting cancellation of registration for failure to vote during this period."

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 7 by striking out after the heavy faced bracket the word "when" and inserting "or to cancel the registration of any person when in either case"; also in line 14, by inserting after the word "name" the words "or cancelling his or her registration."

Amend Section 2, page 3, lines 7 to 12 inclusive, by striking out the entire section as follows: "Section 2 During the period of time set forth in Section 1 it shall be unlawful for any registration commission in any city or county to cancel the registration of any elector previously registered under the permanent personal registration laws of any city county borough town or township for failure to vote."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, it was my original intention to move to concur in the action of the Senate in striking out the amendments of the House on this particular matter. However, I find in conversation with a number of my colleagues it was our thought that we wanted to at least save some section of the bill which we termed good legislation. For that reason I want to say at this time that the amendments made in the House were proper amendments, were considered by the Members on the other side and passed both the House and the Senate. However, they were submitted to the Attorney General's Office and it was suggested that the matter be recalled for amendment.

The reason why these amendments are submitted to the House is because during the last year and a half or so, when boys and girls had gone into the military service their franchise had been affected in one way or another. In the great percentage of cases their names were stricken from the registration roll of every city, town, county, borough and township in the Commonwealth without giving them or their friends an opportunity to save their franchise. The particular portion of the bill that is being saved permits the registration commissions of those political subdivisions to save their franchise if someone comes to their defense.

However, it was my idea together with some of my colleagues that we should during this war period postpone the purging of the registration lists of all people affecting their right to vote during a two year period. Our reason for so doing was that the commission, through no fault of its own sent out notices by mail to the homes where the boys and girls have gone into the service, the homes have been broken up and no one has been able to locate the boy or girl, and the only thing the commission can do under those circumstances is to strike the registration of the boy or the girl who is in service from the registration lists. So that you have the simple proposition that when they return from the war their franchise will not be intact. It seems unfortunate that we could not forget the purging of the registration lists for failure to vote during these trying times, but since wiser heads have felt that perhaps we would in some way jeopardize the registration in these political subdivisions, the Democratic party decided to go along with the action of the Senate on these amendments.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

HOUSE BILL No. 1056.

An Act abolishing the entire Merchantile License Tax System repealing the various license taxes under said system except as to taxes already due abolishing certain offices and employments providing for the collection of delinquent taxes providing for the final settlement of accounts between the Commonwealth and county treasurers and making certain repeals.

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 4, page 4, at the end of line 2, by inserting after the word "License" the word "Tax".

Amend Section 5, page 5, line 4, by striking out the words "and its amendments"; also same page, line 26, by inserting after the word "treasurers" the words "and its amendments"; also page 6, line 6, by striking out the words "mercantile license tax system" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "Mercantile License Tax System"; also same page, line 7, by striking out after the word "Sections" the figure "8" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "eight"; also same line, by striking out after the word "and' the figure "9" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "nine"; also same page, at the end of line 18, by inserting after the word "State" the words "and its amendments"; also on page 7, at the end of line 7, by inserting after the word "same" the words "and its amendments"; also on page 8, line 29, by inserting after "Commonwealth" the words "and its amendments."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I am asking the Democratic members to non-concur in the amendments inserted by the Senate, not that these amendments mean anything, because we think they merely clarify the situation. Our position on this bill as a part of the program of the administration was very tersely and succinctly stated a couple of weeks ago when we said that this part of the tax program is no good. We think today that this part of the tax program is no good and I do not see how we can possibly give an "aye" vote on any part or any phase of a tax program which we think is so obnoxious.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WRIGHT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, the fight to maintain our independence and freedom constitutes an inspiring part of an unshakeable unity and purpose of a united people. A fit and free people are the force that will change the world. All right thinking men want a better world to follow this war. A better community without better men and better women is impossible for only good Americans can make a good America. Therefore, personal prepardness of individuals, in or out of service, is vital to success.

The consciousness of the people, the justness of their cause, their resolve to make all necessary sacrifice, and their firm purpose to carry home to the enemy the war he has inflicted upon humanity makes certain final victory.

Never since the historic days when George Washington and his chilled ragged army stood at Valley Forge has this nation been in such grave danger from enemies within her own borders. It is perhaps too much to expect that tyrants will learn that man's longing for liberty cannot be destroyed. But it is not too much to expect that free men may learn and never forget that the lack of vigilence is the greatest danger to liberty.

Liberty My Friends, is more than a matter of political rights, indispensible as those rights are, in our home state we have learned from bitter experience that to be truly free, men must have economic freedom and economic security to work as freemen in the company of freemen, to obtain through work the material and spiritual means of life; to advance through the exercise of ability, initiative and enterprize; to make provision against the hazard of mere human existence.

We must be united to safeguard the rights of minorities, for minorities are essential in a democracy, quite apart from any reason of fairness or justice or any sentiment regarding the protection of the weak by the strong, we need only to protect the weak, the strong can care for themselves.

It is only common sense to safeguard jealously the rights of minorities. The temptation exists among those who are blessed with numerical strength with wealth and power to expect the minority to submit to the majority in controversial matters whether the majority is in the right or in the wrong.

Minorities are a rich asset to a democracy. Dictatorship must fear and suppress them. Intolerance always begins with the personal pronoun "I" which is the source of nearly all the ills we suffer, because of the spirit of the big "I".

But within the tolerance of democracy, minorities are the constant spring of new ideas, stimulating new thought and action, the constant course of new vigor. To suppress minority thinking would stun society and prevent progress. The free expression of the opinion of others who differ should never be denied, if we are devoted to the principles of truth and justice. The majority itself is stimulated by the existence of minority groups, the human mind requires contrary expressions against which to test itself.

Out of the distress and misery of the present worldwide conflict should come an era of peace, every altruistic person keeps forever before him the ideal of a world in which war shall have no part. And out of the little political differences here, from each member of this legislature should come a feeling of mutual unity and cooperation, "In unity, there is strength." Let's make our meaning plain. A pretense of patriotism is political hypocrisy which is poluting the living foundation of democracy. The present is no time to neglect our loyalty. This is the toughest war the United States has ever fought and we need all our combined strength to help win it, let's get together.

America expects everyone to do their full duty "always" but now as never before, that is the signal of every victory—yours and mine, and that of our country.

There is but union now, and that union is a united America. The reward is for victory, for liberty, for freedom, for God for country and our democratic way of life. The backbone of morals is confidence in leadership, we must work together.

Our America will fight with their comrades against the common agressor, we realize that the way before us is beset with formidal difficulties, but we shall not falter until peace, justice and freedom are established throughout the world .And our America will never hesitate until the enemy is beaten down to defeat into the dust and mire of his own country.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. SARGE asked and obtained permission for the Committee on State Government to meet during the session of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. PETROSKY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, we here in the legislative halls in the past few months have legislated upon many fields of endeavor. We have added additional responsibilities upon the shoulders of the youth of our Commonwealth, and today involved in the present conflict with our enemies, we have placed in the hands of the youth of our state and nation a great responsibility in maintaining the democratic processes of government.

The youths that we have sent forth to battle, who are today shouldering the arms of industry in the war of production on our home front are the boys and girls that we should be legislating for at the present time. I have sponsored, together with my colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Heatherington, a bill for a constitutional change. Such bill is only to be acted upon by this and another session of the legislature, and then given to the electorate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for a referendum to say whether they believe that the boy or girl of eighteen, between eighteen and twenty-one, has the right to vote. I say to you that we have given them those additional responsibilities. We are asking them today to give battle in order to preserve the democratic processes of government. Yet, we are still depriving them of the right to participate in the democratic processes of government. I feel we should give all consideration, we should give all thought to those who are supporting us on the production front and upon the war front in the battle for the survival of this great nation of ours.

This is definitely a home rule measure. This is a measure which gives to the electorate, to each and every citizen of the Commonwealth, the right to say whether our boys and girls between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one will be given the right to exercise the franchise or ballot.

I wish to offer the following resolution, that the Committee on Constitutional Amendments be discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 73, after said committee has had said bill for more than ten days.

RESOLUTION TO DISCHARGE COMMITTEE

Messrs. PETROSKY and HEATHERINGTON offered the following resolution which was read by the Clerk:

In the House of Representatives, April 28, 1943.

Resolved, That the Committee on Constitutional Amendments be discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 73 entitled: "Proposing an amendment to Article eight, Section one of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, reducing the age limit of electors," said bill having been in the hands of said committee more than ten days.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

RESOLUTION LAID ON TABLE

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the resolution be laid on the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Heatherington and Mr. Petrosky and were as follows:

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair would announce to the Members of the House that next week the session will begin at three o'clock on Monday. You should come prepared to stay five days next week.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. GATES asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Townships to meet during the session of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS THE HOUSE

Mr. MODELL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, a few evenings ago this House had before it for consideration House Bill 57, known as the silt bill, introduced by the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Brunner. This was a type of legislation similar to a bill introduced by me in the 1941 session of the Legislature and also during this session of the Legislature. Unfortunately for hundreds of thousands of people of this state, and a large extent of territory in this state, that bill went down to defeat. That, Mr. Speaker, to my mind was a travesty on justice, and an insult to the intelligence, I believe, of the entire membership of this House, and to the people throughout this entire Commonwealth.

You may recall that in the first two weeks of this present session I spoke in a statement before you upon a series of bills introduced by my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Herman, and myself, which bills were to correct the present situation in this state with reference to the pollution of our rivers. That statement was made so that the members of this House would realize the importance of this matter. We had, I believe, at that time the foresight, and I believe the Members of this House had the foresight to have these matters brought before them in committee and brought before this House for a vote. These bills were prepared as a result of a study of the minutes of several meetings held by a committee of this House in the extra Session of 1942. Those minutes contained statements directly and upon interrogation of the United States Engineers of this Commonwealth working for the Sanitary Water Board, and statements made by the various secretaries of the Department of Health, the Department of Forests and Waters and others, and all those statements brought out the fact that the Sanitary Water Board was doing nothing to correct the situation in the state with regard to the pollution of the rivers, and in fact they could do nothing because it was hamstrung by being a very small part of the Department of Health. It was very clearly shown by those minutes and by those statements that the only way that the Sanitary Water Board would ever do what it was supposed to do under the laws of this Commonwealth, and more particularly the law of 1937, would be to have that Sanitary Water Board made into an independent agency to correct that situation.

In that series of bills more particularly I refer to the bill which would make the Sanitary Water Board an independent agency, has been lying in the Committee on State Government since the beginning of this session, and I believe has not had the consideration of that Committee. Inasmuch as it is so vital, not only to Philadelphia but to practically all of the citizens of this Commonwealth, I offer a resolution to discharge the Committee from further consideration of House Bill 216.

RESOLUTION TO DISCHARGE COMMITTEE

Messrs. MODELL and HERMAN offered a resolution which was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 28, 1943.

Resolved, that the Committee on State Government be discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 216 entitled: "An Act to further amend the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 177), entitled 'Administrative Code of 1929', by establishing the Sanitary Water Board as an Independent Administrative Board and conferring certain additional powers upon it with respect to the appointment of employes and the receipt and expenditure of funds" said bill having been in the hands of the Committee for more than ten days.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the resolution?

RESOLUTION LAID ON TABLE

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the resolution be laid on the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Levy and Mr. Lovett.

Messrs. Levy, Lovett and Cohen asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

YEAS—104

So the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. TAHL filed the following reason for his vote:

I vote against tabling the motion to reconsider House Bill No. 216, because it is urgent that we in Philadelphia stop the pollution of our water supply. The present pollution is a menace to the health of our citizens.

This is only one of many reasons why this bill should be approved.

Mr. TATE filed the following reasons for his vote:

Reasons for voting in "negative" on motion to lay on table Resolution to Discharge Committee on State Government from further consideration of House Bill No. 216.

This motion to lay on table is an attempt to gag proper consideration of a measure which, if enacted, will serve to go a long way in cleaning up the streams and rivers of the Commonwealth. The enactment of this measure will not only be of sanitary benefit to the health of the people of the Commonwealth, but will also prevent the flooding of vital war industries.

(During the verification of the roll)

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in accordance with the Rules of the House is it not proper for the Members present in the Hall of the House at the time the yeas and nays are taken, to vote for or against a measure or a motion, unless excused?

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, this is not a bill, this is a resolution. I think under the Rules a man is not required to vote.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a ruling on my question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will read Rule 71 for the information of the members:

> Every member shall be present within the Hall of the House during its sittings, unless excused by the House, or necessarily prevented, and shall vote for or against each question put, unless he has a direct personal or pecuniary interest in the determination of such question, or unless he be excused by the House.

The Chair would state to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, that the affirmative roll has been verified and the gentleman could not be recorded on the affirmative roll.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I accept the explanation of the Speaker regarding the verification of the affirmative roll. However, is it possible for a Member of the House to know how another Member voted until he hears the reading of the negative roll.

The SPEAKER. The negative roll has just been read. Every member should know how he has voted.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, may I then inquire if the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tahl, has obtained an excuse for not voting?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield to Mr. Tahl?

Mr. LEVY. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I think I should explain why I did not vote. I am perfectly willing to state that the reason I said under the rules I was not required to vote was because it was a resolution, and in addition to that,

Mr. Speaker, I happened to be engaged in conversation with a Member at that time, and of course, I did not hear my name called. I want to say further that I have voted for the Pollution Bill and if the gentleman wants to know how I stand on it let him look at the record.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to know whether the gentleman wishes to be excused from voting.

Mr. LEVY. I desire to inquire now, Mr. Speaker, as to whether the gentleman from Philadelphia has obtained or asked for an excuse from voting on the resolution.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman can be recorded on the negative roll, if he so desires, but could not be recorded on the affirmative roll.

Mr. LEVY. With the Speaker's permission I will again repeat that my question is, did the gentleman obtain or was the gentleman excused from voting on the question?

The SPEAKER. He was not excused from voting.

Mr. LEVY. I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I want to say further that had I heard my name called I would have voted "No."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be recorded as voting "no" on the bill.

Mr. LEVY. I then desire to inquire, Mr. Speaker, how the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Mintess, is recorded as voting.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not recorded.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact that I saw the gentleman from Philadelphia during the roll call, I would ask has that gentleman obtained an excuse not to vote?

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Mintess, desire to be recorded or excused?

Mr. MINTESS. I voted "aye," Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LEVY. I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman cannot be recorded as voting "aye" because the affirmative roll has been verified.

Mr. MINTESS. I would like to be excused then, Mr. Speaker, if I cannot be recorded as voting "aye".

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to excuse the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Mintess, from voting? Is there objection? The Chair hears no objections. The gentleman is excused from voting.

Mr. LEVY. I desire to inquire, Mr. Speaker, as to how the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Boyd, is recorded as voting.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not recorded.

Mr. LEVY. I desire to inquire as to whether the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Boyd, has obtained an excuse from the House for not voting?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Boyd. Does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Boyd, desire to be recorded on the negative roll or does he desire to be excused?

Mr. BOYD. I desire to be recorded on the negative roll, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Was the gentleman in the hall of the House?

Mr. BOYD. I was, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be recorded on the negative roll.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire how the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, is recorded as voting.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. Speaker, I am not recorded.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Blair will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, after a roll has been verified can any Member be excused in any form or shape whatsoever? Isn't a roll call to all intents and purposes to record the members voting?

The SPEAKER. The Chair has informed the gentleman from Philadelphia that the affirmative roll has been verified. Nothing can be done about that. We are in the process of verifying the negative roll.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, is not the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, then out of order in inquiring whether or not the Members who are not recorded have been excused?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not out of order in challenging any Member because we are in the process of verifying the negative roll. He has a right to inquire how a member voted.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. Speaker, I am not recorded. I have been a member for seven sessions of the Senate and three terms in the House and I have never voted to discharge a committee and I never intend to vote to discharge a committee.

This resolution is not offered with honest intention. I do not propose either on behalf of myself or on behalf of any of the Philadelphia delegation to have pulled on us what is nothing more or less than a political trick for political propaganda and for no other purpose whatever. The only intention is to try to besmirch the Members of the Philadelphia delegation who are supporting these bills on the subject of pollution. This proceeding is strictly Democratic political propaganda done for political campaign purposes, and neither I nor any other Member of the Philadelphia delegation will allow ourselves to be made the tools of Democratic propaganda. For that reason, which I consider a personal reason, I refuse to vote on this question.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, since the gentleman from Philadelphia has taken the time of the House in his answer—

The SPEAKER. There is nothing before the House except the verification of the roll.

Mr. LEVY. I then insist, Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, has stated it was a matter personal to himself. The Chair accepts that as a reason for not voting. We will continue with the verification of the negative roll and nothing else.

Mr. LEVY. I then inquire, Mr. Speaker, how the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Costa, is recorded as voting.

Mr. COSTA. Mr. Speaker, being in the hall of the House I voted "aye."

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman's name is not on the affirmative roll.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman's name is not on the affirmative roll. Will the House give its unanimous consent to permit the gentleman to be recorded as voting "aye"? The Chair hears no objections. The gentleman will be recorded on the affirmative roll.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire as to how the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Menna, is recorded as voting.

Mr. MENNA. Mr. Speaker, I did not hear my name called at the time of the vote but I would like to be excused.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman asks to be excused from voting. For what reason?

Mr. MENNA. Mr. Speaker, I would like to be recorded as voting "no".

The SPEAKER. Was the gentleman in the hall of the House?

Mr. MENNA. I was, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. LEVY. I desire to inquire, Mr. Speaker, how the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Dare, is recorded as voting.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not recorded.

Mr. O'DARE. I voted "aye", Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not recorded on the affirmative roll. Does the gentleman ask unanimous consent of the House to be recorded on the affirmative roll?

Mr. O'DARE. No, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman does not ask unanimous consent. The Chair would remind the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Levy, that we have a forty-nine page calendar and requests him to cooperate with the Chair. What does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Dare, desire?

Mr. O'DARE. Nothing, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire if the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Tiemann, has obtained an excuse for not voting?

Mr. TIEMANN. Mr. Speaker, I was not present at the beginning when the debate was on and was not fully familiar with it, but if it is in regard to pollution and silt I have a resolution that I put in the House during the early part of the session.

The SPEAKER. Was the gentleman in the hall of the House during the calling of the roll?

Mr. TIEMANN. Yes, I was, Mr. Speaker, and I would like to be recorded as voting "aye", backing up the chairman of the committee.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to allow the gentleman to be recorded as voting "aye"? The Chair hears no objection and the gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. LEVY. I desire to inquire if the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gorman, has obtained an excuse for not voting.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman does not seem to be present in the House.

Mr. LEVY. The gentleman is here, Mr. Speaker. I asked concerning the excuse requested by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gorman, and I am awaiting a reply from the Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman in the Hall of the House?

Mr. GORMAN. Mr. Speaker, I was in the Hall but I did not vote. I want to be recorded as voting "no."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. LEVY. I desire to inquire if the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walton, has obtained an excuse for not voting.

The SPEAKER. Is the gentleman in the Hall of the House?

Mr. WALTON. Right here, Mr. Speaker, I did not vote and do not desire to vote for personal reasons and I ask to be excused.

The SPEAKER. Will the House excuse the gentleman from voting? The Chair hears no objection. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Walton, is excused from voting.

Mr. LEVY. I desire to inquire as to whether or not the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Murray, obtained an excuse for not voting.

Mr. MURRAY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to vote "aye."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not recorded. Will the House give its unanimous consent to have the gentleman's name recorded on the affirmative roll? The Chair hears no objection and the gentleman will be recorded as voting "aye."

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I might add that I had desired to inquire how the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Lee, voted but in view of the fact that he walked in after the roll was called I won't question him.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE REFUSED

Mr. GRANT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to have unanimous consent to make a brief statement.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent? Is there objection?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I object, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, we would be very glad to grant the gentleman some time, but we have a lengthy calendar and have already consumed a great deal of time today. If the gentleman is willing, I would ask him to bide his time and speak a little later, after we have finished with the calendar.

Mr. COHEN. Did I understand the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter, correctly to state that we would take this matter up later?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I might say for the information of the House that by agreement on procedure for today, made with the Majority Leader, which information was conveyed to the Chair, resolutions were going to be offered by the two gentlemen whose resolutions have just been read and laid on the table, and a resolution offered by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Grant. All I ask, Mr. Speaker, is that that agreement be kept, inasmuch as the subject under discussion in the three resolutions pertains to the same general matter of business.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I will withdraw my objection to the request of the gentleman from Berks.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. GRANT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, when I went to law school I studied ethics, one thing that was impressed upon me was that the court and the members of the bar should be courteous at all times, especially to those who were young and inexperienced in the law. This is my first term, this is my first speech, and I am certainly under a handicap. I would be the last one to get up here and try to take any of the time of these Members. I appreciate the Speaker's position that he would like to have this calendar cleaned up and get this thing over with. I feel very badly about the matter.

At the Monday night's session being vitally interested in House Bill 57, Printer's No. 584, after the roll was called on said bill, realizing that there was a misunderstanding among some of the Members of the House in regard to said bill, I changed my vote from "aye" to "no" for the purpose of being in a position to move to have the bill reconsidered, and I now make that motion.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. GRANT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 57, Printer's No. 584, entitled:

An Act to amend section three hundred ten of the act, approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1987), entitled "An act to preserve and improve the purity of the waters of the Commonwealth for the protection of public health, animal and aquatic life, and for industrial consumption and recreation; empowering and directing the creation of indebtedness for the issuing of non-debt revenue bonds, by political subdivisions, to provide works to abate pollution; providing protection of water supply; providing for the jurisdiction of courts, magistrates, aldermen and justices of the peace, in the enforcement thereof, and providing additional remedies for abating pollution of waters; imposing certain penalties; and repealing certain acts,' by including the drainage of silt in the provisions of article three thereof; and suspending the enforcement of the act in certain cases," was defeated on final passage on Monday, April 26th, be reconsidered.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Grant, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. GRANT. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

The SPEAKER. How did the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Maxwell, vote on the final passage of this bill?

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I voted in the majority.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

MOTION LAID ON TABLE

Mr. LICHTENWEALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the motion be laid on the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. Mr. Speaker, for the first time in three terms in this Legislature—

The SPEAKER. The chair would inform the gentleman that a motion to lay on the table is not debatable.

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. Mr. Speaker, will the Majority Floor Leader withdraw his motion so that I may make a few remarks on the subject of this measure?

MOTION TO LAY ON TABLE WITHDRAWN

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I will withdraw the motion, Mr. Speaker.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion to reconsider the vote by which House Bill No. 57 was defeated on final passage?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. Mr. Speaker, as I understand it now, I am now in position to speak on the motion of Mr. Grant.

I wish to impress upon the membership of this House that on Monday night when this measure came to a final vote there were but one hundred fifty-two members in this House, and the vote then was insufficient to pass the bill finally. I think this bill is the most important measure that I have ever been privileged to introduce in this legislature. I know that the sportsmen and others whom I spoke about the other evening are very much in favor of having some relief by having this bill enacted. I do not want to anticipate any subsequent motion that may be made on the floor of this House but I think in fairness to all concerned, the least this House can do is to support a motion to reconsider, so that when a full membership is present on the floor of this House a measure of the importance of this one will receive the careful consideration to which it is entitled. For that reason I urge that the motion of the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Grant, to reconsider the vote receive favorable action by the members of this House, and any measure to block it be opposed.

MOTION LAID ON TABLE

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move you that the motion to reconsider the vote by which House Bill 57 was defeated on final passage be laid upon the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Tate and Mr. Grant and were as follows:

MR. HUNTLEY IN THE CHAIR

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 267, entitled:

An Act to add section nine hundred seventy-eight and one-tenth to the act approved the third day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven, (P. L. 1333), entitled "An act concerning elections, including general, municipal, special and primary elections, the nomination of candidates, primary and election expenses and election contests; creating and defining membership of county boards of elections; imposing duties upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth, courts, county boards of elections, county commissioners; imposing penalties for violation of the act, and codifying, revising and consolidating the laws relating thereto; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to elections," requiring persons nominated for office at a primary election who have not paid the filing fee required for the filing of nomination petitions for such office to pay such fee, and declaring vacancies in party nominations for failure to pay the same.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 666, entitled:

An Act to further amend section two thousand five hundred and sixty-six of the act, approved the twenty-third day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 932), entitled "An act relating to cities of the third class; and amending, revising, and consolidating the law relating thereto," providing for the appointment of delinquent tax collectors and defining their powers, duties and responsibilities.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the first reading and consideration of House Bill No. 718, entitled:

An Act to repeal sections twenty-nine and thirty-two, and to amend sections thirty-one and thirty-three of the act, approved the sixteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (P. L. 207), entitled "An act providing when, how, upon what property and to what extent, liens shall be allowed for taxes and for municipal improvements, for the removal of nuisances and for water rents or rates, sewer rates, and lighting rates, for the procedure upon claims filed therefor; the methods for preserving such liens and enforcing payment of such claims; the effect of judicial sales of the properties liened; the distribution of the proceeds of such sales, and the redemption of the property therefrom; for the lien and collection of certain taxes heretofore assessed, and of claims for municipal improvements made and nuisances removed, within six months before the passage of this act; and for the procedure on tax and municipal claims filed under other and prior acts of Assembly," further regulating the sale of real property for the non-payment of tax and municipal claims where a municipality is the claimant; providing for the discharge of all liens, mortgages, ground rents, estates and claims against such property by such sale, and eliminating the right of redemption after such sales.

And said bill having been read at length the first time, Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

Agreeably to order,

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection Senate Bill No. 34, Printer's No. 328, was passed over at the request of Mr. LICHTENWALTER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 165, entitled:

An Act to amend section six hundred seven, and to further amend section seven hundred one of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 177), entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers thereof, including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools, or Teachers Colleges; abolishing, creating, reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments, boards, and commissions; defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers, and of the several administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers; fixing the salaries of the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, and certain other executive and administrative officers; providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers, and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments, boards, and commissions; and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments, boards and commissions shall be determined," by authorizing the appointment of certified public accountants for the purpose of auditing the accounts of the Auditor General, and requiring the Auditor General to submit all books, records and papers to such accountants.

The first and second sections were separately read and agreed to.

Mr. COHEN offered the following amendments to the bill, adding thereto sections three and four:

Amend bill, page 6, by inserting after line 12, the following:

Section 3. Section one thousand one of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 1001. Power and Duties Retained. Subject to any inconsistent provisions in this act contained, the Department of the Auditor General shall exercise its powers and perform its duties as provided in the Fiscal Code and other applicable laws. In addition to any other powers and duties thus provided by law, it shall be the duty of the Department of the Auditor General to make all audits, which may be necessary, in connection with the administration of the financial affairs of the government of this Commonwealth.

At least one audit shall be made each year of the affairs of every department, board, including the State Workmen's Insurance Board, and commission of the executive branch of the government, and all collections made by departments, boards, or commissions, and the accounts of every State institution, shall be audited quarterly.

Special audits of the affairs of all departments, boards, including the State Workmen's Insurance Board, commissions, or officers, may be made whenever they may, in the judgment of the Auditor General, appear necessary, and shall be made whenever the Governor shall call upon the Auditor General to make them.

Copies of all audits made by the Department of the Auditor General shall be promptly submitted to the Governor.

Unless the Department of the Auditor General shall fail or refuse to make annual, quarterly, or special audits, as hereinabove required, it shall be unlawful for any other administrative department, any independent administrative board or commission, or any departmental administrative or advisory board or commission, to expend any money appropriated to it by the General Assembly for any audit of its affairs, or, in the case of departments, of any boards or commissions connected with them except for the reimbursement of the General Fund for audits made by the Department of the Auditor General as provided by law, or for the payment of the compensation and expenses of such auditors as are regularly employed as part of the administrative staffs of such departments, boards, or commissions, respectively.

Section 4. Any acts or parts of acts which provide for the audit of the affairs of the State Workmen's Insurance Board in any other manner than that provided under the amendments hereinbefore made to section one thousand one, are hereby repealed in so far as inconsistent with the provisions of said section one thousand one.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. COHEN. I first would like, Mr. Speaker, to interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I shall, Mr Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman agree with me that the purpose of this bill is to provide that accountants be engaged to audit the affairs of the Auditor General and the department of the Auditor General?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker. I believe amendments were offered in the Senate, and also in committee, that would allow the Governor to appoint men from the Revenue Department, accountants there to make this audit if he desires.

Mr. COHEN. Will the gentleman further answer me whether the affairs of the Auditor General under the fiscal code may be audited by the auditors?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I believe this is the only Department on the Hill that is not audited regularly, because the Auditor General does audit the financial accounts as to how the various moneys are spent, whether they are spent properly, and I imagine the only thing they could audit in this particular instance would be the accounting as to how the money was spent that was appropriated to the department of the Auditor-General.

Mr. COHEN. I rather agree with the gentleman, Mr. Speaker. But will the gentleman tell me why he used the language "affairs of the Auditor General" and why not "the Department of the Auditor General"? It seems to me that "the affairs of the Auditor General" would be rather a matter of personal property.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I cannot answer that, Mr. Speaker, why the word "affairs" was used.

Mr. COHEN. Does the gentleman feel that the insertion of the amendments in italics "affairs" adds anything to the bill?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. No, it does not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Does the gentleman feel then that the fact that with those words not in the bill the bill might be just as effective?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I didn't get the question, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. I asked whether with the word "affairs" omitted the bill will in any way be harmed.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I do not think so, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Will the gentleman further answer this question, whether he feels that all departments and the various boards of the Commonwealth which have to do with any of the money of the Commonwealth should all be audited and be under the same sort of supervision of some central body as to the expenditure of funds?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, upon interrogation the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter, stated, and I heartily agree with him, that all departments, boards, bureaus, and other agencies of this Commonwealth that handle Commonwealth money, ought to be under some sort of audit, because we appropriate to them what we are obligated to appropriate to them for the affairs of the Commonwealth, and we ought to know where the money goes, determine just how carefully the money is spent and whether it is spent for purposes proper under the law. I do not disagree with the gentleman that the Auditor General ought not to be audited. It seems somewhat peculiar to me to audit an auditor, but if that is the wish of the administration they may be on firm ground.

When I read the bill, it occurred to me that there was another department or agency of the Commonwealth which all these years has not been audited. That is the State Workmen's Insurance Fund, for which this assembly is obligated to furnish funds. In fact the only way to start that fund was by an appropriation by the House, passed upon by the Senate and signed by the Governor. If the fund ever runs out of money,—I understand the fund is in pretty good shape now, but if tomorrow they came to us and said "We are out of money, and we will have to have money to run this department", we will have to give it to them. If this is true in every other department of the Commonwealth then why in the world does it not apply to Workmen's Compensation? Therefore, if it is a matter of administration policy to make sure that we have audits, I urge for the sake of uniformity and consistency in watching over the Commonwealth's funds that these amendments be adopted so that the State Workmen's Insurance Fund shall hereafter be audited as provided by these amendments.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, in reply to the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, first in the matter of the language used in the act, which originally I believe was "the expenditures made by the Auditor General" was then changed to "the affairs of the Auditor General", I understand that is common language used for all the other departments, and I don't see that it should be changed in this particular instance.

As far as the Workmen's Compensation Insurance Fund not being audited is concerned, that is at present being audited by the Insurance Department of the Commonwealth. I think that would also apply to the various bureaus and boards under the various departments, which are audited by those particular departments, and of course at the present time the Auditor General is auditing the affairs of every department on the Hill. I don't see particularly that these amendments are necessary in order to give us a better accounting of the manner in which the moneys are being expended in the departments. Therefore, I would ask, Mr. Speaker, that the amendments be voted down.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, since the majority feels that the audit of the State Workmen's Compensation Fund is something to run away from, then I am prepared to make the following bold statement: I heard a rumor around the halls of the House and Senate that a certain gentleman who is not an elected official of the Commonwealth was running the affairs of the Commonwealth. If he is, I think it is a shame, but I have heard stories around that Joe Grundy was running the works. I did not want to believe such a thing, because I thought we all felt that we were elected and sent here, in our own minds, to represent our people.

Let us go into a slight bit of history as to how the Workmen's Compensation in Pennsylvania was passed back in 1915 or 1913, if my memory serves me correctly. It was a reform required and needed in Pennsylvania that certain people did not like, and they had to take it against their own wishes, and by public compulsion. Then within a very short period of time amendments to the original act were made, so that control over the Workmen's Compensation of Pennsylvania could rest with the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, and ever since that time,—and the evidence is piled up high, Joe Grundy and his outfit have commanded workmen's compensation in Pennsylvania. The only manner in which they could command workmen's compensation is by having the State Workmen's Compensation Insurance Fund as the backstop for all the junk that the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association won't write. The profitable business they have and the unprofitable business is tossed back on the Commonwealth for the Commonwealth to take.

In principle, Mr. Speaker, the idea is correct. Insurance companies should not be compelled to take risks that they do not want, but when you manipulate the Department so that you throw out of the Department, as was done in 1939 the good risks,—and there were 10,000 of them stolen from the State Workmen's Fund and leaving the junk, then it comes time to protest.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. BRETHERICK. The point of order, Mr. Speaker, is that the gentleman is not speaking on the amendment.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is very well taken.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will stick to the amendments that would require the Auditor General to audit the Stat eWorkmen's Compensation Fund, and I think the reason for having that audit is that Joe Grundy ruled the thing and Joe Grundy will manipulate the thing and Joe Grundy will ruin it.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman realizes that he is not speaking on the amendment. The Chair insists that the gentleman confine himself to the question before the House, the amendments to section three.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, I move that those last remarks be expunged from the record.

The SPEAKER. There is nothing before the House except the amendments offered by the gentleman from Philadelphia. The Chair insists that the gentleman confine his remarks to the amendments.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I just want to say that I just bought a new pair of shoes, and they hurt my feet. What I wanted to say was, and what I want to call to the attention of the House is, I don't just like to offer amendments and ask "Do you like the way they are written? Do you like the way the words are phrased? Do you like the paper they are written on?" I want to tell you what I am after, I want to tell you what they mean. If you know what they mean and therefore object, then the issue is clear. If you know that they mean what I said before, then object, but if the shoe is getting tight, then I suggest that you get another pair, and you can get them by changing shoemakers.

I think the amendments will provide a proper administrative change and a proper amendment to the fiscal code, and I think by their adoption, at least a little bit more than honesty is indicated, and we can make pretty sure that we will have a solution of our state problems that will not come back to haunt us in the years to come.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I think it comes with very poor grace at this particular time when we are considering a bill that would allow the Governor of the Commonwealth to employ auditors to audit the accounts of the Auditor General of Pennsylvania. Of course, if we want to drag anyone or any name through the mud as far as auditing of any accounts are concerned, then we on this side can stand here at great length and quote, not from members of the majority party, but from members of the minority party and their leaders in Pennsylvania who made the accusation as to how the money was being misused and misspent by the Auditor General of Pennsylvania. It is, as I say, with poor grace that we try to inject into a bill that is designed to give the people of Pennsylvania good, sound, honest accounting of the affairs of the department of the Auditor General. As far as the insurance Fund is concerned, as I stated before, there is an audit made of this fund, made by the Insurance Department of the Commonwealth, and the Auditor General in turn makes an accounting of the Insurance Department. There are no secrets, there is nothing hidden that the Auditor General, if he wants to do the job cannot do under existing law. Therefore, I again ask that the amendments be voted down.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

Will the House agree to the section?

On the question recurring,

It was agreed to.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will withdraw my amendments to the title.

The title was read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection Senate Bill No. 311, Printer's No. 331, was passed over at the request of Mr. LICHTENWALTER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 388, entitled:

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1. The act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 343) entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government providing for the settlement assessment collection and lien of taxes bonus and all other accounts due the Commonwealth the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties affecting every department board commission and officer of the State government every political subdivision of the State and certain officers of such subdivisions every person association and corporation required to pay assess or collect taxes or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth" is hereby amended by adding thereto after section one thousand three hundred fourteen a new section to read as follows

Section 1315. Manner of Payment of Escheators' Fees Informants' Commissions and Other Charges Due from Escheated Moneys All moneys which shall be escheated to the Commonwealth and all moneys subject to escheat but paid to the Commonwealth without escheat and transmitted to the Treasury Department shall be credited to separate accounts which shall be designated "escheat accounts"

All escheators' fees informants' commissions and other lawful costs in any case chargeable against any particular escheat account shall be paid therefrom upon requisition of the Department of Revenue and warrant of the Auditor General and so much of said moneys in such escheat account as may from time to time be necessary to pay such fees commissions and charges against such escheat account is hereby appropriated for such purposes

When all escheators' fees informants' commissions and other lawful charges against any escheated moneys or any funds subject to escheat but paid to the Commonwealth without escheat have been paid in any escheat case or when there are no such fees commissions or charges due the Department of Revenue shall so certify to the Treasury Department Upon receipt of the certification of the Department of Revenue that all such fees commissions and charges have been paid in a particular escheat case or that none are due the Treasury Department shall transfer the net proceeds from that case if it be from an escheated decedent's estate to the State School Fund and if it be from any other escheat or escheatable property to the General Fund

Section 2. All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

Section 3. The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 307, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Forests and Waters to be used for the acquisition of land within the limits of the "Bucktail State Park" and prescribing the uses to be made of such land

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1. The amount of ten thousand dollars ($10,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to the Department of Forests and Waters to be used for the acquisition of land within the limits of the "Bucktail State Park" as defined by the provisions of the act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 1415) entitled "An act dedicating and setting aside certain lands in Cameron and Clinton Counties as a public park and pleasure-ground to be known as "Bucktail State Park and imposing certain powers and duties in connection therewith upon the Department of Forests and Waters and the Department of Justice of the Commonwealth" no funds may be expended for the purchase of land under the authority of this act until the title to such land shall be approved by the Attorney General of the Commonwealth The land acquired under the authority of this act shall be controlled supervised and utilized in accordance with the provisions of the aforesaid act approved the second day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 141)

Section 2. The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Huntley.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Cameron permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HUNTLEY. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Cameron as to where the location of Bucktail State Park is?

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, I am very much surprised. Since it is very largely a Democratic bill that created the park, and it has been before this House several times during the Democratic Administration, but the Bucktail State Park runs from Lock Haven up the West Branch of the Susquehanna to Keating and then Sinnemahoning to Emporium. It takes in one mile on each side of that river. It is seventy-five miles long. It is the greatest place for wild life in Pennsylvania through which a large river passes. It is located just north of the central part of the state. However, it has possibilities as helping to clarify the pollution problem.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the gentleman from Cameron to say that there is more wild life in Bucktail State Park than in Harrisburg?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is out of order. Both gentleman are passing the "buck".

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 327, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the several fire companies of the City of Harrisburg Pennsylvania

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1. The sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000) or as much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated for the several fire companies of the city of Harrisburg Pennsylvania as compensation for protection from and extinguishment of any fire or fires that may occur in or on the Capitol buildings or grounds for the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and forty-three Said sum to be distributed among said companies in equal amounts

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McMILLEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not rise to oppose this bill, but I do think it is important that we call the attention of the Members of this House to what this bill is doing and what a bill previously passed is doing.

We have here an appropriation of five thousand dollars, which is a biennial appropriation to the fire department of Harrisburg, and properly so, for the protection of State property. We have also had for many years, a biennial appropriation to the fire department of Cresson for the protection of property and lives in the Cresson Sanitarium. I would just like to point out to the Members of the House that the state is fulfilling an obligation that they have in making these appropriations, but I would like to call to the attention of the House that they have other institutions, state-owned and state-maintained in which are housed many individuals who are not able to take care of themselves nearly as well as the people who inhabit the buildings in Harrisburg.

We have for instance the Torrance State Hospital. Thousands of people are behind iron bars because they are mentally incapacitated and unable to take care of themselves. I wonder if fire protection is adequately provided at these institutions, particularly at Torrance. We have in Indiana the Indiana State College with hundreds of people sleeping in buildings that have iron roofs. There are many instances. We have one in Somerset County where we are going to put the State into position where they have done their best to protect the lives of some of these people in these institutions. If something should happen in these institutions and lives should be lost and it could be proved that there was inadequate fire protection, then where would the state be under that situation?

We realize very definitely that there is a budgetary problem here. It is going to take some money to adequately take care of these institutions with adequate fire protection, and I would like to call to the attention of the House that something should be done before the state finds itself in an unenviable position.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 975, Printer's No. 580, was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER pro tempore.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1006, as follows:

An Act authorizing and directing the Department of Highways to erect and construct and maintain as a post war construction project a toll bridge over the Ohio River at a point in the Borough of Aliquippa in the vicinity of Franklin Avenue and to provide the necessary approaches thereto providing for the acceptance of Federal aid empowering counties to pay certain damages providing for the collection of tolls on such bridge and making an appropriation

Section 1 The Department of Highways is hereby authorized and directed to erect and construct a toll bridge over the Ohio River at a point in the Borough of Aliquippa in the vicinity of Franklin Avenue and to acquire the necessary land for approaches thereto

In the construction of said bridge and the approaches thereto the Department of Highways shall have all of the powers and authority conferred with respect to the relocation widening or construction of State highways including the exercise of the power of eminent domain Any damages sustained by reason of taking property in the relocation widening or construction of any such bridge and the approaches thereto shall be ascertained in accordance with laws applicable to the ascertainment of damages in relocating widening or constructing State highways and such damages when ascertained shall be paid by the Commonwealth or county or counties as may be agreed upon in accordance with the laws relating to State highways

Section 2 The Department of Highways is hereby authorized to accept grants of funds from any Federal agency for the construction of such bridge and the approaches thereto and connections with State highways Any such moneys shall be held by the State Treasurer as custodian for the Department of Highways and the same shall be paid out on requisition of the department without further appropriation

Section 3 If such bridge is to be constructed under contract and to be paid for wholly or in part from Federal funds and the project involves additional work to be contracted and paid for by a county or counties the advertisement by the Department of Highways shall be the only advertising necessary any other acts or requirements to the contrary notwithstanding

Section 4 The Department of Highways shall have authority to make and carry out contracts and to do every other act necessary to carry out the project herein authorized and is authorized to conform to the requirements and rules and regulations of the proper Federal authorities with respect to such projects if Federal moneys are advanced for such project Nothing herein contained shall in anywise diminish any authority or powers now or hereafter conferred on the Department of Highways by any other act of Assembly

Section 5 The construction of the bridge for which funds as appropriated by this act shall be included among the various public works projects to be undertaken by the Commonwealth after the termination of the present war as a means of facilitating the transition from a war to a peace economy

Section 6 The Department of Highways shall after the completion of such bridge provide for the collection of tolls on such bridge until such tolls have been sufficient to reimburse in full the Commonwealth the Federal Government or any Federal agency which advanced moneys and any moneys paid by counties Such tolls shall also be sufficient to pay for the maintenance of the bridge its approaches and connecting highways during the period when tolls are collected and to pay the compensation of all persons employed on or in connection with such bridge As soon as the Commonwealth the Federal Government all Federal agencies and all counties that advanced any moneys have been reimbursed in full the bridge and its approaches and connecting highways shall be maintained by the Department of Highways free of tolls for the use of the public

Section 7 The sum of one million dollars ($1,000,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated out of the Motor License Fund in the State Treasury to the Department of Highways for the construction of such bridge and the approaches thereto and for the payment of damages for property taken injured or destroyed

Section 8 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in the interests of saving time and saving printing costs, certain amendments that I had in mind on this bill were not presented when the bill was on second reading.

I discussed with the Chairman of the Committee several items to which I had objected, and by agreement with him this matter will be taken up in the Senate. I might say that with the cooperation of the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, and Senator Chapman I think when the bill gets over there the amendments can be made.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 975, as follows:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Forests and Waters for the use of the Valley Forge Park Commission in payment of lands acquired by condemnation

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The sum of two hundred forty-three thousand eight hundred dollars ($243,800) or as much thereof as may be necessary is hereby specifically appropriated to Department of Forests and Waters for the use of the Valley Forge Park Commission in the payment of lands acquired by condemnation under authority duly granted by law and for which payment has not been made No part of the money hereby appropriated shall be used for acquiring lands in addition to those heretofore lawfully purchased or taken by condemnation

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Brunner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that this bill appropriates a sum of money for payment for land already condemned by the Valley Forge Park Commission?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. May I ask, Mr. Speaker, when those lands were condemned for which this money is appropriated?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. I think that lands are being condemned at the present time, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Do I understand then, Mr. Speaker, that the Valley Forge Park Commission has the continuing right to condemn whatever lands it wishes and then come to us for reimbursement?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. I believe that is true up to three thousand acres.

Mr. COHEN. Does the gentleman mean until they acquire a total of three thousand acres, or that each individual condemnation may not exceed three thousand acres?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. The whole acreage, as I understand it, is three thousand acres.

Mr. COHEN. And once they reach three thousand they may not condemn any more land? Is that correct?

Mr. CHARLES H. BRUNNER, Jr. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILLS ON THIRD READING

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 944, Printer's No. 359, was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 700, as follows:

An Act to amend the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 872) entitled "An act to consolidate amend and revise the penal laws of the Commonwealth" by making any attempt to commit rape a felony prescribing the penalty therefor and providing that whoever attempts to commit any offense made punishable by said act without completing such offense may be separately indicted tried and convicted for such attempt

Section 1. The act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 872) entitled "An act to consolidate amend and revise the penal laws of the Commonwealth" is hereby amended by adding thereto immediately after section seven hundred twenty-one a new section to read as follows

Section 721.1. Attempt to Commit Rape Whoever attempts to have unlawful carnal knowledge of a woman forcibly and aginst her will or whoever being of the age of sixteen (16) years and upwards attempts to unlawfully and carnally know and abuse any woman child under the age of sixteen (16) years with or without her consent is guilty of attempt to commit rape a felony and on conviction shall be sentenced to pay a fine not exceeding three thousand dollars ($3,000) or undergo imprisonment by separate or solitary confinement at labor or by simple imprisonment not exceeding six (6) years or both

Section 2. Said act is hereby amended by adding thereto immediately after section one thousand one hundred seven a new section to read as follows

Section 1107.1. Attempts to be Separately Indictable Whoever attempts to commit any offense made punishable by this act without completing such offense may be separately indicted tried and convicted for such attempt

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Weiss.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEISS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman to define an attempt to rape.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, I believe that the gentleman from Philadelphia will have to get a better authority than I for that.

Mr. COHEN. Very frankly, I will admit, Mr. Speaker, that I am no authority myself. If the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Weiss, would like to yield to anyone else in the House, I would like to know the answer.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

Mr. AUKER. I yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Moran, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland.

The SPEAKER. Possibly the Chair should move the previous question. Will the gentleman permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. WEISS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Seriously, we are dealing with the matter of adding another crime to the book. The question that has been asked me by several attorneys rather seriously is what the definition of this new crime is, whether it is sitting in the dark, rowing in a boat or riding in a buggy; whether things of that kind would come within the definition?

Mr. WEISS. Evidently some of the Members of this House are frightened by this bill, but I can assure them it is nothing to be frightened about or to worry about.

Mr. COHEN. That's what you think. May I interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland further?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. WEISS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I wonder whether this bill applies only to Dauphin County or to the entire state.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, getting as serious as it is possible on this bill, I might state that this bill was put in at the request of our district attorney, who happens to be a former Member of this House. Whether that makes it a good bill or not I cannot say, but anyhow, after receiving this bill we consulted with the Deputy Attorney General, then went into the law to see if this bill does not add something that is necessary in reference to the crime of rape, and I also had this particular bill checked by the Bar Association, by the secretary, and I have before me here a letter from the Secretary of the Bar Association, and also after having consulted with the Deputy Attorney General and after going into this matter from a legal angle, he makes this reference to this particular bill, and this is quoting the letter from the Secretary of the Bar Association:

> "However, to procure an indictment under Section 722 of the Criminal Code there must be evidence of assault and attempted rape, and that the attempted rape was against the will of the woman," but none of these are elements of the crime of statutory rape, and there could be an attempt to commit statutory rape on a girl between ten or twelve or sixteen years old without being against the will of the girl or without the use of any assault and battery, and in such a case as the law is at the present time certainly no indictment would lie."

Going further into this letter, quoting the same gentleman, he states:

> "You must admit there is a gap in our law, which will prevent the indictment for attempt to commit statutory rape on a girl at the age of twelve and possibly from ten to sixteen years of age. It is this gap that Mr. Bowers proposed to have filled by this bill, House Bill No. 700, and I believe with Mr. Bowers that such a gap does exist."

The rest of the letter, of course—

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I plead guilty.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, evidently there is a motive behind the tactics that are being used on this measure to try to laugh it out of the House and defeat it in one way or the other. I can assure you that we in Westmoreland County are interested in the enactment of this measure, inasmuch as this will clarify the law. I think the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Weiss, deserves the respect of the House to be heard on this bill that is up for consideration.

The SPEAKER. The Chair agrees with the gentleman.

Mr. PETROSKY. Certainly, there are certain difficulties at the present time which exist in the law which cannot correct this situation and we feel that this bill will take care of the situation and certainly is necessary at the present time in Westmoreland County, much more so than in any other county.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. BRETHERICK. How many people are speaking on this bill? This is a serious matter, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Two hundred eight.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, I am afraid this bill has too many gaps in it.

Mr. PETROSKY. Mr. Speaker, I was just trying to get the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Weiss, a hearing before the House.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Weiss, yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. O'Brien?

Mr. WEISS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of information.

Mr. O'BRIEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know if the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky, was speaking from personal observation or experience.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is not able to answer that question.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, I am rather inclined to agree with the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Petrosky. I do not think that this is any laughing matter. I do not think after all the Members of the House have had five minutes of relaxation, and have been very much amused over this controversy. I do not think this is any indication that we are going to get any where, because I think this is a very peculiar bill. There are some peculiar angles to the law which some not too smart lawyers take advantage of, which may be against public policy. I think undoubtedly a bill to correct one of these things is in order, and it seems to me the more you say the deeper you get.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. Speaker, in all seriousness this bill is a bill that should not be passed. We have on the statute books in our criminal code sufficient latitude for conviction or not conviction of any defendant arrested on a similar charge. This is just adding criminal offenses on the statute books that are altogether unnecessary and no doubt have been sent up here either by some district attorney or by somebody who failed or neglected or didn't have the ability to get a conviction in a case where he thought he should have had a conviction. I am serious in this. We have too many laws on our statute books that conflict, and this act would conflict with our criminal code and be absolutely of no advantage, but may tend to add confusion in conviction for this crime, which is one of the most serious crimes that can be committed in this or any other Commonwealth. I don't believe this bill should pass.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Weiss, the sponsor of the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEISS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, in all seriousness I would like to have Mr. Weiss tell us between what ages, just exactly between what ages this bill affect. What age of the individual does this bill affect?

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, on page 2 of the bill, line 3,

> Whoever being of the age of sixteen years and upwards attempts to unlawfully and carnally know and abuse any woman child under the age of sixteen years.

It applies between ten and twelve to sixteen years. The common law covers the crime of attempt to rape up to ten or twelve, but the common law does not cover between ten and sixteen as far as the attempt is concerned.

Mr. MAXWELL. That is all, Mr. Weiss. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Weiss, has the floor. The gentleman only yielded to Mr. Maxwell for interrogation. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland yield?

Mr. WEISS. I will yield, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, in view of the very sensible answer that the gentleman from Westmoreland gave, I really and sincerely think that this House should give this bill favorable consideration in view of the fact that there is at this time no definite protection for any girl, any father's daughter or sister of this House between the ages of twelve and sixteen years. Therefore, there should be something in the statute books of this Commonwealth under which that person could be punished. I think that this bill attempts to accomplish that purpose. Therefore, I would ask that the members of this House give this bill favorable consideration.

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland yield to the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Huntley?

Mr. WEISS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, this bill has to do with a serious question and I think it ought to be treated seriously. I believe in states where we have such laws as this that punishment is capital. It is just such bills as this that are used in the south to lynch negroes, to justify, you might say, or legalize the lynching of negroes. It is the attempted rape that causes lynchings down south, and the lynchers are a mob that are the judges of whether the man is guilty or not. I know it is a very serious question in some localities, and I really do not think much of this bill, because I am afraid it can be abused.

You know, according to rape on the statute books as of today, especially the common law rape, I don't know so much about the penal code, but as near as I can understand it is a one-sided affair. The female cannot commit rape; it can only be done by a male. What I mean to say, in the former days when the female did not have so many privileges as they have today, it was probably easier to define this crime under the bill than it is today. I just want to call your attention to the Federal Mann Act. That was passed in order to prevent what is commonly called white slavery. It never was supposed to cover personal escapades, but the courts have construed it so that a woman can entice a man across the border of a state and then she can claim that he enticed her and the jury nine times out of ten will convict him. You know how that act has been abused, and in this day and generation when the girl does the courting instead of the boy, I can see how it can be easily abused like the Mann Federal Statute has been misconstrued. From what I know of the law—and I don't know very much, it looks to me that the young girls of today have a great deal of protection. Take for instance, we have heard it said here on the floor that girls between the ages of twelve and sixteen have no protection from rape. That is new law to me. She has protection of the law of consent which makes it statutory rape whether there is common law rape or not, and I am inclined to think that from my experience in states where we have had capital punishment for rape, that it is always better defined than it is in this act. Therefore, I feel that I must vote against it.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, in answering Mr. Huntley and the statement of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, although I respect the wisdom and statesmanship of his years, I certainly cannot agree with his legal reasoning especially with respect to particular interest in this bill. I happened to be defense attorney in certain cases, and therefore it certainly is of no particular interest to me insofar as it relates to the bench and to the prosecution under this particular bill, but it happens that in these war times there are more sex crimes committed than at any other time, and there are more girls between the ages of twelve and sixteen being attacked by sex maniacs. They are not going to be treated gently; they are going to get the whole book thrown at them. If they are going to bring a charge of attempt to rape against them, they might as well bring a charge of rape so that this particular suggestion of blackmail doesn't bear much weight as far as I am concerned. But here is the bill, and many legal minds and the best legal thought, checking the laws of Pennsylvania find that there is need for such a law, and I say that men who are sworn to do their duty, our district attorney is a very well respected man, and he suggested this bill. So far as delinquency in our county and sex crimes are concerned many of them have been able to get out without any punishment whatever. This bill attempts to cover what the present law does not cover. If it did, we would not be here today asking you to pass this bill. For the sake of the protection of these young girls from twelve to sixteen years, as far as their protection is concerned I will ask you one and all to vote for this bill.

Mr. FREED. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this bill. I believe in these days we have seen our Sunday newspapers instruct the girls how to slip the money to the boys not to look so foolish in paying the bill. I believe in reading part of the bill, that I agree with the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, and what he said about this matter being properly taken care of at the present time. Years ago I believe the situation was such that a man could not be convicted of rape by proving the reputation of the girl. This was very much criticized at that time, but it still holds true. I feel that we have law enough to take care of this matter, and I would like to oppose it.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, Mr. Weiss.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEISS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am serious about this thing. I would like the sponsor of this bill to explain how this proposed amendment will improve the present law and how it differs from the present law.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, common law rape covers as far as the young girls are concerned, up to the age of ten or twelve: "even though there has been consent and agreement". Statutory rape itself is covered by the law, by the penal code of 1939 in its enactment which states that any girl under sixteen years, if there has been a rape can be indicted under that particular section, but the attempt to commit a statutory rape, if the rape itself has not been committed is not indictable, and that is the point that this bill proposes to cover.

Mr. HERMAN. What does the gentleman mean, Mr. Speaker, by stating that the girl under sixteen can be indicted?

Mr. WEISS. Not the girl, but the individual who has attempted rape on a girl under sixteen can be indicted.

Mr. HERMAN. He is presumed to have committed rape, whether she consents or not, is that right.

Mr. WEISS. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, with or without the consent of the girl, he is presumed to have committed rape?

Mr. WEISS. If the actual act took place, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, how does the gentleman's bill express that?

Mr. WEISS. This particular bill would indict these individuals, even though the actual act did not take place but everything else did take place. I think that is plain enough.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I don't know whether I understand the gentleman. I am not quite clear on that. What does he mean by "whether or not the act took place?"

Mr. WEISS. I believe I would have to yield to my colleague—

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am serious about this thing.

Mr. WEISS. Mr. Speaker, of course, this is a ticklish situation to discuss. If I had Mr. Herman in the Conference Room we could go into the details.

Mr. HERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I regret that we are unable to obtain a real explanation upon the part of the sponsor as to the purpose or intent of this bill. On the face of it, Mr. Speaker, it seems to me it is a very dangerous piece of legislation, and a lot of innocent people may be convicted under such a law, and I for one would ask the House to oppose this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. SORG.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 510, as follows:

An Act to amend sections seven hundred thirty-one and seven hundred thirty-three of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 872) entitled "An act to consolidate amend and revise the penal laws of the Commonwealth" authorizing the courts to issue writs of execution and attachment against the property money and wages of defendants in separation and non-support cases and the attachment of wages in desertion and non-support cases

Section 1 Sections seven hundred thirty-one and seven hundred thirty-three of the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 872) entitled "An act to consolidate amend and revise the penal laws of the Commonwealth" are hereby amended to read as follows

Section 731 Wilful Separation or Nonsupport Whoever being a husband or father separates himself from his wife or from his children or from wife and children without reasonable cause or wilfully neglects to maintain his wife or children such wife or children being destitute or being dependent wholly or in part on their earnings for adequate support is guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be sentenced to imprisonment not exceeding one (1) year or to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars ($500) or both Such fine if any may be paid or applied in whole or in part to the wife or children as the court may direct

No such conviction payment or fine or undergoing imprisonment shall in any manner affect the obligation of any order for support therefore made against the defendant in any competent court

In any such case the court may suspend sentence upon and during compliance by the defendant with any order for support as already made or as thereafter modified If no such order shall have been made then the court trying the defendant may make such order for the support by the defendant of his wife and children or either of them which order shall be subject to modification by the court on cause shown and may suspend sentence upon and during the compliance by defendant with such order upon entry of bond by defendant with surety approved by the court conditioned on compliance with such order

The court may also issue the appropriate writ of execution against any property real or personal belonging to the defendant and its writ of attachment execution against any money or property to which he may be in any way entitled including wages whether present or to be earned in the future or whether under what is known as a spendthrift trust or otherwise which shall not exceed fifty per centum thereof and shall remain a continuing levy until the order has been paid in full with costs The person against whom an order is made shall not be entitled to the benefits of any exemption law now in force or hereafter passed

The provisions of this section shall apply to any trust whether it is known as a spendthrift trust or otherwise whether such trust was created or came into existence before or after the passage of this act Where an attachment execution is issued the further proceedings thereon shall be in the manner provided in the case of foreign attachments

In any proceedings under this section the wife or any person having the care custody or control of minor children shall be a competent witness

As used in this section the word "children" shall be limited to mean children under sixteen (16) years of age and also such children over sixteen (16) and under twenty-one (21) years of age as by reason of infirmity are incapable of supporting themselves "Separation" or "nonsupport" shall include every case where a husband has caused his wife to leave him by conduct on his part which would be ground for divorce or a father has neglected to provide for maintenance support and care of his wife or children or wife and children

Section 733 Desertion and Nonsupport If any husband or father being within the limits of this Commonwealth separates himself from his wife or from his children or from wife and children without reasonable cause or neglects to maintain his wife or children any magistrate upon information made before him under oath or affirmation by his wife or children or either of them or by any person may issue his warrant for the arrest of the person against whom the information shall have been made and bind him over with one sufficient surety to appear at the court of quarter sessions or other court having jurisdiction there to answer the said charge of desertion

The said court after hearing in a summary proceeding may order the person against whom complaint has been made being of sufficient ability to pay such sum as said court shall think reasonable and proper for the comfortable support and maintenance of the said wife or children or both and to commit such person to prison there to remain until he shall comply with such order or give security by one or more sureties to the Commonwealth and in such sum as the court shall direct for the compliance therewith The court may also issue the appropriate writ of execution against any property real or personal belonging to the defendant and its writ of attachment execution against any money or property to which he may be in any way entitled including wages whether present or to be earned in the future or whether under what is known as a spendthrift trust or otherwise which shall not exceed fifty per centum thereof and shall remain a continuing levy until the order has been paid in full with costs The person against whom an order is made shall not be entitled to the benefits of any exemption law now in force or hereafter passed

The provisions of this section shall apply to any trust whether it is known as a spendthrift trust or otherwise whether such trust was created or came into existence before or after the passage of this act Where an attachment execution is issued the further proceedings thereon shall be in the manner provided in the case of foreign attachments

Any wife so deserted shall be a competent witness on the part of the Commonwealth and the husband shall also be a competent witness

Should any such person abscond remove or be found in any other county of the Commonwealth than the one in which said warrant issued he may be arrested by the said warrant being backed by any magistrate of the county in which such person may be found

Whenever the court of quarter sessions of any county in the Commonwealth commits the person complained of to the county prison there to remain until he complies with their order or give security etc the court may at any time after three (3) months if it shall be satisfied of the inability of such person to comply with the said order and give such security to discharge him from imprisonment

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, I suppose every sponsor has an exaggerated opinion of the intentions of this bill, and of course if it is defeated on final passage, it is because everybody misunderstands. But it is not often that a bill generates as much adverse comment as this one did, indicating the importance of it, and it behooves us not to treat it lightly even though it has no political import. Because it deals with a serious situation and because it is important I shall be very greatful if the Members of the House will hear my story, a little bit of law and my very sincere reasons for introducing the measure.

The Members will recall House Bill 510, dealing with the enforcement of court orders in desertion and nonsupport cases or with those sections of the Penal Code that give to our courts the power to order and direct the payments by those who refused to support their families. If there were no such provisions as are included in the present bill, and the man refused to comply with an order of the court directing payment for the support of his family, the court would have no other alternative except to commit the defendant to jail, the practical effect of which is to make it impossible for the man to have any income whatsoever, making the hope of his dependants receiving more support even more remote, in addition to the fact that an additional burden of support of the guilty man himself is imposed upon society. In addition to that, the family has no benefit of his services. The job is only half done when a man is punished for his criminal neglect because his family still needs his support and his country needs his skill. To this end the proposal has two features. The one I am given to understand is not objectionable, and the other of which is objectionable. It provides that not only the man, but his property as well shall be subject to attachment for the support of his family when he refuses to do so and he is found guilty of the crime so committed. This is an unobjectionable feature because no new procedure is introduced and because it only makes uniform the provisions of the present law.

The objectionable feature, according to what I understand, provides that his wages shall be subjected to attachment for the payment of such court order, but in my humble, though considered opinion, there is no real basis for these objections, and I am going to ask the members of the House to support the bill. When I ask them to do so, Mr. Speaker, I am aware of the vast number of communications received in opposition to the bill, communications from employers who object that a great amount of clerical help will be required in order to carry out the provisions; communications from those who protest that wages should not be subject to attachment for any debt and from those who insist that there are already too many undeserving wives receiving payment under orders of court. There is no real basis, Mr. Speaker, for any of these objections under this bill. Yet, some members have told me that all of their communications were against, none were for the bill and therefore they must vote against the bill.

Unfortunately there is no reasoning with a telegram. There it is. You cannot say that even though it is conceived in error by an author who would not fully deliberate on the measure under discussion before he would condemn it. This bill does not impose any undue hardship on the employer; it does not open the door for attachment of wages or debt and it provides nothing for bad wives. On his point, Mr. Speaker, I cannot help begging the question just to say that if, as these employers say, there is such a tremendous amount of clerical work necessary and so many transactions would be required that there must be a lot of loyal Pennsylvanians desperately in need of a measure just like this. Yet regardless of the preponderance of telegrams against this bill, many members have told me that on reconsideration, and further study and further investigation, they will change their vote from "no" to "aye" and they told me why. The inconvenience to employers is so little, the amount of good that would be accomplished is so great, that I do not wonder sometimes that industry finds itself in the dog house for arbitrary thinking. But I know, Mr. Speaker, that those who have done the objecting in this instance are not speaking for the whole of industry, and I know that they do not even reflect the thought of most of industry in matters like this.

Mr. Speaker, the amount of clerical transactions that would be required is so insignificant that the present setup that the employers have for the deduction of union dues, victory tax, group hospitalization, and so forth, is more than adequate to take care of the requirements under this law.

Mr. Speaker, I want to say concerning the objections of those who say that favoritism is shown to guilty wives that this bill changes in no manner whatsoever the substantive law of desertion and nonsupport. It does not make a man guilty where he was not guilty before because it only applies after the question of right or wrong, or guilt or innocence is finally determined. In this connection I might say that I have represented husbands and I have represented wives and, of course, I have felt that the other side was always wrong. I conclude sometimes that the wife is at fault, but I have also observed that when it is the fault of the wife and the man establishes justification, there is no provision under the law that requires him to pay, and the court does not order him to do so, but I have never seen a case where the children were wrong, and there is no reason or no justification for refusing to support them under any circumstances. I want to say further that I would be the first to oppose any measure that would provide for the attachment of wages for debt, because I realize that it would be contrary to good public policy that a man should work and find himself without the means of obtaining the necessities of life, that on payday through some misfortune or through some improvidence of his own, he should find that all of his pay check goes to the payment of creditors. The law which protects wages is a just, reasonable and equitable one. A man's wages should not be attached for debt but the obligation we have here under consideration is not a debt. It is a legal, moral, social duty, like the duty I have not to go around punching noses when I feel so disposed. A duty that is more than a debt. I want to say Mr. Speaker that the working man I know is an honest working man, he is sincere, he is what we sometimes term a family man. He is the kind of a man who having one piece of bread, will see his hungry children have it before he himself would eat it. He is the kind of a man that sees in his wages first the welfare of his family. I say that the law protecting those wages is a just and equitable one, because regardless of the man's misfortune or of his improvidence, at least he shall have his wages for shelter, for food, for the welfare and comfort of himself and his family.

I am afraid that I must revise my opinion radically in my concept of the working man if I would see him come in here and call upon the law to protect him against his children. I respectfully submit that the man who says that Mr. Average Working Man opposes this does him an injustice. This bill hurts no one but the guilty. It helps no one but the helpless. I say that the bill has more than a nuisance value to it, because it goes to the very root of our basic philosophy, it deals with the seriousness of the marriage contract, it deals with the importance of the family unit in our American society. It deals with child care, it deals with the kind of child care referred to by the gentleman from Philadelphia Mr. Welsh, parental care. It touches very closely the thought expressed by the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Hoffman, when he said that we get ourselves into trouble when we lose sight of fundamentals and when we lose sight of our basic philosophy when confronted with a serious situation. I know there is no glory, there will be no cheers, no political capital for the Members who vote for this measure, but I commend it to you on principal, solely in the interest of justice.

With the assurance that there will be no radical departure from our present procedure I might say again that it is often that a co-sponsor has to indicate that there was really a misunderstanding when his bill was defeated on final passage, because the ink is still wet on a decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania that wages are attachable for the payment of orders in desertion and nonsupport cases. I refer those Members who might be interested to the opinion in the case of Commonwealth ex rel Deutsch vs. Deutsch, decided by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania on Monday, April 26. I might state that the very thoughts that we express here tonight in connection with this bill are those upon which the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania based its decision. In point of fact the bill does no more than to make uniform the present provisions of the law and to codify them to make all of the provisions precise and complete, to make them unequivocal, and in the case of all concerned in order to make them practicable. I ask every Member of the House to support this measure.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Elk, Mr. Sorg.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Elk permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SORG. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, has the gentleman had an opportunity to peruse the recent decision of the Supreme Court which invalidates the attachment of wages for non-support?

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, the copy of the opinion is not yet available in the office of the Prothonotary of the Supreme Court here in Harrisburg, but I did call the office of the Supreme Court Prothonotary in Pittsburgh and had him read the opinion to me, having in mind certain points that I thought would be the subject of interrogation.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman whether or not the court in the opinion decided that wages not earned could be attached or whether the decision referred to wages already earned?

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, the opinion did not refer to wages already earned or wages earned in the future. It leaves the matter entirely open. That is precisely the point on which there is still necessity for the bill in my opinion.

Mr. BROWN. In other words you feel that the decision prospectively will cover that point?

Mr. SORG. That is right.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, has the gentleman any authority to give us that wages earned in the future could be attached in view of the Supreme Court's decision which invalidated wages that have already been earned.

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, did the gentleman refer to wages already earned or to wages to be earned in the future?

Mr. BROWN. Does the gentleman have any authority to give for the validity of the act as to wages not yet earned?

Mr. SORG. No, Mr. Speaker, I have no authority. The only authority as to wages earned in the future would be this provision if enacted into law.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman think it would not be best for him to hold his act for a while to see what that decision actually holds. I believe that I talked to the gentleman on Monday about the Supreme Court decision and I would vote for the act, but I feel that we ought to know fully what the Supreme Court decision holds.

Mr. SORG. The opinion is in print and having in mind the specific question that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Brown, and I discussed on Monday I paid particular attention to the opinion and to the language of the Supreme Court in regard to that specific question, and I can assure the gentleman that he will not find it treated or discussed in the opinion directly or indirectly.

Mr. BROWN. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker I am reluctant to oppose this act but I feel that we are on dangerous ground. The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania decided that wages already earned could be attached. However, House Bill 510, looking to the future, says that wages to be earned in the future can be attached, and I feel that we ought to have an opportunity to study carefully the opinion of the Supreme Court and other authorities in other states to find out whether or not we have the right to pass such a bill. Of course, the gentleman will not have time to have that study. That is the unfortunate thing about this bill. I don't know how we can hold it any longer, because if he wants to get it passed I recognize the fact that it must go to the Senate, but inasmuch as we will be meeting four days this week, I wonder whether the gentleman would not be willing to hold the bill until we have an opportunity to consult the authorities. I think it is almost universally accepted that the Supreme Court would declare the attachment of wages unconstitutional, and the great majority of lawyers in Pennsylvania were wrong that time. However, if we find any authorities that wages earned in the future can be attached we will have no hesitancy in voting for this bill.

Mr. SORG. Mr. Speaker, if it were not for the fact that the bill provides for the attachment of future wages, I would have no concern about its being dropped from the calendar. I respectfully submit that the only way that can be determined as to whether or not future wages are attachable under a statute so providing is to have the statute and have the statute tested. I know of no provision of the Constitution that would declare the statute invalid, and it is specifically for that reason I am reluctant to have the bill dropped at the present time because even on behalf of those who have been making objections to the bill. I might say that the orderly procedure set up for the attachment of wages in the future is more necessary to them than for others concerned. In view of the fact that wages already earned are the only ones subject to attachment, we are subject to the cumbersome procedure of issuing a writ of attachment every payday and serving the papers on the employer, making the wage earner not only liable for the attachment itself but also for the attorney's fee and everything else involved. I regret the point brought up by the gentleman from Allegheny suggesting delaying the matter and I ask if the Members can see fit to go along with the bill they do so at the present time.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Elk, Mr. Sorg.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Elk permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SORG. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, not under this bill if an attachment were issued and even if future wages were attached would it in actual fact amount to very little because the writ would have to have a return day and after the return day th' could not attach any wages earned subsequent to that?

Mr. SORG. No, Mr. Speaker, I feel that a writ of attachment is valid only for the period of the term of the court and in most instances that is about three months.

Mr. TAHL. Mr. Speaker, what about in cases where the return days are monthly return days?

Mr. SORG. It is my understanding, Mr. Speaker, that counsel in past occasions having had the option of using intermediate return days for certain regular return days of the court.

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker, there is some question as to the advisability of giving a court power to attach wages of a guilty employe. Experience proves there is an occasional father who would rather go to jail than comply with a court order to support his wife during which time his children suffer. The Courts of Quarter Session already have the power to put the culprit in jail. However this bill allows the court to become his friend. The court can say to the prisoner, "John Doe, I can sentence you to jail but while you are in jail you are not earning any wages. Putting you in jail will not feed or clothe your helpless children. I therefore will not sentence you to jail but instead I will attach a portion of your wages." What can the prisoner say? As he has no way of escape there is only one answer, "Thank you Judge, I will come across". These neglected children become a charge on the public. Why should the public take care of the children of a court defying father who is receiving high wages, enjoying plenty to eat and fine clothes to wear and a comfortable bed in which to sleep? Why should he be allowed all the luxuries of life while his children are starving? This bill is not an attachment law to grab anybody's wages. There will be no need for attachment. This bill will not interfere with any law-abiding citizen. It will catch a very few willful and vicious outlaws and it will do it in a peaceful and humane way. This bill will do away with the necessity of attaching wages. In fact this bill will prove to be a non-attachment law.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

Senate Bill No. 347, Printer's No. 301;

Senate Bill No. 211, Printer's No. 302;

Senate Bill No. 48, Printer's No. 342; and

Senate Bill No. 49, Printer's No. 164

were passed over at the request of The SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 839, as follows:

An Act authorizing the Commonwealth to negotiate temporary emergency loans to defray the current and other expenses of the State government during the two fiscal years beginning the first day of June one thousand nine hundred forty-three evidenced by tax anticipation notes secured by and payable from current revenues levied assessed collectible and accruing during such two fiscal years defining the powers and duties of the Governor the Auditor General and the State Treasurer in relation thereto providing for the payment of interest on and the repayment of such loans and making an appropriation

Whereas The present session of the General Assembly has provided revenues of the Commonwealth amounting to at least three hundred forty million dollars ($340,000,000) for general purposes for the biennial fiscal period beginning June first one thousand nine hundred forty-three and

Whereas Such revenues though levied and assessed will not be available in large part for the current and other expenses of the State government until the later parts of the two fiscal years respectively of the said biennial fiscal period and the collectible revenues will not be sufficient to defray the current and other expenses of the State government during the earlier parts of such fiscal years respectively and

Whereas In order that the obligations of the Commonwealth may be met promptly and in order that the State government might not fail through lack of funds it is necessary temporarily to obtain funds to defray the current and other expenses of the State government during the fiscal period aforesaid until the revenues that are subsequently accruing to the State Treasury during said fiscal period are available for this purpose

Section 1 The Governor the Auditor General and the State Treasurer on behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are hereby authorized and directed during the two fiscal years beginning the first day of June one thousand nine hundred forty-three from time to time to borrow on the credit of the current revenues of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania such sum or sums of money not exceeding in the aggregate the sum of one hundred twenty million dollars ($120,000,000) as may be necessary to defray the current and other expenses of the State government during such fiscal years

Section 2 (a) Such loans shall be evidenced by notes of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania All of said notes shall mature not later than the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred forty-five Such notes are hereby declared to be tax anticipation notes Such notes or renewals thereof shall be issued from time to time for such total amounts in such sums and subject to such terms and conditions rates of interest not in excess of four and one-half per centum (4½) per annum and time of payment of interest as the Governor Auditor General and State Treasurer shall determine and direct

(b) All notes issued under the authority of this act shall bear either the signatures of the Governor the Auditor General and the State Treasurer or the facsimile signatures of the Governor the Auditor General and the State Treasurer in which latter event such notes shall be countersigned by two officers of the Philadelphia National Bank (Loan and Transfer Agent of the Commonwealth) All such notes shall bear a facsimile of the great seal of the Commonwealth

(c) All notes issued under the authority of this act shall have the qualities and incidents of negotiable instruments under the Negotiable Instruments Law of the Commonwealth

(d) The current revenues of the biennial fiscal period beginning the first day of June one thousand nine hundred forty-three are pledged for the payment of principal and interest of such notes which shall be payable in lawful money of the United States All notes issued under the provisions of this act shall be exempt from taxation for State and local purposes

Section 3 The proceeds derived from the negotiation of loans under the provisions of this act shall be paid into the General Fund of the State Treasury and shall be used for the payment of appropriations made from such fund to defray the current and other expenses of the State government for the biennial fiscal period beginning the first day of June one thousand nine hundred forty-three

Section 4 Any loans negotiated under the provisions of this act shall be secured by the current revenues levied and assessed for revenue purposes of every kind or character accruing to the General Fund of the State Treasury during the two fiscal years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred forty-three and shall be paid out of such revenues and so much of such revenues as may be necessary for the payment of the principal and interest of such loans are hereby specifically appropriated The Department of Revenue shall allocate such revenues to said payments

Section 5 The provisions of this act are severable and if any of its provisions are held unconstitutional the decision so holding shall not be construed to impair any other provision of this act It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such unconstitutional provision not been included therein

Section 6 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Rose.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman inform me in what manner the limitation of one hundred twenty million dollars was arrived at which is specified in this bill?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I would say in setting a limit, the top and maximum to which tax anticipation notes may be issued, it is sound policy, sound planning and sound legislation to pick a figure which is safely high enough that possible future loss of income will not involve the Governor and the Administration. The amount is almost an arbitrary figure, yet, we have figured the estimated revenues for a year, having in mind the thought that the principal income is held up for the next seven or eight or possibly nine months, and we have added a few more months to play safe to take care of any emergency that might arise and arrived at that figure of $120,000,000.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that the Commonwealth will complete its present biennium without a deficit?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, according to the present figures that is correct.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, is it not also true that the use of tax anticipation notes began about 1934 or 1935, when the tremendous burden of relief made it necessary for the Commonwealth to get income in addition to the tax income of that biennium?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I would say that the gentleman is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman familiar with the act of 1933 which permits transfers from special funds to the general fund?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, yes, in a general sort of way. I have not examined it recently.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman say that during the biennium of 1943 to 1945 the Commonwealth could transfer from the Highways Fund, for example or any other special fund, funds which are not being used at the time, to be used for general purposes, provided they are returned during the biennium?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Provided there is enough money in that special fund. Provided, further that the transfer would not in any way embarrass the conduct of that Department.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman contend that during the present biennium there will not be sufficient funds in the Highway Department, for example, to meet any purposes of the general fund, against which we are appropriating in this biennium?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I make no such contention.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman aware of the fact that the Highway program has been practically curtailed completely for the duration of the war, due to the fact that we cannot get the materials?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. That is substantially correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman still believe that we should pass a bill authorizing the Commonwealth to borrow up to $120,000,000 in tax anticipation notes during the next biennium?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, hoping all the time, of course, that it will never become necessary, but if it ever becomes necessary I still feel it is sound legislation to pass this particular bill, yes.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman agree with the item in section 2, page 3 of the bill, that the Commonwealth should be authorized to pay up to four and one-half per cent on the tax anticipation notes?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. The section of the bill which the gentleman has before him does not say that the Commonwealth shall pay four and one-half per cent. It is a maximum estimate, it is a safe amount to cover any possible contingency which may arise. Naturally if the money can be borrowed for less, it will be.

Mr. READINGER. I appreciate that, Mr. Speaker, but my question was, does the gentleman believe we should authorize the Commonwealth to pay up to that amount of interest?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, having in mind that we are providing for unforeseen contingencies, and it might for some reason not now apparent become necessary to pay up to that amount, I say that it is wise to put it in in that manner, yes.

Mr. READINGER. Mr. Speaker, I am not rising to oppose the passage of this bill. We may need to borrow some money in tax anticipation notes, but I simply raise these questions to indicate to the Commonwealth that there should be no careless transferring of these funds at a time when we not only do not have a deficit, but at a time when the special funds, like the highway fund, will have a great amount of money in them, which the Commonwealth may use during the biennium without harming the purposes of any of those funds. During the period when the Commonwealth was in the depths of depression, when relief was consuming millions of dollars, there was a real need for this type of financing, but what happened at that time has ended. It is because this bill is so worded that we shall not pay in excess of a certain amount of interest that I am willing to go along with this bill. I want these things on the record, so that the Commonwealth officials may know that the Legislature does not want to see any borrowing which is not absolutely necessary.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I feel that we should not go along with this piece of legislation due to the fact that there are still measures that we will vote upon in which the revenue of this state will be reduced to the special privileged class, and if we have to borrow money and pay interest upon that money borrowed at a later date, we will come back and ask the poor class of people, the least able to pay taxes, to pay the interest which we will be compelled to pay for borrowing this money. I therefore think that we should at this time not pass this kind of legislation, when we are willing to allow the special privileged of the state of Pennsylvania to receive tax reductions, when they are making more money than they have ever made in the last ten years.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LOVETT. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Westmoreland what pending legislation he makes reference to.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, there is legislation that I feel has not passed the Senate of Pennsylvania which we have passed in this House. Just the other night we passed a piece of legislation which deprives the Department of Revenue by the words of the sponsor of the bill of at least $110,000 and I do not think that that piece of legislation has as yet passed the Senate.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, taking the arguments in chronological order, I would like to first answer the remarks of the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Readinger, by pointing out that one of the advantages of the issuance of tax anticipation notes over the transfer from special funds is that it requires an act to transfer special funds, and to do that it is necessary for the Legislature to be in session. The argument that it would be safe to rely on the transfer from special funds completely misses the purpose of this act. I should point out that the only reason that the tax anticipation notes are a desirable feature is that the tax money as planned by the Legislature is sufficient to cover the expenditures but it is not presently and immediately available. There is a small amount of collections from now until next February, possibly March. That is the first time that we begin to get the bulk of our tax money, and in the meantime we may have embarrassed the administration of the state's finances in having to hold off the payment of bills and delaying the transferring until such time as we get that income. We might further seriously embarrass the administration of relief. This plan is merely to float a bond issue as required from time to time, to cover the time period until those taxes are available to us. The bids are of course competitive, and I think the gentleman from Berks need have no fear that there will be any careless borrowing. No administration, Republican or Democrat, is anxious to borrow money when it is not necessary and lay themselves open to a charge that they are careless in borrowing. Certainly we are not going to borrow unless it is absolutely necessary.

Let me say in conclusion, in reply to the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Lovett, the tax reduction he is talking about falls in the same class as those that have already been mentioned, and that is that those reductions as mentioned by him do not affect our maintenance. Regardless of whether they are in a reduced form or in their old form they would not yield revenue immediately. This bill is merely an insurance against financial embarrassment of the administration in the finances of the state and in the administration of relief until the money due under the tax measures becomes available to us for use.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Rose.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman point out to me where under this act these bills for these notes are to be competitive?

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. Mr. Speaker, nowhere in the act or in the bill is it provided that they must be competitive. That is a matter of practice, it is a matter of economy and they have always done so. We are proud to say that we have had our tax borrowing rate down well below one percent.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, does not the gentleman believe that the proper legislative enactment is to provide specifically that there shall be competitive bidding, just so somebody will not get the crazy idea into its head that it could pay a high rate of interest and do somebody a favor.

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE. I might say to the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, that that provision has never been in the act, even when the Democrats were in the majority and passed the acts. It certainly did not occur to me that anybody in the Republican administration would borrow money at a higher rate of interest than necessary to get it.

Mr. COHEN. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, this bill, to my mind represents some crazy financing. I suggest to the gentleman that there probably should be some provision for competitive bidding in this act, and I say that in view of the fact that this bill provides that the Governor must secure the approval and consent of the two Democratic officials, the Auditor General and the State Treasurer. Despite that fact I still think that sound legislation from this House demands that there should be competitive bidding on these notes because there is a limitation of four and one-half percent and because money in the market is cheap. I think that competitive bidding would give us a cheap rate of interest on our money.

This bill, as I pointed out the other night in connection with the Republican theory of finance that we had in the National Government some years ago, and is coming up again today, is to spend money in interest to banks and bankers when you don't have to, to reduce taxes when you are making a lot of money and to scrape for taxes when you are not making much.

The gentleman has brought up something that I would like to comment on briefly. I notice in the press today where high officials of the state have indicated that the one cent emergency gasoline tax is being held up in the hope that conditions will make it unnecessary to levy that tax, but giving the right to the Governor to veto. It has been our contention all the time that that tax was not necessary and should not have been enacted. I would say for the record again that at the end of this biennium we are going to have about thirty million dollars cash in the bank and I think that is well on the way to solving our fiscal problems when the new revenues roll in. I wouldn't like to make an accusation, but I would like to state that there is one other provision in this bill which grieves me very much. On page 4 of the bill, lines 3, 4 and 5, "All notes issued under the provisions of this act shall be exempt from taxation for state and local purposes." It is just another way of giving a lot of people a lot of money in tax exempt securities, the old Republican idea of giving a lot of money to the special privileged few. I think there is enough wrong with this bill that there should be certain amendments put in in the Senate if we pass it here. I think sound business, sound common sense would dictate that. In addition, tax anticipation notes were issued at a time when we did not have enough money to meet our obligations for relief expenditures, but our relief expenditures today are probably one-third of what they were at that time. This is merely a subterfuge to help out some of the fat cats to enable them to get some tax free investments for their money. I think there is enough wrong with this bill to have it opposed very seriously by all the Members of the House.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

E Upon the withdrawal of [prepaid or] full-paid shares and upon payment by the association the certificate representing such shares shall be surrendered to the association and preserved by it indefinitely Likewise any share certificate for which the association has issued a substitute certificate or which for any other reason has been surrendered to the association shall be preserved by it indefinitely

Section 612 Voluntary Withdrawals A Any shareholder may upon giving written notice to the association withdraw any shares whether full-paid [prepaid] optional payment or installment which are not pledged to the association as security for a mortgage loan granted by it The secretary or other officer designated by the by-laws of the association shall endorse on the written notice of an intention to withdraw required by this section the date of its receipt by the association and shall record such notice and the date of its receipt by the association in a book to be used solely for the recording of notices of withdrawals

B The association shall pay to a shareholder who has withdrawn his shares the [amount paid to the association

by him on] participation value of such shares less all fines or other indebtedness or charges due by him [plus such proportion of the earnings of the association or such rate of dividends as may be prescribed by the by-laws of the association minus the losses properly apportionable to such shares but the board of directors may by general rule or regulation and with the prior written consent of the department change such proportion of earnings or such rate of dividends] and in the case of installment shares less the withdrawal fee authorized by this act The amount payable to a shareholder who has withdrawn his shares shall be known as the withdrawal value of his shares

[C Any shareholder may upon giving written notice to the association withdraw amounts paid or credited on account of optional payment shares or non-serial installment shares without reducing the number of shares owned by him The term withdrawn shares in any other section of this act shall be construed to include such a withdrawal of amounts paid or credited on account of optional payment shares or non-serial installment shares]

D Except as herein otherwise specifically provided a withdrawal shall become effective thirty days after presentation by the shareholder of the written notice required by this section at a meeting of the association or if not presented by him at a meeting then thirty days after the first meeting of the association held after the receipt of such notice at the place of business of the association

Section 613 Involuntary Withdrawal of [Prepaid] Optional Payment or Installment Shares A An association may at or before maturity compel withdrawal of [prepaid] optional payment or installment shares which are not pledged to the association as security for mortgage loans granted by it but it shall not have the power to compel withdrawal of [any prepaid] any optional payment or any installment share as the case may be unless it shall have on hand sufficient funds to pay such withdrawals immediately and until [all prepaid] all optional payment or all installment shares respectively issued prior to the date of issuance of such share have first been voluntarily or involuntarily withdrawn In the case of installment shares issued in series such compulsory withdrawal shall be pro rata among the shares of the same series

[B The association shall pay on each prepaid share thus involuntarily withdrawn the full amount of the cash payment made thereon by the shareholder at the time of the issuance of such share plus the full portion of the accumulated earnings of such association properly apportionable to such share]

C The association shall pay on each installment or optional payment share thus involuntarily withdrawn the full amount of the dues paid thereon by the shareholder plus the full portion of the accumulated earnings of such association properly apportionable to such share

Section 615 Matured Shares A [An installment optional payment or prepaid share] Installment shares shall be declared matured by the board of directors of an association whenever [in the case of a prepaid share the cash payment made thereon by the shareholder at the time of the issuance of such share or in the case of an installment or optional payment share] the dues paid thereon by the shareholder plus the [full portion of the accumulated earnings of such association properly apportionable to such prepaid optional payment or installment share as the case may be after deducting the reserve for contingent losses created pursuant to the provisions of this act equal the par value of the share] dividends credited thereto equal the aggregate par value of the installment shares subscribed to by such shareholder Notice of such maturity shall forthwith be given to the holder of such [share] shares and at the option of the holder thereof such shares shall either be converted into full-paid shares or into optional payment shares or be listed for payment as withdrawn shares If the shareholder does not elect one of the options within thirty days after maturity such shares shall immediately be converted at the option of the association into optional payment shares or full-paid shares or be listed for payment as withdrawn shares

B If the shares thus declared matured have not been pledged to the association as security for a loan the association shall before making payment or converting such shares deduct an amount equal to any delinquent fines or other charges due it by such shareholder

C If the shares thus declared matured have been pledged to the association as security for a loan which is secured also by a mortgage upon real property then the mortgage shall be forthwith satisfied upon the payment of any delinquent fines or other charges due the association and upon the payment of a fee not in excess of three dollars and in addition thereto a fee of ten cents per mile if the place of business of the association is not located in the county where the mortgage is to be satisfied

D If the shares thus declared matured have been pledged to the association pursuant to a loan upon which the sole security is such shares the note shall be forthwith cancelled and the amount of the loan together with the amount of any delinquent fines or other charges due the association shall be deducted from the [matured] participation value of such shares The balance shall be payable to such shareholder in the same manner as provided by this act in the case of shares which have been declared matured which are not pledged to the association as security for a loan

[E The holder of a share which has been declared matured pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be entitled to cash dividends upon any unpaid portion of the par value thereof at the rate of four per centum per annum from the date of the declaration of maturity but the rate of such dividends shall not in any event exceed the rate of earnings apportioned during such period to installment optional payment or prepaid shares which have not been declared matured]

Section 616 Order of Payment and Funds to be Used to Pay [Matured or] Withdrawn Shares Power to Sue A Withdrawn [or matured] shares shall be paid in the order in which the withdrawals become effective [or the maturities are declared] but withdrawals which become effective [or maturities which are declared] upon the same day shall be paid on a pro rata basis However the board of directors may at any time [either] authorize payment of [withdrawn shares on a pro rata basis or with the consent of the department fix a maximum amount to be paid periodically on such shares The action of the board of directors in authorizing payment to be made on a pro rata basis or in fixing a maximum amount to be paid periodically shall also apply to unpaid withdrawals which became effective prior to the rate on which such action was taken by the board of directors] withdrawals not exceeding one hundred dollars to any one shareholder in any one month in any order

B At least two-thirds of the funds in the treasury of an association shall be applied to the payment of [matured or] withdrawn shares whenever such amount is necessary for this purpose but the association shall first deduct such amount as shall be necessary to pay current expenses and [interest or] dividends on full-paid shares to protect or preserve the asests of the association and to make proper provisions for meeting such obligations as it may reasonably be expected to be compelled to pay [Whenever two-thirds of the funds in the treasury other than such amounts as are required by this section to be deducted are insufficient to pay in full all matured or withdrawn shares such funds shall be applied to the payment of withdrawn and matured shares in proportion to the total amount of unpaid claims in each class]

C Whenever funds are not available in the manner hereinbefore provided to pay any [matured or] withdrawn share upon which payment has been due for a period in excess of six months eighty per centum of the funds in the treasury other than such amount as are required by this section to be deducted shall be applied to the payment of [matured or] withdrawn shares [whenever eighty per centum of the funds in the treasury other than such amounts as are required by this section to be deducted are insufficient to pay in full matured or withdrawn shares such funds shall be applied to the payment of withdrawn and matured shares in proportion to the total amount of unpaid claims in each class]

D Whenever [matured or] withdrawn shares have not been paid by an association for a period of six months after the maturities have been declared or the withdrawals have become effective owing to the fact that the funds in the treasury which under this act are to be applied to the payment of such shares are insufficient to pay them in full so much of the bonds or other obligations of the United States of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board [or] of a Federal Home Loan Bank of the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation owned by the association as shall be necessary to pay such [matured or] withdrawn shares shall be sold and the proceeds paid into the treasury of the association to be used to pay such shares unless the department shall give written permission to the association to hold such bonds or other obligations for a longer period of time

E For the purposes of this section the words "funds in the treasury" shall be construed to include all moneys received by the association from any source whatsoever except money borrowed from the Federal Home Loan Bank

F The holders of [matured or] withdrawn shares shall not have the power to sue for the amount due them by virtue of [such maturity or] such withdrawal until such time as under the provisions of this section [such matured or] such withdrawn shares should have been paid

Section 617 Fines A Any association may impose fines upon its shareholders for failure to pay dues on installment shares interest [or premiums] except interest on direct reduction mortgage loans or fines but a fine shall not exceed one-half of one per centum per month of the amount of the dues interest or [premiums] fines which are in arrears for the period during which they have been in such arrears [Such fines may be deducted from or charged against the earnings of the association properly apportionable to the shares in the association on account of which such defaults are made but fines for a longer period than six months shall not under any circumstances be deducted from or charged against the dues paid by the shareholders upon such shares]

B An association shall not impose fines upon the shares of a deceased shareholder for the defaults incurred after his death unless his legal representative makes a payment upon such shares in which case fines may be levied against such shares for all defaults after the date of such payment

C Fines levied pursuant to the provisions of this act shall not be deemed usurious

Section 11 Subsections A and B of section eight hundred eight and subsections A and B of section nine hundred three as amended or last amended by the act approved the fifteenth day of March one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 63) are hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 808 Segregation of Dues Upon Order of Department A Whenever it shall appear to the department that the affairs of an association are in such condition that the action hereinafter provided in this section is justified the department may by written order issued in the manner provided by law direct that all payments made thereafter on account of shares which have not been transferred and pledged to the association as security for loans shall be segregated from the other assets of the association and that the association shall not grant any further loans make any payments on account of withdrawn or matured shares or allow any credit for the value of any shares on account of the principal of any loan until such order is revoked in writing by the department Such order of the department shall be known as an order of segregation Such segregated moneys shall either be kept on deposit in a depository selected in the manner provided by this act or invested in the bonds designated by this act as authorized investments for associations The money so segregated and the bonds in which such moneys are invested shall be known as the segregated fund

If an association at any time after an order of segregation has become effective has no liability except to its shareholders arising from the ownership of shares it may with the written consent of the department transfer to the segregated fund a portion or all of any cash which it may have on hand and bonds if any designated by this act as authorized investments Cash and bonds so transferred shall become a part of the segregated fund the same as though paid into the segregated fund by the shareholders whose shares are not pledged to the association as security for loans in proportion to the [amounts paid in on account] participation value of their shares on the date that the order of segregation was issued Such segregated fund shall not be subject to any attachment issued on a judgment obtained by any creditor or shareholder of the association

During the period of segregation the segregated fund shall be available exclusively for the benefit of the shareholders who made such payments or for whose benefit the transfer of cash and bonds was made and may be withdrawn during such period of segregation upon thirty days' written notice

B All dues paid in during the period of segregation by shareholders whose shares are pledged to the association as security for loans shall be known as segregated credits and shall be applied as credits against the principal of any loans so secured which are repaid during the period of segregation

When any transfer of cash and bonds is made to the segregated fund the shareholders whose shares are pledged to the association as security for loans shall be entitled to segregated credits which shall bear the same relation to the [amounts paid in by them on account] participation value of their shares prior to the effective date of the order of segregation as the amount of cash and bonds so transferred bears to the total [amount paid in on account] participation value of shares prior to the effective date of the order of segregation by shareholders whose shares are not pledged as security for loans

If at any time during the period of segregation the segregated credits on shares pledged for a loan exceed the amount of the loan for which such shares are pledged all payments made by the borrower thereafter shall be segregated in the same manner as payments made by shareholders whose shares have not been pledged to the association as security for loans

Section 903 Security for Mortgage Loans A An association shall grant mortgage loans to its shareholders or to any person intending to become a shareholder upon the following security only

[(1) The bond of the borrower secured by the transfer and pledge to the association of installment shares in such association which belong to the borrower and which have a par value at least equal to the amount of the loan and further secured by a mortgage upon real property which belongs to the borrower such mortgage being for at least the full amount of the loan A loan secured in this manner shall be known as a share-mortgage loan and the mortgage securing such loan as a share mortgage]

(2) The bond of the borrower secured by the transfer and pledge to the association of one direct reduction loan [shares] share in such association which [belong] belongs to the borrower [and which have a par value at least equal to the amount of the loan] and further secured by a mortgage upon real property which belongs to the borrower such mortgage being for at least the full amount of the loan Provided That an association may accept and hold additional collateral of any kind if the loan meets all of the requirements of this act and could have been legally made without the additional collateral A loan secured in this manner shall be known as a direct reduction mortgage loan and the mortgage securing such loan as a direct reduction mortgage

[(3) The bond of the borrower secured by a mortgage upon real property which belongs to the borrower such mortgage being for an amount not to exceed one-half of the amount of the loan such portion of the loan to be known as the straight-mortgage portion of the loan and a bond for the remainder of the loan secured by the transfer and pledge to the association of installment shares in such association which belong to the borrower and which have a par value at least equal to the amount of such remainder of the loan and further secured by a mortgage upon such real property for an amount equal to such remainder of such loan such remainder of such loan to be known as the share-mortgage portion of the loan A loan secured by both a straight-mortgage and a share-mortgage in this manner shall be known as a split-mortgage loan A split-mortgage loan may also be in the form of a single bond and mortgage which meets all the requirements of this section

The straight-mortgage portion of a split-mortgage loan shall not be secured by shares and an association shall not charge fines upon such portion of the loan

An association shall not demand payment of the straight-mortgage portion of a split-mortgage loan except in case of a default by the borrower in the terms of the loan until the share-mortgage portion of such loan has been repaid in full by the maturing of the shares assigned or pledged as security therefor or by any other method Upon such payment of the share-mortgage portion of a split-mortgage loan an association shall either demand and enforce payment of the straight-mortgage portion of the loan or convert such loan to a share-mortgage loan or to a direct reduction mortgage loan upon the transfer and pledge to the association of installment shares or direct reduction loan shares in such association which belong to the borrower and which have a par value at least equal to the amount of such loan]

B An association shall not grant any mortgage loan unless the mortgage securing such loan (1) is a first lien upon unemcumbered improved real property the improvement being a dwelling for not more than four families which is used or to be used in whole or in part for residential purposes or upon real property upon which such a building is in the process of construction situated anywhere within the Commonwealth or where it is not a first lien upon such property every equal or prior lien is owned by the association and (2) does not together with any other lien held by such association upon such property exceed eighty per centum of the fair market value of such real property plus the [amount paid to the association prior to or] withdrawal value upon the day of the granting of such loan [upon] of shares to be assigned or pledged to the association by the borrower as security for such loan Provided however that shares of the association owned by any shareholder may be assigned or pledged as additional collateral security for the mortgage loan and in such event the mortgage loan granted upon such property may be increased by the withdrawal value of the additional pledged shares to an amount not to exceed a maximum total mortgage loan of ninety per centum of the fair market value of such real property and the association may release this additional collateral whenever the mortgage loan meets all of the requirements of this act and could be legally made at the time of release without the requirement of additional collateral An association shall not take any lien upon real property as security for a mortgage loan if such lien is equal to any lien owned by any other corporation or person

The provisions of this subsection shall not be construed to apply to a purchase money mortgage taken by an association upon real property owned by it nor to the readjustment or refinancing in any other manner of a mortgage loan owed to the association upon the effective date of this act

[Notwithstanding the provisions of this subsection an association may prior to the first day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-five grant a loan upon improved real property encumbered by a mortgage not owned by the association provided that the prior encumbrance not owned by the association does not exceed forty per centum of the fair market value of such real property and that it will not together with the mortgage securing such loan exceed sixty per centum of the fair market value of such real property]

Section 12 Section nine hundred six of the said act is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 906 Reduction and Extension of Mortgage Loans by Application of [Withdrawal] Participation Value A borrower may with the consent of the association have the [withdrawal] participation value of installment shares which have been pledged as security for a mortgage loan credited on account of the principal of such mortgage loan provided that he pledges or assigns to the association in lieu of the shares so withdrawn or applied [other shares in the association of an aggregate par value of not less than the amount to which such loan is reduced] one direct reduction loan share and converts the unpaid balance of the loan into a direct reduction mortgage loan

Section 13 Sections nine hundred seven and nine hundred ten and subsections A and B of section nine hundred eleven of said act as amended or last amended by the act approved the fifteenth day of March one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 63) are hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 907 [Interest Reduction Loans and] Direct Reduction Mortgage Loans [A A borrower with the consent of the association may have the periodical installments of dues on his shares credited on account of the principal of the mortgage loan at such times as shall be provided in the mortgage and also in its accompanying bond or other obligation if any and the interest and the premium if any thereon shall be computed on the balance of the principal of the loan in each case when the dues have been so credited The borrower in such case may agree that the subsequent dues on his shares shall become automatically increased by the amount of the reduction of interest and of premium if any in each case when the dues have been so credited so that the total of each monthly installment of dues and interest and premium if any shall remain the same until the loan has been paid in full but the right to have the dues on the shares credited on account of the principal of the loan as well as the agreement if any that the dues on the shares shall become automatically increased as herein provided shall be set forth in the mortgage and also in its accompanying bond or other obligation if any

The borrower shall have the right with the consent of the association when the dues so credited on account of the principal of the loan shall equal the par value of one or more shares to have the number of shares reduced to such number that their aggregate par value shall not be less than the reduced amount or balance of the principal of the loan still remaining unpaid The periodical installments of dues on the shares thus reduced as well as the interest on the reduced principal of the loan and premium thereon if any shall be payable after the date of such reduction the same as if the shares had been originally issued in such reduced number as of such date and such loan made for such reduced amount

When the dues on the shares are credited on account of the principal of the loan as herein provided such shares shall not participate in the profits of the association nor be subject to losses When the loan has been paid in full by the crediting of the dues thereon as herein provided the borrower shall be entitled to have his mortgage satisfied upon the payment of a fee not exceeding three dollars and in addition thereto a fee of ten cents per mile if the place of business of the association is not located in the county where the mortgage is to be satisfied]

[B Direct reduction mortgage loans secured by the transfer and pledge of direct reduction loan shares shall be repaid by the monthly application and credit of the dues paid on such shares on account of the principal of the mortgage loan Such loans shall be known as direct reduction mortgage loans] A mortgage loan secured by the transfer and pledge of one direct reduction loan share shall be repaid by the monthly application and credit of the dues paid on such share on account of the principal of the mortgage loan The interest or interest and premium shall be computed monthly on the unpaid balance of the principal of the loan and such interest or interest and premium if not paid [may] shall be added to the unpaid principal together with any and all payments or advances made by the association for taxes water rents assessments insurance premiums or other charges or advances permitted by law Payments made by the borrower shall be applied first to the interest or interest and premium due the association and the remainder of the monthly payment shall be credited on account of dues on the direct reduction loan [shares] share The subsequent periodical dues on the direct reduction loan [shares] share shall become automatically increased by the amount of the reduction of interest or interest and premium when the dues have been so credited to the principal of the loan so that the total of each monthly installment of dues and interest or dues interest and premium shall remain the same until the loan has been paid in full When the loan has been repaid in full by the crediting of the dues thereon as herein provided the borrower shall be entitled to have his mortgage satisfied upon the payment of a fee not exceeding three dollars and in addition thereto a fee of ten cents per mile if the place of business of the association is not located in the county where the mortgage is to be satisfied

[C The borrower shall have the right with the consent of the association to have the number of direct reduction loan shares reduced to such number that their aggregate par value shall not be less than the reduced amount or balance of the principal of the loan still remaining unpaid The periodical installments of dues on the shares thus reduced as well as the interest or interest and premium on the reduced principal of the loan shall be payable after the date of such reduction the same as if the shares had been originally issued in such reduced number as of such date and such loan made for such reduced amount]

[D A borrower may with the consent of the association convert a share-mortgage loan into a direct reduction mortgage loan or convert a direct reduction mortgage loan into a share-mortgage loan]

Section 910 Security for Share Loans An association may grant share loans to any of its shareholders upon the following security only The note of the borrower secured by [the transfer] an assignment as collateral and pledge to the association of installment optional payment or full-paid [or prepaid] shares which have not previously been transferred or pledged to anyone other than the association the [amount paid in on account] withdrawal value of such shares prior to or at the time of the granting of any loan upon the security of such shares shall be at least equal to the total amount of all loans granted thereon

Section 911 Repayment of Loans before Maturity A A borrower shall have the right to repay a loan to an association at any time [before the maturity of the shares securing such loan] unless the by-laws of an association provide that such repayment can be made only at a regular meeting of the board of directors of such association

B When a borrower repays a loan other than a direct reduction mortgage loan to an association [before the maturity of the shares securing such loan] he may

(1) Pay the amount of the principal of the loan in cash and have the shares securing such loan [retransferred] reassigned to him by the association or

(2) In the case of a share mortgage loan apply the [withdrawal] participation value of the installment shares securing such loan against the principal of such loan and pay the balance in cash or

(3) In the case of a share loan take credit for the withdrawal value of the shares securing such loan up to the amount of the principal of the loan and as to any balance remaining either acquire the rights of a withdrawing shareholder or have the reduced number of shares reassigned to him by the association

Section 14 Subsection B of section nine hundred twelve and subsection A of section one thousand one hundred six of said act are hereby amended to read as follows

Section 912 Demand by Association of Payment of Mortgage or Share loans

* * * * *

B Except as otherwise provided in this section an association which is not in the possession of the Secretary of Banking as receiver or of a liquidating trustee or liquidating trustees shall not except upon a default by the borrower have the power to demand payment of any share mortgage loan secured by installment shares or of any share loan secured by installment shares until the installment shares transferred and pledged to it as security for the loan have matured

Section 1106 Notice to Creditors and Shareholders A After the Department of State has [transmitted to the association] filed the [copy of the] certificate of election to dissolve the liquidating trustee or trustees as the case may be shall forthwith give notice to all corporations or persons who appear upon the books or other records of the association as or who are otherwise known to the liquidating trustee or trustees to be creditors or shareholders of the association Such notice shall be sent to or given at the address which appears upon the books or other records of the association for the particular corporation or person or if no address appears there then to the last known address of such corporation or person

The notice to each shareholder shall state the amount which the books or other records of the association show to be due to such shareholder It shall also state that unless such shareholder shall present his claim under oath or affirmation within three months from the date of the giving of such notice the amount shown to be due by the books of the association will be conclusively presumed to be correct

The notice to each creditor other than a shareholder shall inform such creditor that he must present his claim under oath or affirmation within three months from the date of the giving of such notice or else be barred from claiming an amount exceeding the amount shown to be due him on the books or other records of the association and that he must present his claim under oath or affirmation within six months from the date of the giving of the notice or else be forever barred from sharing in any distribution of the assets of the association

Section 15 Section one thousand one hundred twelve of said act as last amended by the act approved the fifteenth day of March one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 63) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 1112 Order of Preference in Distribution A The following shall be the order followed by the liquidating trustee or trustees as the case may be in the distribution pursuant to the provisions of this act of the assets of any association which is being liquidated in pursuance of a plan of voluntary dissolution

First Any reasonable expense incurred by the liquidating trustee or trustees as the case may be in the management liquidation or distribution of the assets and affairs of the association any fee or other debt owing to the department for examinations or other services rendered or penalties incurred any other claim of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and any other claim which is given a preference by law

Second Any claim of a creditor of the association other than the claim of a shareholder arising from his ownership of shares

B Every claim enumerated above shall have the same rank and priority as every other claim in the same numbered paragraph regardless of the order in which such claims are enumerated

C All claims provided for in this section shall be construed to refer only to claims presented to the liquidating trustee or trustees in the manner provided in this act and approved by him or them in accordance with the plan of dissolution

Section 16 The provisions of this act shall become effective on the first day of July one thousand nine hundred forty-four

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PAUL L. WAGNER. Mr. Speaker, inasmuch as this bill is some forty-three pages in length, I am just a little bit doubtful as to whether each Member of the House has carefully studied it and formated an opinion about its contents. I am certainly not going to read the bill at length nor am I going to make a speech that even approaches forty-three pages in size but I feel that it might be well, inasmuch as a lot of stories have been passed around more or less inaccurate, to summarize what this bill does.

Mr. Speaker, if we were to give this bill a name, we might call it the "People's Bill," because it is a bill that apparently both sides of the House have been looking for. It gives the little fellow a break and gives the small man protection. There are three questions that ought to be answered to the satisfaction of everybody here before anybody votes on the bill. First what does it do? Second, why do we need it, and the third is, who is asking for it?

What this bill does primarily is to establish in building and loan practice what is known as a direct reduction loan to capitalize deferred income only on building and loan investments. At the present time when a man borrows money on a sinking fund basis he starts out intending to buy a home and he finds out many a time that he might as well have played the stock market. This bill would provide that the state chartered building and loan associations would reduce a man's loan every time he paid something on the principal. If he borrows $5,000 and pays $50 on it, he no longer owes that, yet under the sinking fund provision in effect at the present time a man has often borrowed $5,000 for a home and he thought he had paid $4,000 back and he finds that he still owes $5,000 and very often he loses his home. There may be some building and loan associations, and there are some building and loan solicitors and there may be some building and loan secretaries who do not particularly like this bill because of the way they do business, but I have not as yet seen anybody who has received a letter from the little fellow or who puts his money into a building and loan association in which the stockholder has the privilege of paying his money two or three times according to the legal provisions who is against it.

We put money into the building and loan associations year after year and they issue statements that they have earned anywhere from six and a half to seven and a half per cent, but we do not get it. That statement may be made honestly, and maybe after twelve or thirteen years you will get those dividends, but circumstances may prove to be such that after they have accumulated for six or seven or eight years they are recaptured by the officers and directors of the building and loan association. That is what this bill does.

Why do we need the bill? Somebody said that the building and loan associations have been very successful in Pennsylvania for the past one hundred years and that we should not disturb such a very beautiful, delightful and happy situation. I say to you tonight, Members of the House, that since 1939 the building and loan associations of Pennsylvania have lost more than $1,300,000 and the total assets have decreased more than $1,100,000,000. If that state of affairs continues there will be no building and loan association in a matter of time. The only objection I find and the only objection that appears to have any logic at all about this bill is the fact that it seems to be favorable to the Federal building and loan associations. That is exactly opposite to the truth. What this bill does is to make it possible for your building and loan association and my building and loan association in which I am a director, makes it possible for us to compete on the same kind of basis as the Federal building and loans have set up. All the time that the assets of our state chartered building and loan associations have been falling off a million dollars, all that time the membership has shrunk over two-thirds in the past twelve years. The membership in the Federal chartered building and loan associations has risen almost one thousand per cent in the state of Pennsylvania. That does not hurt the Pennsylvania state chartered building and loan associations. It is going to save them if we have the sagacity and the foresight to look after the interests of the little fellow and if we are going to protect his rights.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, who is for this bill. That is a fair question. I say it is not the Wagner bill, it is not the Haudenshield bill. I do not claim it is an administration bill, it is neither a Republican nor a Democratic bill. It is a bill for the benefit of the little fellow who has to do business with the building and loans. The Department of Banking has been working on this proposition for the past six or eight years. They want it, they say we need it. In other words, the people who are for this bill, and will you mark this, and then I shall cease to ask for your indulgence, the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, including the man who is in charge of building and loans for the past thirty years, the experts in whose hands and in whose trust and in whose care and under whose supervision we have entrusted the building and loan investigations of Pennsylvania they say we want this bill, they say we need this bill if building and loans in the state of Pennsylvania are to continue to exist, and if the owners of the building and loans are to be protected from inevitable loss of their money.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support this bill because I feel that this is another means of protecting our state rights. If I understand the gentleman correctly, he said that the Federal building and loans are doing a much larger share of business in the state of Pennsylvania because the Federal building and loan law protects the interests of the little fellow. Unless we as members of the Legislature are going to be big enough and stand up and vote for legislation that is right, regardless of the selfishness of individuals, then I say to you we will lose our state rights. But when we are big enough to stand up and vote for legislation to protect the organizations within our state and make them financially sound, then we will protect the organizations of our state and we shall have state rights. I ask the Members of the House to vote for this piece of legislation.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, I think it will take me about twenty-five or thirty seconds to express what I am going to say in support of this bill. The heads of one of the large building and loans in our city who are opposing this bill very strenuously have been pestering me to use my influence to vote against the bill. They came up here to the public hearing held here a few weeks ago. A few days ago I got a letter from which I am going to read two or three sentences:

> "Last week we attended a very interesting hearing on House Bill No. 486, being the bill amending the present building and loan code. After hearing the discussion and talks with a number of those present and interested in the bill, we have come to the conclusion that House Bill No. 486 should be passed."

Mr. Speaker, I felt that this bill was a mistake, but after attending the hearing and giving considerable thought to the matter I am convinced that it is the best solution to correct the defects in our present code and to protect the stockholders particularly in cases of insolvency of associations. I think this bill is very, very meritorious and I solicit your support.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the people who would want this bill are investors and people who are trying to buy a home. May I say that today I am solicitor of a building and loan association in Philadelphia. It is not a very big one, it is run rather conservatively, it makes a rather nice profit for its investors. Its policy has been directed towards the benefit of the man who is thinking of owning his own home. Directors of this association are using this association not for their own individual profit. They consider it a sort of a little bit of a social obligation which they have as mature business men to help those who seek funds to purchase their homes.

May I say, Mr. Speaker, that this association requests and urges and asks that everyone support a piece of legislation of this sort because they feel it will give them an added measure of real protection to the man who must come to borrow to keep the roof over his head.

Mr. WILLIAM M. HUNTER. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I regard the present House Bill 486 as being almost entirely in the interest of the borrower and prejudicial to the interests of the investor. For years building associations have been strong largely because of shareholders, both borrowers and non-borrowers participate on the same basis.

In providing that all loans must be made upon direct reduction basis we in effect are proposing to guarantee to the borrower that his shares will mature under any circumstances in a fixed time, usually 139 months, and the necessary result of this is that under any conditions the saving shareholder must carry his shares for a much longer period, probably one or even two years.

In addition, the effect of this bill guarantees that in case the association must liquidate the borrowing member will not share to any extent in the losses and such losses will be imposed entirely upon the investor. It seems to me that this will make it extremely difficult to interest investors in shares. Without the investor there will be no funds for the borrower.

I believe that the best results will be obtained by having the law remain as it now is, namely, that associations at their option can grant direct reduction loans or installment share loans. With honest management such a plan will work well. Under any law, results will be poor where mismanagement exists.

It is true that many associations have been compelled to liquidate with losses to the members. I feel that in almost every instance the failure was due either to mismanagement or to unwise second mortgage loans. Had the associations limited themselves to first mortgage loans as now required by law most of the failures would never have occurred.

I feel sure, also, that the record of first mortgage associations will compare very favorably with experience of banks and other types of financial institutions and that on the whole the investor in first mortgage associations has fared much better both as to principal and income than has the investor in banks.

I am opposed to any present changes in the building association laws. As long as building associations adhered to their original principles they prospered. By this I mean that building associations were originally organized to aid home buyers. It is my information that very few first mortgage associations in the state became insolvent. I know that in the city of Chester no first mortgage association suffered very serious trouble.

At the present time the Chester associations are maturing generally in about 144 months. This means a profit or income to the shareholder at the rate of six and one-half per cent interest yearly on simple interest basis and five and one-half per cent yearly compounded semi-annually. I am sure that all of us will agree that this is a very handsome income and is far better than the income being obtained from any federel association, generally two and one-half to three and one-half per cent. I believe that the almost sure result of the proposed changes as set forth in House Bill 486 will lead to our associations very generally becoming federalized.

If this is done control of the associations will be handed over by the state to the federal government and I believe this would be very unwise. The federal associations as yet have not faced a depression and we do not know how they will come through experiences such as have faced State associations during the last fifteen years. It seems to me that those associations who have survived the troubles since 1929 have proven themselvese sound and they should be maintained in their present healthy form.

In my opinion the obligation to capitalize profits will lead associations to creating very large reserves at the expense of the shareholder and this will increase the time of maturity to a period of 13 or even 14 years. If this should happen the saving or investing member will not be attracted by the shares and hence there will be no funds which can be loaned to the man who wants to purchase a home.

I am opposed to the proposed House Bill 486 which would make direct reduction loans obligatory. In other words, this is a "must" Bill. I feel that each association should have the right as now to lend on mortgages as it prefers, on a direct reduction basis or on the State installment share plan.

The associations in Chester are today operating upon a very sound and profitable basis and are finding no great difficulty in procuring applications. Most of them are offering to buyers the right to take loans in the old saving share form or under the new direct reduction plan.

I also believe that the provisions which will permit members to withdraw at any time and obtain full book value less only nominal withdrawal fee will encourage cancellations. These will be harmful to the withdrawing member who thereby loses the benefits of a sound saving plan and also will decrease the ability of the associations to lend moneys probably at a time most necessary.

In addition, I believe that any immediate change in building association laws and particularly of the kind proposed in House Bill No. 486 will cause trouble and confusion and it seems to me that under any conditions changes should be gradual rather than on the wholesale basis set forth in the present bill.

I believe that we can do the most good for the building associations in Pennsylvania in encouraging them to operate more closely along the original ideas of those who started the building association movement in Pennsylvania, concentrating on the lending of funds to the individual home buyer and avoiding any exploitation of the associations by those selfishly interested in the sale of properties.

I believe that we should encourage the regular methodical payment of fixed sums each month instead of encouraging the hit or miss idea of paying as you please which in practice means that very few payments will be made in comparison with those which are made under the old fashioned plan of a mixed amount on a fixed day each month.

I received a communication from the Pennsylvania Building and Loan League, which is one of the proponents of this bill, setting forth the number of members and so on that have been lost in the last twelve or fifteen years, and also as to the amount of money that has been lost. There is no question of the number of building and loans that have failed in the last ten years, and most of these building and loans have lost through mismanagement, second mortgage loans and even third mortgage loans. I know in the last World War—I am in the real estate business—and I know there were lots of building and loan associations which were organized and made loans even on third mortgages. They would borrow all the money possible from banks and a second building and loan, and then they would turn round to a third building and loan and get another loan. Naturally when the depression came in 1929, or the crisis, those building and loan associations had to fail. There was no other reason for it. I don't care what kind of an organization you take, whether it is a bank, a mercantile establishment or a big organization, they can have all the capital they want, but if they don't manage that organization properly, they certainly will fail sooner or later. I know it has been said that they are afraid of the encroachment of the Federal building and loans and the old state associations. The comparison as I see it between the two organizations, the banks were unable to handle small loans on long terms so the Federal saving and loans were organized about six years ago to fill this need. The state building and loan associations were organized over one hundred years ago to help the man who wanted to buy a home. There is no danger of the Federals putting state associations out of business if they remain on the plan they are working under, but compulsory direct reducing mortgages and capitalization of dividends will certainly put them out of business if we have another depression like the last one and the members start drawing their savings out at the full book value.

Mr. Speaker, I would ask the Members of the House to consider this matter thoroughly and vote this bill down.

Mr. WALTON. Mr. Speaker, Mr. Hunter from Delaware has covered the ground very well. All I would like to say is that I happen to be one of the men who has opposed this bill right along and I am still opposing it. I am a member of this committee and I have letters from members of organizations, little fellows.

I belong to a building and loan association that has been in existence for twenty-five years. Although I come from the largest city in the state it is made up of sections all throughout the city and the people who live in my district, the biggest part of them wouldn't own their homes today if it had not been for the building and loan associations along the same lines as the small ones in existence today. They are coming back. I'll admit that they had a setback during the depression, but they are coming back and they are here today, and I don't see any reason for this Legislature up here to legislate them out of business. I ask the Members to vote against House Bill 486.

On the question recurring.

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. Lovett, Baker and Stank asked for a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

Less than the majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the negative and the bill falls.

THE SPEAKER (Ira T. Fiss) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Forest, Mr. Serrill, for presiding.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House Bill No. 79, Printer's No. 385;

House Bill No. 904, Printer's No. 485; and

House Bill No. 933, Printer's No. 487

were passed over at the request of The SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 1097, as follows:

An Act to further amend section twenty-one of the act approved the first day of June one thousand eight hundred eighty-nine (P. L. 420) entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation' approved the seventh day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine" by establishing a manufacturing exemption with regard to the capital stock tax and the franchise tax on domestic and foreign corporations joint-stock associations limited partnerships and companies

Section 1 That section twenty-one of the act approved the first day of June one thousand eight hundred eighty-nine (P. L. 420 entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation' approved the seventh day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine" as last amended by the act approved the eighth day of April one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 239) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 21 (a) That every domestic corporation other than corporations of the first class nonprofit corporation and cooperative agricultural associations not having capital stock and not conducted for profit and every joint-stock association limited partnership and company whatsoever from which a report is required under the twentieth section hereof shall be subject to and pay into the treasury of the Commonwealth annually through the Department of Revenue a tax at the rate of five mills upon each dollar of the actual value of its whole capital stock of all kinds including common special and preferred as ascertained in the manner prescribed in said twentieth section Provided That nothing herein contained shall apply to the taxation of capital stock of corporations limited partnerships and joint-stock associations organized for manufacturing purposes which is invested in and actually and exclusively employed in carrying on manufacturing within the State excepting companies engaged in the distilling of liquors and such as enjoy and exercise the right of eminent domain but every corporation limited partnership or joint-stock association organized for the purpose of manufacturing shall pay the State tax of five mills herein provided upon such proportion of its capital stock if any as may be invested in any property or business not strictly incident or appurtenant to the manufacturing business in addition to the local taxes assessed upon its property in the district where located it being the object of this proviso to relieve from State taxation only so much of the capital stock as is invested purely in the manufacturing plant and business

(b) Every foreign corporation joint-stock association limited partnership and company whatsoever from which a report is required under the twentieth section hereof shall be subject to and pay into the treasury of the Commonwealth annually through the Department of Revenue a franchise tax at the rate of five mills upon a taxable value to be determined in the following manner The actual value of its whole capital stock of all kinds including common special and preferred shall be ascertained in the manner prescribed in the twentieth section of this act and shall then be divided into three equal parts

(1) Of one-third such portion shall be attributed to business carried on within the Commonwealth as shall be found by multiplying said third by a fraction whose numerator is the value of the taxpayer's tangible property not actually and exclusively used in manufacturing situated within the Commonwealth and whose denominator is the value of all the taxpayer's tangible property wherever situated

(2) Of another third such portion shall be attributed to business carried on within the Commonwealth as shall be found by multiplying said third by a fraction whose numerator is the expenditures of the taxpayer for wages salaries commissions or other compensation to its employes not exclusively engaged in manufacturing in this Commonwealth and assignable to this Commonwealth as hereinafter provided and whose denominator is the total expenditures of the taxpayer for wages salaries commissions or other compensation to all its employes

(3) Of the remaining third such portion shall be attributed to business carried on within the Commonwealth as shall be found by multiplying said third by a fraction whose numerator is the amount of the taxpayer's gross receipts from business not strictly incident or appurtenant to manufacturing in this Commonwealth assignable to this Commonwealth as hereinafter provided and whose denominator is the amount of the taxpayer's gross receipts from all its business

The sum of the amounts determined in accordance with the foregoing three rules shall be the taxable value In a case where only two of the foregoing three rules are applicable the remaining third equal part of the value of the entire capital stock shall be divided into two equal parts each of which shall be apportioned in accordance with one of the remaining two rules If only one of the three rules is applicable that part of the entire capital stock attributed to business carried on within the Commonwealth shall be determined solely by that rule

The amount assignable to this Commonwealth of expenditures of the taxpayer for wages salaries commissions or other compensation to its employes shall be such expenditures for the taxable year as represent the wages salaries commissions or other compensation of employes not chiefly situated at connected with or sent out from premises for the transaction of business owned or rented by the taxpayer outside the Commonwealth

The amount of the taxpayer's gross receipts from business assignable to this Commonwealth shall be the amount of its gross receipts for the taxable year from (1) sales fees and commissions except those negotiated or effected in behalf of the taxpayer by agents or agencies chiefly situated at connected with or sent out from premises for the transaction of business owned or rented by the taxpayer outside the Commonwealth (2) rentals or royalties from property situated or from the use of patents within this Commonwealth and (3) dividends and interest except such dividends and interest attributable to the business conducted on premises owned or rented by the taxpayer outside the Commonwealth If a taxpayer maintains an office warehouse or other place of business in a state other than this Commonwealth for the purpose of reducing its tax under this subsection the Department of Revenue shall in determining the amount of its gross receipts from business assignable to this Commonwealth include therein the gross receipts attributed by the taxpayer to the business conducted at such place of business in another state

A rule shall not be deemed to be inapplicable merely because all the tangible property or the expenditures of a taxpayer for wages salaries commissions or other compensation or the gross receipts of the taxpayer are found to be situated incurred or received without the Commonwealth

(c) It shall be the duty of the treasurer or other officers having charge of any such corporation joint-stock association or limited partnership upon which a tax is imposed by this section to transmit the amount of said tax to the Treasury of the Commonwealth within the time prescribed by law Provided That for the purposes of this act interest in limited partnerships or joint-stock associations shall be deemed to be capital stock and taxable accordingly Provided further That corporations limited partnerships and joint-stock associations liable to a tax under this section shall not be required to pay any further tax on the mortgages bonds and other securities owned by them and in which the whole body of stockholders or members as such have the entire equitable interest in remainder but corporations limited partnerships and joint-stock associations owning or holding such securities as trustees executors administrators guardians or in any other manner than for the whole body of stockholders or members thereof as sole equitable owners in remainder shall return and pay the tax imposed by this act upon all securities so owned or held by them as in the case of individuals Provided further That the tax of five mills imposed by this section on reports filed for the calendar years one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and for each calendar year thereafter or for the fiscal years beginning in the calendar years one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five and one thousand nine hundred and thirty-six and for each fiscal year thereafter shall apply to the taxation of the capital stock of corporations limited partnerships and joint-stock associations organized for laundering and for the processing and curing of meats their products and by-products [and for manufacturing purposes] excepting companies engaged in the distilling of liquors Provided further That in case of fire and marine insurance companies the tax imposed by this section shall be at the rate of five mills upon each dollar of the actual value of the whole capital stock Provided That nothing in this act shall be so construed as to apply to building and loan associations chartered by the State of Pennsylvania

Section 2 (a) This act shall become effective on the first day of January one thousand nine hundred forty-five unless hostilities of the present war have not ceased by that time in which event this act shall become effective on the first day of the first calendar year beginning after the date of the cessation of hostilities in the present war As used in this section the term "date of cessation of hostilities in the present war" means the date on which hostilities in the present war between the United States and the governments of Germany Japan and Italy cease as fixed by proclamation of the President of the United States or by concurrent resolution of the two Houses of Congress whichever date is earlier or in case hostilities between the United States and such governments do not cease at the same time then such date fixed as aforesaid when hostilities latest in point of time cease with any of such countries

(b) The provisions of this act and the exemption granted thereby shall have no applicability whatsoever with respect to the capital stock tax or franchise tax covered by reports filed for any calendar year prior to the effective date of this act or any fiscal year beginning in any such calendar year but such taxes for such calendar or fiscal years shall continue to be collected under the law as it existed prior to the changes effected by this act Nothing herein contained shall be taken or construed to relieve any taxpayer whatsoever from the payment of any capital stock tax or franchise tax interest or penalty due or owing to the Commonwealth under the law in force at the time this act becomes effective

(c) The provisions of this act and the exemption granted thereby shall apply only to reports filed for the calendar year this act becomes effective or for any fiscal year beginning in such calendar year and for each calendar or fiscal year thereafter

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Winner.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WINNER. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman explain the purpose of the bill, not the provisions, but the purpose?

Mr. WINNER. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Cohen, I would say that this bill is another one of our post-war planning bills and has to do with the reinstatement of the manufacturer's exemption upon that portion of their capital stock which is used for manufacturing purposes only.

I might further state that this bill when enacted into law would in no way affect the revenues for the present biennium unless the war would be over by January 1, 1945, as the effective date of the act is the first day of January, 1945, unless hostilities have ceased by that time, in which event this act would become effective on the first day of the calendar year after the cessation of hostilities. This act will enable manufacturers to know in some degree what to expect in the way of taxation on their capital stock. In my opinion this would mean an incentive for manufacturers to locate in the state of Pennsylvania and carry through the period of time to take care of the slack which will come upon employment after the war is over.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman prepared to give us a definition of what will mark the end of hostilities?

Mr. WINNER. Upon the declaration of the President of the United States, the Commander-in-Chief.

Mr. COHEN. And would that have to do with any of the belligerent nations or any combination of belligerent nations, or just nations that are belligerent to the United States?

Mr. WINNER. Any nations with which we are at war, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Is the gentleman able to tell me how much revenue is brought in by this act at the present time, in the present biennium?

Mr. WINNER. Not at this time, Mr. Speaker, it is not complete.

Mr. COHEN. Is the gentleman familiar with the estimated revenue from this tax in the present biennium?

Mr. WINNER. I am, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Will the gentleman tell us what that estimated revenue is?

Mr WINNER. I can get the figures, Mr. Speaker. I do not have them in mind.

Mr. COHEN. I will wait for them, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WINNER. It amounts to forty-eight million dollars on the domestic capital stock and sixteen million dollars on the foreign capital stock tax.

Mr. COSEN. And does this bill affect both foreign and domestic corporations?

Mr. WINNER. Only that portion of their capital which will be used in manufacturing in Pennsylvania, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. May I ask if the gentleman has any idea of what proportion of their assets are involved in manufacturing processes?

Mr. WINNER. No, I have no accurate account of that.

Mr. COHEN. Is the gentleman familiar with the fact that today the Governor signed the administrative post war planning bill?

Mr. WINNER. I am, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Is the gentleman familiar with any provision in the bill which has to do with post war planning or the tax question, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. WINNER. No, not in that field, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Does the gentleman have any information that this commission that has been created has given thought to a program or a possible program for post war manufacturers?

Mr. WINNER. Not that I know of, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, here we go again. We are going through a rather peculiar era. We cannot find money for school teachers, we can find money for public utilities. We worry about having a surplus for this biennium; we deny that we have any; we are hopeful that we are going to make out all right in the next biennium, but in order to insure that we are not going to get caught short we are going to borrow two hundred million dollars, and in this bill, the Legislature is going to say that we are going to set a tax policy for the Commonwealth. It looks as if the Democrats are going to win the state next time and control the House and maybe the Senate, because if the Republican party was not afraid of that they would certainly not put through a foolish piece of legislation of this sort, not only foolish but absurd, not only absurd but ridiculous, not only ridiculous—I had hoped if Dave Sarge were here he might have some more adjectives. But, this is going too far.

Post war planning, Mr. Speaker, for manufacturers, is not planning for anybody else. I haven't been able in this session to find out what we are planning for after the present war, but we are sitting down now and saying we are very sure what we are going to have for the manufacturers in 1945, when the war is over. No one knows what money we are going to have then, but the manufacturers seem to know what to expect from the Republicans in the post war planning.

Mr. Speaker, it is ridiculous for us to sit here today and worry about what is doing to happen in the post war era, and today say that we are not going to have certain revenue, when we don't know what projects we are going to sponsor. I cannot think that the majority party believes in spending through the post war planning commission two hundred thousand dollars for blueprints and ideas and visualizing, and at the same time say that we are going to cut down anticipated revenue before we know what the all-over revenue picture may be in the next Session or the next four years. I would ask at least in all sincerity of the Members on the other side if they are going to vote "aye" on this bill to smile when they are voting. At least let us know that they have a sense of humor when doing it, because privately some of the opinions I have heard from the other side, it will take an awfully broad smile in order to get over the pangs of voting for a bill of this sort.

I have always heard that the manufacturers in Pennsylvania are astute and good business men, and I have hopes that the business men have some post war plans of their own. Maybe they are getting busy today by getting some reduction of taxes arranged for in advance. We have no idea what our school problem is going to be in the next biennium; we have no idea what our relief problem is going to be; we have no idea what our road program is going to be. The man who can tell me that he has a blueprint and can tell what it is going to cost ought to be in Washington in the White House, and I will stump the country for him. There is not a man in this House that can look that far ahead and say that he can give tax exemptions that will be effective four years from now.

This bill is so ridiculous that I can't get steamed up about it. It's a joke, but I am sincere in saying one thing, that the pattern is the same, take care of the big boys, take care of the fat cats up our alley; they are howling and howling; they are having a swell time, and I hope they don't fall off the fence.

Mr. LICHENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I think the importance of manufacturing in Pennsylvania is considerably greater than the importance of the same branch of any economic activity for the nation as a whole. Before the war Pennsylvania manufacturing accounted for about forty percent as against about twenty-eight percent for the nation. I say that our state policy which encourages Pennsylvania's factories to remain in Pennsylvania, which endeavors to induce manufacturers to come into Pennsylvania, and settle here and build plants and expand plants in Pennsylvania, which means more employment for our workers, is certainly a good sound policy, because after all more employment for the workers of Pennsylvania means that it is going to keep in Pennsylvania the standard of living that Pennsylvania have been accustomed to. It will not jeopardize the level of the living standard of Pennsylvania. Every activity in a community such as the storekeeper, public services, demands for the products of the farms depends upon the employment of the worker in the factories of Pennsylvania. Let us encourage them to expand and to grow, and to expand and grow in Pennsylvania. Let us have the good sense, if you please, to encourage business in Pennsylvania in order to maintain the high standard of living enjoyed in this Commonwealth. Let us not make the mistake that was made, I believe, in the Session of 1935 and again in 1937 and 1938 when business definitely threatened to leave Pennsylvania because of the tax situation. Many states in the Union have adopted manufacturers exemption plans such as we are trying to enact in Pennsylvania, and I say that an encouraging attitude of any state administtration towards business means much to the welfare of the entire state.

We know that many states after the conclusion of this war and states today are accumulating surplus moneys in their treasuries so that they will be able to induce industries to locate in those particular states. We have seen even in the past few years where many of our southern states have invited industries to come in, industries that have left Pennsylvania because of a program of taxation whereby they would be exempt from tax anywhere from two to eight years.

If we are going to keep our workers in Pennsylvania in the factories and in the mills, certainly we must encourage industry and business to remain in Pennsylvania, to expand in Pennsylvania in the post war period. There will be a period in which we will have to re-tool these various industries, when there will be great expense upon the manufacturer and upon industry in Pennsylvania, and it will be at such a time that industry because of a program in other states, a program that would to them seem a great deal more fair in the matter of taxation than what we have in Pennsylvania would be inclined to leave this Commonwealth and establish businesses in the other states.

Certainly we are in a competitive field with many of the states in the Union on this program of taxation upon industry and business. I think it is well worth while that at that particular period we give encouragement to industry and the manufacturers of Pennsylvania, definitely to equip our workers in the mills of Pennsylvania and to provide for them the wages so necessary in every community to maintain our standards of living. Yes, I say that we must make a choice. It is a matter of preference before us as Members of this House whether we want to create ghost towns, closed factories and lower the standards of living, increase unemployment in Pennsylvania, which means increased relief rolls, hundreds of millions of dollars probably in new taxes to take care of those on relief, and many other things that we know must come if we do not encourage business and industry in Pennsylvania. So I say that it is up to us to make the choice, and I certainly hope that our answer to these particular problems in question will be an affirmative vote for this bill.

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I would expect, with the solicitude that the gentleman from Lehigh has for the manufacturing corporations, and deleting that portion from his statement dealing with the past, and assuming that he had made the statement from that point on, I would have changed my mind, but, Mr. Speaker, the industrial history of Pennsylvania will prove from studies made in the past several years that industrial Pennsylvania began its decline twenty-five years ago. It didn't begin in 1934 or 1938 or 1940. I well remember back in 1936 or 1937 or 1938 when certain industries in Pennsylvania, notably the industry which is today getting the major share of the advertising of beautiful Pennsylvania to the world, threatened to leave and go into New Jersey if taxes were not reduced, because they were going to be driven out of business. Their taxes were not reduced, Mr. Speaker, and they are still doing business at the same old stand.

I don't know whether this idea is coming from the Department of Commerce or not. If it came from them we ought to wipe them from the books. I don't know whether the Department of Commerce would subscribe to this sort of provision, because it cannot be tenable from any viewpoint. It is just the same old gag, Mr. Speaker, to take care of the fat cats and let the "chops" fall where they may.

I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that future sessions of this legislature are going to sit here in a muddle and are going to regret the day that House Bill 1097 was ever passed.

I hope, with every other Member of this House, that the tax program of Pennsylvania can be put in such shape that we can reduce this tax or any other tax, but let me ask the gentleman a question, is he willing to agree today to a post war plan for the benefit of the little tax payer to do away with the two cent emergency cigarette tax, or to do away with the emergency one cent gasoline tax? Is he prepared today to have a post war program to encourage little people to come to Pennsylvania to keep the wheels of industry moving; to guarantee that they will never have a sales tax in Pennsylvania? When the gentleman is honestly willing and ready to agree to a program of that sort, then I am prepared to say that we will have a post war program for the manufacturers and the fat cats of Pennsylvania.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, if I understood the gentleman right he said there were many factories which left Pennsylvania during the Earle administration; is that correct?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I said there were factories, Mr. Speaker, which threatened to leave the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I believe that many businesses also definitely closed in Pennsylvania because of the tax program.

Mr. LOVETT. Did I understand the gentleman to say, Mr. Speaker, that there were some of our manufacturers who went into the southern states?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Would the gentleman give the membership of this House the benefit of the knowledge of the names of those particular factories that left Pennsylvania and went into the south, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I am informed, Mr. Speaker, and the gentleman I believe will agree, that if he will read the tax report he can probably get that information.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I answer the gentleman and say that I have read the Dent tax report, and I never saw anything about any business that left Pennsylvania and went into the southern states.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I would suggest to the gentleman to again take the time to read the report, and he will certainly see the reason why business threatened and why certain businesses did leave Pennsylvania.

Mr. LOVETT. May I ask the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, if he has the tax report at hand?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I do not have it here, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. May I ask the gentleman if it would be too much trouble for him to enlighten the new members of this House? I am sure they didn't read it and I think they should know if such a thing happened in the state of Pennsylvania? I would like it if the gentleman would get the report and read it to the Members of this House, those particular factories that left Pennsylvania.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. It is available, Mr. Speaker, in the library and available to any of the new Members that care to read that report. Besides, Mr. Speaker, I think the statement that I made is a matter of common knowledge to the people of Pennsylvania and even to the gentleman from Westmoreland.

Mr. LOVETT. Does the gentleman refuse to fulfill the request, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I have listened to the old story about the manufacturers leaving the state of Pennsylvania. I live in an industrial area. There were not any of our manufacturers who left the state of Pennsylvania. I never heard of any of them threatening to leave the state of Pennsylvania, and I want to say to the gentleman from Lehigh and the Members of this House that if you think you are going to reduce taxes on industry in the state of Pennsylvania in order to have industry come into the state of Pennsylvania when you now cannot find money to pay your school teachers a decent wage, I don't think there is anything else I need to say. I think you gentlemen know that this is certainly not the right kind of legislation.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

SENATE MESSAGE

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, April 28, 1943.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday afternoon, May 3, 1943, at three o'clock, and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday afternoon, May 3, 1943 at three o'clock.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mr. VAN ALLSBURG for himself for tonight and tomorrow.

CONGRATULATORY RESOLUTION

Mr. LICHTENWALTER offered a resolution which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 28, 1943.

If the success of the dinner served to the members, officers and employes of this House last night at the Penn Harris Hotel by the Chief Clerk of this House could be attributed to the wisdom of the members in electing Bill Habbyshaw to that position, then indeed is this a House of Wisdom.

The food was good, the entertainment was really entertaining and the attendance was all that could be expected with no admission fee charged.

Although it had been promised that no speeches would intrude upon the enjoyment of the evening, Ex-Speaker Turner took over and did not intrude. He was good.

Our host, of course, was there and skillfully directed the entertainment; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Members of this House for themselves and for the officers and employes of the House extend to the Chief Clerk of the House its thanks for the entertainment, for the dinner and for the opportunity to be with him and his guests. It was an enjoyable affair and one that will live long in our memories as a night to be remembered; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of this House shall have a copy of this resolution prepared and transmitted to the Chief Clerk as evidence of our appreciation and as a reminder of what he should do at the close of the Session of 1945 if we should be here again.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in support of the resolution may I say that I was awfully tempted last night to try to make a purely democratic affair out of the dinner, and for two reasons. For one real reason, that it served a real purpose having in mind about a month or so ago the St. Patrick's dinner that left us all in more or less a state of flux for a day or so. I was going to have the menu read at length, but I decided then that I would not inflict that upon the Members. However the gentleman came to our rescue, Ellwood Turner; he was there at length, and he gave us a good show.

I want to say seriously, Mr. Speaker, in all my years up here and the many affairs I have attended, without being one whit less appreciative and thankful to the gentlemen in the past for other dinners that have been held, I want to say that the dinner held last night was one of the swellest I have ever attended, one of the nicest and loveliest affairs that it has ever been my good fortune to attend, and my good friend, the Chief Clerk, although he lives in Dauphin County didn't have enough dancing partners for some of the boys.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was unanimously adopted.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the Chief Clerk.

The CHIEF CLERK (William E. Habbyshaw). Mr. Speaker, I want you all to feel that you made the party, not the Chief Clerk. You were a good bunch of congenial fellows. I heartily concur in what Mr. Cohen has said with respect to other banquets, never was the group of Members and employes so orderly and attentive. After all, that is what makes the success of a party, not the Chief Clerk. Thank you.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. LYONS from the Committee on Dairy Industries, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 539, entitled:

An Act to further amend section eight hundred one of the act, approved the twenty-eighth day of April, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 417), entitled "An act relating to milk and the products thereof; creating a Milk Control Commission; establishing its jurisdiction, powers and duties; regulating the production, transportation, manufacturing; processing, storage, distribution, delivery and sale of milk and certain products thereof; providing for the licensing of milk dealers and the payment of fees therefor; requiring milk dealers to file bonds to secure payment for milk to producers and certain milk dealers; authorizing the holding of hearings and the issuance of subpoenas by the commission; conferring jurisdiction upon courts to punish contempts and to prohibit violations of this act and of rules, regulations and orders of the commission; authorizing the commission to adopt rules, regulations and orders, and to enter into interstate and Federal compacts; requiring persons who weigh, measure, sample or test milk to procure permits or certificates, to take examinations, to pay fees therefor, to furnish certain notices, records and statements, and to use certain methods of weighing, measuring, sampling and testing; authorizing the commission to examine the business, papers and premises of milk dealers and producers, requiring the keeping of records and the filing of reports by milk dealers, and permitting, with limitations, the use of information obtained thereby; authorizing the commission to fix prices for milk and certain milk products subject to the approval of the Governor, and conferring certain powers upon the Governor with respect thereto; providing for appeals to the courts from decisions of the commission, and for the burden of proof upon such appeals; prescribing penalties, fines and imprisonment for violations of this act and rules, regulations and orders of the commission; defining perjury; defining remedies; repealing legislation supplied and superseded by this act, and saving rights, duties and proceedings thereunder; and making appropriations," by requiring further hearings on proposed orders and eliminating the requirement of the Governor's approval for certain orders of the commission and any amendments or revisions thereof fixing or changing the price of milk.

SENATE

THURSDAY, APRIL 29, 1943

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern War Time. The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John C. Bell, Jr.) in the Chair.

PRAYER

In the absence of the Chaplain, prayer was offered by the gentleman from Berks, Senator Ruth.

Almighty God, Our Heavenly Father, as we come to Thee today, our hearts are filled with gratitude because Thou hast given us the opportunity to serve. In this world where there is trial and conflict may we find some peaceful happy moments, may we feel that Thou hast sent us here to serve our fellow men as Thou didst serve them when Thou was here on earth, and may we spend our days in the spirit and attitude of the poet who said:

"Let me live in a house by the side of the road
Where the race of men go by;
The men who are good and the men who are bad
As good and as bad as I.
I would not sit in the scorner's seat
Nor hurl the cynic's ban.
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man." Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HEYBURN and Mr. SCARLETT the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE RESOLUTION

TIME OF NEXT MEETING

He also informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate as follows:

In the Senate, April 28, 1943.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday afternoon, May 3, 1943, at three o'clock, and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday afternoon, May 3, 1943, at three o'clock.

He also presented an extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

THANKS EXTENDED TO SPEAKERS ON BICENTENNIAL PROGRAM

In the House of Representatives, April 20, 1943.

The success of the celebration of the bicentennial of the birth of Thomas Jefferson held on Wednesday, April 14th, in the Hall of the House of Representatives at a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives, was due to those who appeared on the program.

That it was a success, is attested by the things that have been said about it since the termination of the meeting.

His Excellency, the Governor, again assumed his new role as State creator, and again delighted his audience with the charm and sincerity of his delivery, and the interesting nature of his discourse, and Dr. Robert L. Johnson, President of Temple University, brought to his audience a new conception of the third President of the United States.

These addresses, however, were the parts of the arranged program that were expected to be worth hearing, and it was that expectation which accounted for the large number of persons attending. It is needless to say that no one was disappointed.

It was, however, the speeches made by the two school boys of the Commonwealth, James M. Cammon, a junior at the West View High School, and Francis E. Zabkar, a student at Pennsylvania State College, that surprised and amazed and delighted every person fortunate enough to have attended the celebration.

Each held his audience by the substance of his discourse and the skill of his delivery, and won the applause and commendation of every one in attendance; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concurs), That this General Assembly is most grateful to His Excellency, the Governor, to Dr. Johnson, and to the young men who contributed so much to the success of the celebration, and to them it hereby extends its thanks, and its assurance of deep appreciation of their contribution; and be it further

Resolved, That, in evidence of that gratitude and appreciation, the Chief Clerk of the House is hereby directed to send a copy of this resolution to His Excellency, the Governor, to Dr. Robert L. Johnson, and also to James M. Gammon and Francis E. Zabkar.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

RESOLUTION RECALLING FROM THE GOVERNOR HOUSE BILL No. 390

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read as follows, considered and agreed to:

In the House of Representatives, April 28, 1943.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 390, Printer's No. 428, entitled:

An Act to further amend section three of the act approved the eleventh day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-one (P. L. 522) entitled as amended "Dog Law of 1921" by providing for the issuing of free licenses for seeing-eye dogs.

be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of further consideration.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

BILLS SIGNED

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John C. Bell, Jr.) announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bills had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the titles were publicly read as follows:

Senate Bill No. 37, entitled:

An Act to amend section five hundred forty of the act, approved the twenty-third day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 932), entitled "An act relating to cities of hte third class; and amending, revising and consolidating the law relating thereto," further regulating the adjustment of indebtedness where part of a township is annexed to a city of the third class.

Senate Bill No. 39, entitled:

An Act to amend section seven hundred seventeen of the act, approved the fourth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (P. L. 519), entitled "An act concerning boroughs, and revising, amending, and consolidating the law relating to boroughs," further regulating the adjustment of liabilities and property where part of a township is annexed to a borough.

Senate Bill No. 112, entitled:

An Act providing for the retention on the several permanent personal registration lists of electors of the names of persons who are members of any branch of the armed forces of the United States or of any uniformed organization of women officially connected therewith providing for proof of such membership prescribing penalties for making false statements in connection therewith prohibiting cancellation of registration for failure to vote during this period and suspending inconsistent laws during the effective period of the act.

Senate Bill No. 133, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsection (c) of section two hundred two of the act, approved the seventeenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682), entitled "An act relating to insurance; amending, revising, and consolidating the law; providing for the incorporation of insurance companies, and the regulation, supervision, and protection of home and foreign insurance companies, Lloyds associations, reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges, and fire insurance rating bureaus, and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies, associations, and exchanges, including insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund; providing penalties; and repealing existing laws," by authorizing casualty companies to insure against loss and damage to certain machinery and equipment of mines while located underground, and to underground passageways, gangways, airways, drifts, slopes, shafts, overcasts, and stoppings of mining operations.

Whereupon,

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John C. Bell, Jr.) in the presence of the Senate signed the same.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. JASPAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I have prepared a statement, with regard to the drinking water situation in the city of Philadelphia, and I make this statement in behalf of Senator Stiefel, Senator DiSilvestro and myself.

Mr. President, it is highly important to the population of Philadelphia and neighboring counties that immediate action be taken to purify the river from which we obtain our drinking water. Time and again action has been promised but nothing has been done. Judge Ladner has pressed for action. The newspapers of Philadelphia have launched a campaign to give Philadelphia and the surrounding counties pure water. An inflamed citizenry has pressed for action, but aparently the interests of the industrialists transcend the health of the people.

Our people have been drinking impurities for years, thereby jeopardizing their health. Mr. President, I am inclined to think that we are going to be here for at least six more legislative days and I am going to insist that the bill I am about to introduce designed to correct the situation be taken up immediately by the Committee to which it will be referred and reported out favorably.

Our present Governor, Edward Martin, made a pre-election pledge to correct the existing situation.

May I ask, Governor Martin, does this pledge mean anything? If so, use your good offices to bring about the passage of this important bill.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to introduce a bill at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Messrs. JASPAN, STIEFEL and DiSILVESTRO read in their places and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 632, entitled:

An Act to amend section three hundred ten of the act, approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1987), entitled "An act to preserve and improve the purity of the waters of the Commonwealth for the protection of public health, animal and aquatic life, and for industrial consumption, and recreation; empowering and directing the creation of indebtedness or the issuing of non-debt revenue bonds by political subdivisions to provide works to abate pollution; providing protection of water supply; providing for the jurisdiction of courts, magistrates, aldermen and justices of the peace in the enforcement thereof; and providing additional remedies for abating pollution of waters; imposing certain penalties; and repealing certain acts," by including the drainage of silt in the provisions of article three thereof, and suspending the enforcement of the act in certain cases.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, in view of the remarks made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, prior to introducing a bill, I ask unanimous consent to make a statement in reply.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WATKINS. I have heard a lot and have read a lot in the press of Philadelphia lately with regard to the silt situation in the Schuylkill river and I think it is about time that something be said by someone from the anthracite counties of Pennsylvania, which give employment to 90,000 citizens of this Commonwealth, one of the great industries of Pennsylvania, and in defense of that industry.

Any engineer that knows anything about mining coal will testify to the fact that it is impossible to keep silt out of running streams in the anthracite areas of Pennsylvania. Hundreds of thousands of dollars are spent yearly by the anthracite producing companies in order to keep as much silt as possible out of the streams. When you realize that this discoloration of water comes from a fine silt that will go through a two hundred mesh, you have some idea of how almost impossible it is, in fact practically impossible to keep it out.

Discoloration of the water itself is caused by floating particles which do not settle in settling tanks which are prepared and cover acres of land in order to keep most of the solids out. This discoloration then discolors everything else that goes down the Schuylkill river to Philadelphia. It is not only silt that makes the water impure, by the time the Schuylkill river gets down to Philadelphia; the Schuylkill river, from the Schuylkill region down to Philadelphia, is an open sewer, with every borough along the line dumping its sewage into the river, and all you have to do is to take a ride along the Schuylkill river and see all the factories that dump materials into the Schuylkill river. We feel that some of our silt helps clarify the waters of the Schuylkill; it is well known that silt itself is purchased in large quantities for the purpose of purifying the water.

It is the sewage situation that really causes the trouble in Philadelphia and Philadelphia is one of the largest contributors to its own trouble.

A city as large as Philadelphia should be ashamed of itself to talk about water supply from an industrial stream like the Schuylkill river. Why, Mr. President, over a period of the last hundred years silt has been going into the Schuylkill river from the anthracite region to Philadelphia. Why has not the city of Philadelphia constructed reservoirs in areas where they could get pure water, like other progressive large cities, cities like New York, Pittsburgh and other cities in the United States that have taken care of their water supply in that way?

This is an industrial state in which we live, and the people in Philadelphia should realize that the streams in an industrial state must be used for industry. Ninety thousand people depend for their livelihood upon the coal business, and of those ninety thousand people, many thousands of them are every day and every week shoppers in the city of Philadelphia, contributing to the coffers of the merchants of Philadelphia.

Let me say, too, that large quantities of the income of the anthracite producing counties go into the pockets of Philadelphians; many of your hospitals and one of your colleges is entirely supported by the income from anthracite coal.

It is about time that you realized that we in the anthracite region have to live too. In the last twelve years prior to this war we have seen the worst depression in the anthracite region that was ever seen by any section of the country. Evry other section of the country got aid from some one, but never the anthracite region, and now that we are about to get back on our feet and begin to work again, the first thing we find is the gentlemen from Philadelphia and the newspapers attempting and trying to put another burden upon the backs of the operators and to again put the men of the anthracite region back on relief.

It is very fine to talk about pure streams, but it is more important to keep the people of this Commonwealth at work. I might paraphrase the words of the Queen of France, who, when they asked for bread said, "give them cake." We ask for jobs and they say, "purify the streams, let the miners eat fish," and so I say to you in answer to the gentleman from Philadelphia, I am sorry to have to impose myself upon the time of the Senate; I would not have done so had not the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, made the remarks he did when he introduced the bill.

If this bill does come out of committee, in behalf of the anthracite people and the anthracite counties of Pennsylvania, in behalf of one of the greatest industries of the state of Pennsylvania, I ask the members of this Senate to vote against that bill, if it does come out of committee.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, not to impose upon the time of the Senate because of the lateness of the hour, I will reserve my remarks and my reply to the gentleman from Schuylkill, Senator Watkins, until Monday, with permission of the Chair, at which time I will make a statement.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. JASPAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I will make a very brief statement in response to the statement of my friend from Schuylkill, Senator Watkins.

Personally, I have not made a study of the situation. However, I am guided by gentlemen who are very much experienced along those lines, particularly Judge Grover C. Ladner, who has made it his life's study, and he has told me, and others, the reason for the impurities in the water, the fact that we get impure water is because of this silt that is dumped into the Schuylkill river.

Further, and this is a very important factor, I think it is part of our educational system—I do not know whether it has occurred to anybody else in this Senate—but the first thing we ask for is a sound mind, and a healthy body, and where there is not a healthy body there can not possibly be a sound mind, and here we have our school children and our adults drinking impurities as a result of silt that is thrown into the water by that industry, and it is impossible for them to have healthy bodies. Which is more important, the interests of the industrialists or the health of our citizens? I say to you unequivocally the health of our citizens transcends the interests of the industrialists.

BILL SIGNED

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. CHAPMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, in making a report from a committee so important as the Appropriations Committee, I think it might be well to make a few statements relative to the workings of that committee. The expenditure of some six hundred millions of dollars is no small item to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and, we, the Committee on Appropriations, want the Senate to know what we have been doing in arriving at what we think a just appropriation, to justify the amounts that the committee has appropriated. We have visited personally every hospital, correctional and penal institution, the mental hospitals, the surgical hospitals, in the different parts of the state. We have a number of times questioned members of various departments of the state government, called them before our committee and arrived at the conclusions by reason of which we report out these bills.

This committee has been working in conjunction with the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives and we think that we have done a very good job. I wish the Senate to know that we have called a committee meeting to consider every bill which has been presented to us. No bill has been reported from the Committee of appropriations to this floor without the scrutiny of the Senate Committee on Appropriations.

I wish to thank the whole Senate Committee on Appropriations for its assistance, and especially the members of a sub-committee, the gentleman from Clinton, Senator Stevenson and the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Stiefel, who have gone over these bills carefully before they were presented to the whole committee.

Mr. President, I have in my hands bills representing approximately $200,000,000 and I received this afternoon bills representing something like $300,000,000, about which further meetings will be held by the Committee on Appropriations to scrutinize those bills.

Therefore, at this time, I am about to report from the Committee on Appropriations several bills and with the indulgence of the Senate, members of the Committee of Appropriations during the balance of this day will present a number of other bills.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. CHAPMAN, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 977, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Labor and Industry to meet the obligation of the Commonwealth to pay a part of the compensation payable for certain occupational diseases.

He also, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 978, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Forests and Waters for the repair or reconstruction of a dam across the Lehigh River at Easton, Northampton County, and dredging in the Lehigh River and the entrance of the Delaware Division Canal.

He also, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 970, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Treasury Department out of various funds to pay replacement checks issued in lieu of outstanding checks when presented.

He also, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 966, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation from the Fish Fund to the State Employes' Retirement Board to meet the obligations of the Commonwealth to the State Employes' Retirement System with Respect to State employes receiving compensation from the Fish Fund.

He also, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 969, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation of moneys in the Motor License Fund to the Board of Finance and Revenue for the payment of the Loan and Transfer Agent of the Commonwealth.

He also, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 953, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation from the Motor License Fund to the State Employes' Retirement Board to meet the obligations of the Commonwealth to the State Employes' Retirement System with respect to State employes receiving compensation from the Motor License Fund.

Mr. JASPAN, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 971, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the General State Authority to defray the costs and expenses of the said Authority in connection with the organization, administration and operation thereof.

He also, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 979, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation from the Manufacturing Fund to the State Employes' Retirement Board to meet the obligations of the Commonwealth to the State Employes' Retirement System with respect to State employes receiving compensation from the Manufacturing Fund.

He also, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 980, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation from the Game Fund to the State Employes' Retirement Board to meet the obligations of the Commonwealth to the State Employes' Retirement System with respect to State employes receiving compensation from the Game Fund.

Mr. TALLMAN, from the Committee on State Government, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 619, entitled:

An Act to further amend section four hundred fifty-two of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 177), entitled, "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers thereof, including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools, or Teachers Colleges; abolishing, creating, reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments, boards, and commissions; defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers, and of the several administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers; fixing the salaries of the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, and certain other executive and administrative officers; providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers, and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments, boards, and commissions; and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments, boards and commissions shall be determined," as amended, by changing the provision regarding the maximum compensation of the State Civil Service Commission.

He also, from the Committee on State Government, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 589, entitled:

An Act to further amend section four hundred two of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 343), entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government; providing for the settlement, assessment, collection, and lien of taxes, bonus, and all other accounts due the Commonwealth, the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale, the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth, and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth, the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts, refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth, auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof, of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties; affecting every department, board, commission, and officer of the State government, every political subdivision of the State, and certain officers of such subdivisions, every person, association, and corporation required to pay, assess, or collect taxes, or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth, or any agency, thereof, every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth" by providing for audit of the Department of the Auditor General and imposing certain duties upon the Governor of the Commonwealth.

Mr. WALKER read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 633, entitled:

An Act to amend section twenty-one of the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred seventeen (P. L. 429), entitled, "An act relating to the descent and distribution of the real and personal property of persons dying intestate; and to provide for the recording and registering of the decrees of the orphans' court in connection therewith, and the fees therefor," by providing that the bar of said section may be pleaded by any relative or person concerned whose right in the estate will be defeated or diminished by the allowance of such claim and by the Commonwealth in the furtherance of its right of escheat, but it may not be pleaded by the personal representatives of the estate in order to enable them to retain an estate or portion thereof to which they are not legally entitled, and that the provisions of this amendment be retroactive but any relatives or persons concerned whose claims would be sooner barred by this amendment, may lay legal claim to their respective shares within six months after the passage of this amendment; and further that this amendment shall not have the effect of removing the bar of this section as to any legal claim which may have been barred prior to the passage of this amendment.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I should like to say just a word in connection with a bill I am about to present. Under the auspices of the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission there was recently conducted a contest among our high school population and we are very happy to report that more than one thousand essays were entered in that contest, which indicates that the youth of Pennsylvania has been attuned to the activities of that commission.

In view of the fact that the appropriation to this commission will lapse within a month's time before we will be in a position to award prizes to the winning in that contest, we are constrained to ask for a renewal of this appropriation.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. STIEFEL, CHAPMAN and STEVENSON read in their places and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 634, entitled:

An Act to amend section one of the act, approved the thirty-first day of July, one thousand nine hundred forty-one (Appropriation Acts of 1941, P. L. 81), entitled "An act making an appropriation to the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania," by providing that the unexpended balance of the appropriation made by said act shall not lapse until the purposes for which it was made are fully completed, and the affairs of the Thomas Jefferson Bicentennial Commission of Pennsylvania are finally closed.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. WADE read in his place and presented to the Chair, Senate Bill No. 635, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 594), entitled "An act establishing certain township roads as State highways; authorizing their construction, maintenance, and improvement under certain conditions and restrictions; limiting the obligation of the Commonwealth in the construction of certain structures located on such highways; conferring certain powers upon the Department of Highways and local authorities, persons, associations and corporations for sharing the cost of the maintenance and construction of such highways; and making an appropriation to carry out the provisions of said act," by changing certain routes.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

RESOLUTION

REQUESTING THAT ACTION BE DISPENSED WITH ON CERTAIN BILLS IN THE CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES UNTIL THE END OF THE PRESENT WAR

Mr. JONES. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. JONES, offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows, and referred to the Committee on Aeronautics.

In the Senate, April 29, 1943.

Whereas, The Congress of the United States has before it for consideration House Bill H. R. 1012 and Senate Bill 246 affecting Air Commerce; and

Whereas, Air Commerce (Air Lines) represents a minor part of civil aviation, and private flying and fixed base operations represent a major part of civil aviation whose operations are not interstate in character and therefore are of no concern of the Federal Government, the pending legislation would deny to the states their inherent rights to govern within their own state and would seriously jeopardize private flying and fixed base operations; and

Whereas, By applying the intent of this legislation to other forms of transportation our national economy would be seriously affected; and

Whereas, There is no immediate need for this legislation as the President of the United States is vested with full power under the Defense Act to regulate all aircraft, civilian or otherwise if necessary, and

Whereas, Those men who are serving their country in the various branches of service are unable to voice their sentiments or opinions on this proposed legislation at this time, and they are the persons who have contributed more to the development of aviation and are entitled to their place in aeronautics when and if they return from active duty; and

Whereas, There is ample time for such legislation to be considered in the future since consideration has not been given future developments and improvements which will change methods now used in the regulations of aircraft: therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representative concurs), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania respectfully requests that no action be taken on the above mentioned bills or any similar bill or bills by Congress until the present war is over and peace is established; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Clerk of the United States Senate, the Clerk of the United States House of Representatives, the Clerk of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee of Congress and to each of the Pennsylvania Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, by agreement I am going to wait until Monday to speak on this question because I happen to know the situation in Illinois, concerning which this bill has been presented on the floor of Congress, so I will wait until Monday to speak concerning it.

BILLS ON FINAL PASSAGE

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 545, on final passage, entitled:

L. 860) are hereby further extended until the next regular session of the General Assembly

Section 2 The sum of fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) or so much thereof as may be necessary is hereby appropriated from any money in the State Treasury not otherwise appropriated payable on requisition of the chairman of such commission on the warrant and audit of the Auditor General

Section 3 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, coming from a district in which there is a very large colored population, I want to state that I am fully in accord with the work which is being done by this committee. Although there are certain shortcomings, I think that it is about time that the attainments of this committee should be translated into actual bills which will be conducive to the ameloriation of the conditions of the colored population, and I hope that the work of this committee during the next two years will finally reduce itself to some tangible results.

Mr. WOODWARD. I only want to say for myself, Mr. President, if it means another report like that I am going to vote "no."

Mr. JASPAN. It is not a question of the size of the report, Mr. President, but that this commission has done excellent work throughout the state and no complaint should be made as a result of their reports of investigation. I think it should be continued because the work has been wholesome and good and for the benefit of the urban colored population.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

NAYS—0

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 272, entitled:

An Act to apportion the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania into congressional districts

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, as I note the history of Senate Bill No. 272, it occurs to me that the bill is unlawfully on the Calendar, and that if it would be considered by the Senate at this time it would be hereafter declared unconstitutional and I, therefore, object to its consideration on third reading.

The PRESIDENT. Why in the opinion of the Senator from Northampton, is Senate Bill No. 272 improperly on the Calendar at this time?

Mr. WOODRING. As I note the history of this bill, Mr. President, this bill was re-referred to committee on third reading and amended in committee.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northampton.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northampton permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODRING. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I hope the gentleman from Northampton will bear with me for a moment while I preface my interrogation with a brief explanation of the situation regarding Senate Bill No. 272, as I understand it.

When Senate Bill No. 272 was returned from the Governor there was a motion made that the vote by which the bill passed finally be reconsidered; that motion was carried, which automatically put the bill on the final passage Calendar; then there was a motion made and carried, that the vote by which Senate Bill No. 272 passed third reading be reconsidered; and then automatically the bill stepped down to the third reading Calendar; then there was a motion made, and carried, that Senate Bill No. 272 be recommitted to the Committee on Congressional Reapportionment, the bill was referred to that committee, the committee met and amended the bill and it was re-reported as amended.

When a bill is re-reported from committee it takes the same position on the Calendar as it had when it left the floor of the Senate.

I would like to ask the gentleman from Northampton if that is not a correct history of this bill since it was recalled from the Governor?

Mr. WOODRING. So far as I know, the record speaks for itself. But in further answer to the gentleman from Allegheny, I believe that he has correctly stated the history of this bill.

Mr. WALKER. I thank the gentleman from Northampton. Then, Mr. President, it merely becomes a difference of opinion as to the constitutionality of the procedure which we are following, and I am perfectly willing to place my judgment as to its constitutionality against that of the gentleman from Northampton, Senator Woodring, and I would like to ask that we proceed with passage of the bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to record my objection to this bill being considered at this time in its present form on final passage.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, Senate Bill No. 272 is now on third reading.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Also, I would like to suggest that there is no copy of the bill up from the printer at the present time; there is not a copy of it on my desk, anyhow.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I suggest that the gentleman from Philadelphia go back to his desk.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I have been at my desk and looked for the bill.

Mr. WALKER. May I suggest that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, go back to his desk and he may be able to find a copy of the bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I object for two reasons. First, because of the reason referred to by the gentleman from Northampton, Senator Woodring and, secondly, because I have looked at my bill file and the extra bills on my desk for the last twenty minutes and I have not been able to find the bill. Maybe someone else has a copy but I do not.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I will go beyond what has been stated by my colleagues, Senator Woodring and Senator Shapiro—I am thoroughly in accord with what they have said—but I believe Senate Bill No. 272, as introduced and passed and now again on third reading, is unconstitutional because once a reapportionment act has been passed by the Legislature of the state of Pennsylvania, or any other state—and that was done in the year 1942, at a very heavy expense to the Commonwealth, probably running into three hundred some odd thousands of dollars, and here we are again defying or challenging what was done in 1942, and I say it is unconstitutional. The act of 1942 was passed by us, having been entered into as agreed between Republicans and Democrats and accepted as final, and today we are trying to counteract what was done, which is absolutely invalid, void, and unconstitutional.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I find that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro, as always, is correct. Copies of Senate Bill No. 272 are not on the desks of the Senators and I therefor ask that Senate Bill No. 272 go over in its order temporarily until the printer rescues me.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 272, on third reading, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 289 on third reading, entitled:

An Act limiting the extent to which liability may be made retroactive in cases in which, upon the basis of court decision or administrative ruling, a liability to the Commonwealth for taxes or other moneys is asserted which had not theretofore been claimed be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary Special.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 356, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend sections twelve and seventeen of the act, approved the twenty-first day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 626), entitled "An act providing for and regulating the assessment and valuation of all subjects of taxation in counties of the second class; creating and prescribing the powers and duties of a Board of Property Assessment, Appeals and Review; imposing duties on certain county and city officers; abolishing the board for the assessment and revision of taxes in such counties; and prescribing penalties," by providing for appeals from the judgment order or decrees of the court of common pleas to the Supreme or Superior Court, and for exoneration and refund of taxes when any assessment has been reduced by the Board of Property Assessment, Appeals and Review or by any court go over in its order as the bill is not up from the printer..

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 372, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend clause eight of section seven hundred and two of the act, approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 103), entitled "An act concerning townships of the second class; and amending, revising, consolidating, and changing the law relating thereto," by empowering townships of the second class to levy a tax, under certain circumstances, for the purpose of paying for the removal and disposal of ashes, garbage and other refuse material

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 406, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend section three hundred eleven of the act, approved the second day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 1278), entitled "An act relating to counties of the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth classes; and revising, amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto," extending the retirement system of counties of the second class to additional employes

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 457, on third reading, entitled:

An Act giving the consent of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to the acquisition by the United States of America of two tracts of lands in the Forty-eighth Ward of the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, known as the Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot, and ceding jurisdiction to the United States

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 471, on third reading, entitled:

An Act limiting the time within which suits or actions, hereafter begun, shall be brought for damages to surface land and property resulting from the mining of coal and operations in connection therewith

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 476, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend section nine of the act approved the sixteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (P. L. 207) entitled "An act providing when how upon what property and to what extent liens shall be allowed for taxes and for municipal improvements for the removal of nuisances and for water rents or rates sewer rates and lighting rates for the procedure upon claims filed therefor the methods for preserving such liens and enforcing payment of such claims the effect of judicial sales of the properties liened the distribution of the proceeds of such sales and the redemption of the property therefrom for the lien and collection of certain taxes heretofore assessed and of claims for municipal improvements made and nuisances removed within six months before the passage of this act and for the procedure on tax and municipal claims filed under other and prior acts of Assembly" making additional provision for and fixing the compensation for the filing and collecting of tax claims

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 492, entitled:

An Act to reenact and further amend the title of and the act approved the twenty-ninth day of September one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight (P. L. 53) entitled "An act relating to institutions of counties cities and institution districts for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients providing for the transfer of such institutions to the Commonwealth providing for the management and operation or closing and abandonment thereof and the maintenance of mental patients therein including the collection of maintenance in certain cases providing for the retransfer of certain property to institution districts under certain circumstances conferring and imposing upon the Governor the Department of Welfare the courts of common pleas and counties cities and institution districts certain powers and duties prohibiting cities counties and institution districts from maintaining and operating institutions in whole or in part for the care and treatment of mental patients and repealing inconsistent laws" including institutions of wards boroughs townships and other political subdivisions under the terms thereof and providing for the retransfer of certain property to counties cities wards boroughs townships institution districts and other political subdivisions

Section 1 The title and all of the sections of the act approved the twenty-ninth day of September one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight (P. L. 53) entitled "An act relating to institutions of counties cities and institution districts for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients providing for the transfer of such institutions to the Commonwealth providing for the management and operation or closing and abandonment thereof and the maintenance of mental patients therein including the collection of maintenance in certain cases providing for the retransfer of certain property to institution districts under certain circumstances conferring and imposing upon the Governor the Department of Welfare the courts of common pleas and counties cities and institution districts certain powers and duties prohibiting cities counties and institution districts from maintaining and operating institutions in whole or in part for the care and treatment of mental patients and repealing inconsistent laws" sections three seven and ten of which were amended by the act approved the twenty-fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 193) are hereby reenacted and amended or further amended to read as follows

An Act relating to institutions of counties cities [and] wards boroughs townships institution districts and other political subdivisions for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients providing for the transfer of such institutions to the Commonwealth providing for the management and operation or closing and abandonment thereof and the maintenance of mental patients therein including the collection of maintenance in certain cases providing for the retransfer of certain property to counties cities wards boroughs townships institution districts and other political subdivisions under certain circumstances conferring and imposing upon the Governor the Department of Welfare the courts of common pleas and counties [and] wards boroughs townships institution districts and other political subdivisions certain powers and duties prohibiting cities counties [and] wards boroughs townships institution districts and other political subdivisions from maintaining and operating institutions in whole or in part for the care and treatment of mental patients and repealing inconsistent laws

Whereas Experience has proven that the care and maintenance of indigent mentally ill persons mental defectives and epileptics should be centralized in the State Government in order to insure their proper and uniform care maintenance custody safety and welfare and

Whereas Complete care for such persons in institutions operated exclusively by the State Government with effect great economies for municipal subdivisions

Section 1 All buildings acquired or erected by any county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients the personal property within such buildings or incidental thereto and any and all other grounds and lands connected therewith or annexed thereto are hereby transferred to and vested in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania except that where any such buildings for mental patients are operated in conjunction with buildings dedicated to the care and maintenance of indigent persons who are not mental patients the buildings used for the care of such persons the land actually occupied by such buildings the lands or yards presently set apart for the use of the indigent persons cared for in such buildings and the lands necessary for ingress and egress thereto and therefrom shall not be deemed to be hereby transferred but shall remain vested in the county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivisions as theretofore

Where any lands and property so transferred are presently used by any county city ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision as a farm and woodlands in connection with buildings dedicated to the care and maintenance of indigent persons who are not mental patients the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth with the approval of the Governor shall set apart and reconvey to the county city ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision through deed executed by the Secretary of Property and Supplies of the Commonwealth so much of such ground as the ratio of indigent persons bears to the total patient population of the institution as shall be determined by the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth The metes and bounds of the lands so to be conveyed shall be determined by agreement between the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth and the authorities of the county city ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision In case the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth and the authorities of the county city ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision cannot agree as to the metes and bounds of the lands so to be conveyed to the county city ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision the matter shall be laid before the court of common pleas of the county where the lands are located by petition of either the Secretary of Welfare of the Commonwealth or the authorities in charge of the county city ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision which court after hearing all parties in interest on such notice as it shall direct shall determine the metes and bounds of the lands which shall be conveyed to the county city ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision and shall enter an order accordingly The action of the court shall be final

Where auxiliary structures and facilities furnishing light heat power water laundry kitchen sewage treatment services and coal supply are so transferred to the Commonwealth which were theretofore used in common for the buildings devoted to mental patients and also the buildings devoted to indigent persons the Commonwealth shall thereafter continue to furnish the proper county city ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision with such services at the actual cost thereof to the extent the same may hereafter be requested by the county city ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision

Any property so transferred to and vested in the Commonwealth shall if found suitable in accordance with this act be thereafter used as a State mental hospital but if such property shall within one year thereafter be found unsuitable for such purpose or shall within one year after transfer to and use by the Commonwealth as a State mental hospital be thereafter abandoned by the Commonwealth as such a hospital before substantial improvements thereto have been made then in either event such building lands and personal property so transferred to the Commonwealth shall absolutely revert to and vest in the county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision from which transferred and the Commonwealth shall have no further claim or title thereto

The words "substantial improvements" as used in this section shall be construed to mean capital investments involving an expenditure of at least two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000)

Section 2 It shall be unlawful hereafter for any county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision to operate or maintain in whole or in part any existing institution for the care of mental patients or thereafter to begin to operate or manage any institution in whole or in part for this purpose Provided however That the county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision having charge of any such existing institution shall continue to operate and manage the same under existing laws until the Department of Welfare of the Commonwealth with the approval of the Governor formally takes over the management and operation of such institution or formally closes such institution in the manner hereinafter prescribed in this act And provided further That the authorities of general hospitals may continue to maintain or hereafter may set apart establish and maintain beds wards or departments for the temporary care of mental patients under licensure by the Department of Welfare as now provided by law

Section 3 The Department of Welfare shall promptly make an investigation and survey of the institutions hereby transferred to the Commonwealth for the purpose of determining (1) which of the institutions are necessary having regard to the number of persons requiring care and treatment because of mental illness and the geographic location and capacity of other such mental hospitals and (2) which of the institutions having regard to existing facilities may be operated by the Commonwealth in such a manner as to insure the proper maintenance custody and welfare of mental patients Upon the completion of its investigation and survey the Department of Welfare shall submit to the Governor a report setting forth its findings and recommendations with respect to the institutions deemed necessary and suitable for the care maintenance and treatment of mental patients and the institutions deemed unnecessary or unsuitable for this purpose Upon receiving the report of the Department of Welfare the Governor shall from time to time but not later than the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred forty-one having regard to the standards of necessity and suitability hereinbefore set out in this section determine which of the institutions shall be managed and operated by the Commonwealth as State mental hospitals and which institutions if any shall be closed Provided however That the Governor shall direct the State Department of Welfare to take over the management and operation of any such institution which is operated and managed by any city of the first class as soon as practicable after the effective date of this act and before the completion of the investigation and survey hereinbefore required in this section Before the management and operation of any institution is taken over by the Department of Welfare the Governor shall issue his proclamation setting forth the date on which the Department of Welfare will take over the management and operation of the institution In the event it shall be determined that a particular institution is to be closed the Governor shall issue a proclamation setting forth the date on which such institution will be closed The original of any such proclamation shall be filed in the office of the Secretary of the Commonwealth and a copy thereof shall be furnished the county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision authorities having charge of such institution

Section 4 Each institution subject to this act which the Governor shall direct the Department of Welfare to operate and manage shall be operated and managed by such department as a State mental hospital in accordance with the laws of the Commonwealth relating to such hospitals The Department of Welfare in managing and operating any such institution shall have all the powers and perform all the duties vested in and imposed upon boards of trustees of State mental hospitals by the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 177) and its amendments designated as The Administrative Code of one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine All mental patients in any such institution at the time the management and operation thereof is assumed by the Department of Welfare shall have the same status as if originally committed or admitted to a State mental hospital Commitments may be made to any such institution mental patients may be detained maintained and cared for therein and transfers may be made therefrom and thereto in the same manner and in accordance with laws applying to other State mental hospitals The Department of Welfare shall have power to designate the counties of the Commonwealth from which commitments may be made to any such institution

Each institution acquired and operated by the Commonwealth as a State mental hospital under the provisions of this act shall be known as the .....
..... State (descriptive name of political subdivision in which institution is located) hospital for example the Philadelphia Hospital for Mental Diseases shall be known as the Philadelphia State Hospital

Section 5 When the Commonwealth through the Department of Welfare assumes the control and management of any institution subject to this act the terms of all officers and employes and the local management of such institution shall cease and terminate The officers and employes of any such institution shall thereupon become employes of the Commonwealth subject to removal by the Secretary of Welfare

Section 6 In the event it shall be determined that any institution subject to this act shall be closed the Department of Welfare shall take charge of such institution and the terms of all officers and employes and the local management of such institution shall cease and terminate The officers and employes of such institution shall thereupon become the employes of the Commonwealth subject to removal by the Secretary of Welfare when their services are no longer required No new patients shall be admitted to any such institution after the date specified for its closing The Department of Welfare shall as soon as practicable transfer the patients in such institution to any other State mental hospital including any institution transferred to and being operated by the Commonwealth under this act as a State mental institution As far as practicable the department shall transfer such patients to such State mental hospital nearest to the locality in which the institution to be closed is located After the patients in such institution are transferred therefrom the Department of Welfare shall with the approval of the Governor turn the institution and its grounds over to the Department of Property and Supplies for use for any other State purpose as may be deemed necessary and advisable by the Governor unless such institution under the provisions of section one of this act would revert to a county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision in which event such institution shall be turned over to the proper authorities thereof and shall thereafter be used for such purposes not inconsistent with this act as the county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision may determine

Section 7 After the effective date of this act and until the management and operation of a particular institution is formally assumed by the Department of Welfare or until a particular institution is closed under the provisions of this act but not later than the thirty-first day of May one thousand nine hundred forty-one the county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision engaged in the operation and management of that institution shall continue to bear the expense of administering and operating the institution and the Commonwealth shall contribute towards the expense of indigent patients therein to the same extent and in the same manner as pertained under existing laws on the effective date of this act

Section 8 (a) All obligations incurred by reason of the erection acquisition or maintenance of a mental institution by the county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision which are outstanding on the date that the Commonwealth shall take over the operation and management of such institution or shall order such institution closed shall remain the obligations of such county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision and shall be paid in the same manner as though said operation and management still remained in said county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision For the payment of such obligations the proper authorities of such county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision shall continue to have the power to levy and collect taxes as if control and management of the institution were still vested in such county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision

(b) All amounts due any county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision for the care of any mental patient in any institution transferred to the Commonwealth by this act that have accrued and remained unpaid on the date that the Commonwealth shall take over the operation and management of such institution or the date such institution is closed may be collected by the county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision in the same manner as if the control and management of the institution were still vested in such county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision Provided however That where there is a claim against the estate of any such mental patient on behalf of the Commonwealth and on behalf of any county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision and there is not sufficient in the estate to pay the claim in full the same shall be paid pro rata to the Commonwealth and the county city [or] ward borough township institution district or other political subdivision in the proportion of the amount of maintenance legally recoverable by each

Section 9 The following acts and parts of acts are hereby repealed

The act approved the twenty-fifth day of May one thousand eight hundred ninety-seven (P. L. 83) entitled "An act to provide for the maintenance care and treatment of the indigent insane in county and local institutions" as amended

The act approved the thirteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred nine (P. L. 535) entitled "An act to amend an act entitled 'An act to provide' for the maintenance care and treatment of the indigent insane in county and local institutions' approved May twenty-five one thousand eight hundred ninety-seven increasing the weekly sum therein authorized to be paid from one dollar and fifty cents to two dollars"

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

Section 10 Section nine of this act shall become effective on the first day of June one thousand nine hundred forty-one and in all other respects this act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

Section 2 This reenacting and amending act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I rise with some hesitancy to inject myself at this particular time, because I know there are a number of Democratic members of the Senate who would like to attend a belated Jefferson day dinner, and I would imagine, judging from the claims of the opposite side on the occasion of his two hundredth anniversary, there may be some Republican members who might likewise desire to attend.

Mr. President, I would like to start out discussing this bill by telling a story that I think is most appropriate. I am informed that a Republican leader of the Senate some years ago sought to offer an amendment to a bill, and when interrogated by one of his colleagues as to what the amendment was, he said it merely changed one word in the bill, but the one word was "not" which left the bill reading "shall not".

During a legislative session we find many bills clothed in highly technical language, innocent verbiage, the intent of which is not readily apparent. This is one of those bills. I am mildly surprised that my esteemed colleague from Schuylkill county would ally himself with the introduction of such a bill. I have had a tremendous amount of respect for the profundity of his legislative thought and I was very much impressed with the very able argument he gave here this afternoon against the visionaries in this Senate who would restore the waters of the Commonwealth to the sparkling purity of William Penn's time, and for that reason I am surprised that the gentleman introduced such a measure. Frankly, I doubt very much, at the time of introduction, that he had an idea of the real intent behind the bill. He is too much of a gentleman to subscribe to such a principle.

This bill simply adds to the Shapiro Act of 1938, which authorized the Commonwealth to acquire the mental institutions in the state of Pennsylvania, the words, "ward, borough, township, or other political sub-division". At first glance, that looks like rather an innocent amendment, it looks like an attempt to correct a defect in the original act. That is not what it does, Mr. President. What this bill does is to sabotage a law-suit instituted by the county of Lackawanna before the Supreme Court of the state of Pennsylvania, which has been kicked in and out of court for several years, and which is scheduled to be heard on May 10 before the Supreme Court of this state of Pennsylvania. This suit has been pending for some time and was originally scheduled to be heard on April 12. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania asked for a postponement until May 20. The obvious purpose is the introduction and ultimate passage of this particular bill. The court denied the request and set, temporarily, April 26 as the day, then later the Commonwealth asked for a further postponement and was given until May 10, with the obvious purpose of having this bill pass the General Assembly and nullify the court contest, costing the people of Lackawanna and Luzerne counties a million dollars.

When the mental institution bill passed, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania acquired from Lackawanna and Luzerne counties four institutions, the total value of which was $5,250,000, and said in effect, in the bill, "we will do nothing about the bonded indebtedness; that is the responsibility of the people of the county". In other words, you have a situation that the state is going to acquire and operate these buildings housing mental patients, and say to the people of the county wherein the institution is located, "you will pay off for the next ten years the bonded indebtedness against this particular building."

I have in my hand, Mr. President, an editorial which very adequately describes this bill, which is appropriately captioned "Tricky Legislation," and which reads as follows:

"TRICKY LEGISLATION

"Granting of a second postponement in the argument in the case before the Supreme Court against the attempt of the state to seize Lackawanna County Institution District-owned mental hospitals without reimbursement of the taxpayers would seem to justify the suspicion of County Solicitor Philip V. Mattes that the state is endeavoring to have the lawsuit decided by the Legislature and not the court. Recently Mr. Mattes brought to public attention the introduction in the Legislature of two bills intended, he believes, to close the loophole in the law under which the state is attempting to take over the local mental hospitals at Hillside Home, Blakely and Ransom. For four years the county institution district has opposed this action.

"Not only is the state trying to seize the hospitals without compensating the local taxpayers who paid for their construction but also would have the taxpayers shoulder the burden of redeeming bond issues now outstanding. It is the contention of the institution district that the state should not only pay an annual rental for the hospitals, which would permit the retirement of the bonds, but at the same time return to the various municipalities money provided for the building of the hospitals.

"The original act provided that the state should take over all county-owned institutions. It so happens that the local mental hospitals at Hillside, Ransom and Blakely were not county-owned but were originally built by various poor districts which operated in the county. Hillside Home, for instance, was a purely Scranton and Dunmore institution. Under the provisions of the bills just introduced in the Legislature the state could take over the institutions not only owned by counties but by wards, districts and other subdivisions. If passed these bills would serve as an offset to the county's contention. The whole thing looks like a trick on the part of the state. It is not to the credit of those behind the move. It is to be hoped that members of House and Senate from the county, as well as fair-minded legislators generally, will see to it that the bills are killed."

Mr. President, I speak to you today in defense of a principle peculiar to America. The principle that every man has his day in Court. This bill strikes a mortal blow at that fundamental principle, and I am asking those of you on the Democratic side, and my fair-minded friends on the other side, to oppose this obvious attempt on the part of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to take over these mental institution districts and leave the political sub-divisions to pay off the bonded indebtedness.

When the Federal Government asked Pennsylvania to give them the Butler Sanitarium to take care of wounded veterans, this great Commonwealth said, "Yes, provided you pay us $160,000 a year, and yet you deny the people of our county and of Luzerne county what is justly due them.

I am asking the members of the Senate to vote against this imposition on the people in my particular county.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I am particularly proud, of course, of the high regard in which I am held by the gentleman from Lackawanna, Senator Coleman, and I assure him that the feeling is mutual. I assure him, too, that there is nothing tricky about this legislation. Of course, there is a case in court and the case in court is purely for the purpose of interpretation by the court of an act of the Legislature passed some years ago, the Shapiro bill.

All that we are asking the Legislature to do now is to clear up a doubtful question that is now before the Court, by passing a law to clarify it here, as a legislative function instead of having the judiciary interpret our meaning in the form it was passed when Senator Shapiro introduced it.

My colleague from Somerset, Senator Ealy, will say that the whole thing was a steal from the beginning, taking over the institutions, but what this bill tries to do is to treat every county alike, if it was a steal.

I do not quite agree with the gentleman from Somerset, Senator Ealy, in his position upon the bill. The reason for this bill grew out of several exceptions to the general situation throughout the Commonwealth. At the time of the passage of the Shapiro bill, or prior to passage of the Shapiro bill, poor districts generally had been abolished throughout the Commonwealth, but at that time there were several counties that had numerous poor districts; for instance, in Lackawanna county I believe there were some twenty-one poor districts.

In most of the counties the poor districts was co-extensive with the county. With the setting up of institutional districts, instead of poor districts, the institutional districts being co-extensive with the county, the institutional district then arranged in these counties where that situation existed, for instance, in Lackawanna county, to rent from them the various buildings that formerly housed these small poor districts.

Then with the passage of the Shapiro bill, in which the state was authorized to take over the mental institutions, two separate problems arose which were not entirely covered by the bill. In one case, for instance, in the case where the institutional district was co-extensive with the county, we found in some instances the institutional district housed the indigent and the institution housed mental cases in the same building or sometimes in different buildings which covered large areas of ground. The other situation was the one of Lackawanna county where again the question of dividing the property up when the state took over the property housing mental patients caused a difficulty that finally ended in court in Lackawanna county.

It is unfair to say that we are doing any differently by the passage of this bill affecting Lackawanna county than we have done with all the counties of the state.

For instance, speaking of my own county, we had a debt upon the mental institutions of something like four or five hundred thousand dollars. When the state first took over our insane hospital they took a property valued at millions of dollars and we were about to carve up the land that belonged jointly to the institutional district and the mental hospital. If that had been done, then they would have taken property worth millions of dollars, as they did in many counties throughout the state, and left the people of Schuylkill county and all the other counties of the state with a debt; whether it was three hundred thousand dollars or five hundred thousand dollars or several millions of dollars, that debt remained the debt of the county, but the Commonwealth took over the property. That is what the bill did.

All this bill does is add to that bill the words that will include these smaller sub-divisions that had owned a property that was taken over, and the debt. It does not seem fair to me that Schuylkill county or any other county, should assume the debt and then in Lackawanna county the state should pay the debt.

What do the people of Lackawanna county or Schuylkill county or the other counties of the state get in return? This is what they get. Instead of the counties being responsible for the maintenance of insane patients from the time of the passage of the Shapiro bill, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has taken upon itself the burden of supporting the insane inmates of all the state institutions, so Schuylkill county, for example, benefits by hundreds of thousands of dollars per year, that it formerly cost them to maintain their insane patients.

We feel generally the bill has had a fine effect. We think the fact that now the insane patient is under the jurisdiction of the Commonwealth is a good thing. We feel from a financial standpoint, even though we had to assume the debt of our insane hospital, that still we are being repaid over a long period of years by the state paying the cost of maintenance of our insane patients.

I think this bill only places Lackawanna county in the same position as every county in the state. I think this fills a gap, or at least clears up any doubt as to the intent of the Legislature at the time the bill was passed, and I, therefore, ask my colleagues to vote for this bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the argument made by my colleague from Lackawanna, Senator Coleman, is the same as he made in part in 1937 or 1938, when this whole subject was discussed. The answer to that argument has, I think, been fairly well given by his colleague for whom he has such an extreme affection.

Take the city of Philadelphia, for instance, it cost the city of Philadelphia some $30,000 weekly for the maintenance of Byberry, which is $1,500,000 a year. Our outstanding indebtedness unpaid, I think, was $8,000,000, so that it cost us $320,000 to pay the debt each year and with the sinking fund it would be about $420,000.

We have been relieved of $1,500,000 yearly expense in caring for that institution and we have only, therefore, a $400,000 bonded debt, and over a period of fifteen years that will be paid off, and we are now saving at the rate of $800,000 a year. Comparatively, and in proportion the situation is the same with every institution.

Up to that point I disagree with my colleague from Lackawanna, Senator Coleman, but from there on I agree with him. This bill was handed to me, as a member of a sub-committee, by the chairman, our good friend from Montgomery, Senator Edmonds. I examined the bill and came to the conclusion that if the Attorney General and myself, when this bill was drawn, had known of that particular situation, we would have included that situation in the bill, and it would have been in the bill as it is today.

I also found, however, that there had been litigation. I read briefs that were handed to me from both sides in that case, and I came to the conclusion that the fact it is not included in the Act has been made not only the basis for legal action, but has been made the basis of the conduct of that county since passage of the act of 1938.

In other words, since it was not in the Act of 1938 the county of Lackawanna, in good faith incurred obligations, took the position which its lawyers advised it to take and upon which it acted for four years. The case is now in litigation, and it seems to me that it is unfair at this time, before that case is decided, since that point is one of the important points in the case, that we should decide to take the props out from under a county in its litigation, which it has paid for, and to which it has gone to a great deal of trouble to prepare, and a position which it has maintained for four years. In other words, the Supreme Court can decide this question and the Supreme Court should decide this question.

One of the main questions in the bill is this very question, the fact that this situation was not covered, that is the contention of counsel for that county, that this institution can not be legally deemed to have been over and under those circumstances I think it is unfair for the Legislature or the Attorney General of this Commonwealth to come in and ask us to decide that point now so that their position, which they have maintained for four years, is destroyed.

For that reason I shall vote against the bill.

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President, I just want to develop a bit further the thought expressed by my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro. I made my position very clear when the Shapiro Act was enacted in 1938, how I felt about it, in a stentorian voice that reechoed through the Senate chamber. I voted "no" on that particular bill. That is not the point in the bill before us today. I have in my hand a brief filed for the plaintiffs with the Supreme Court of the state of Pennsylvania. I find that the first bill was filed December 21, 1938; it has been in and out of court any number of times during that period.

As a matter of fact, when it was referred to the Dauphin County Court, the Dauphin County Court asked the State Supreme Court to assume original jurisdiction and they intimated in a statement that there was some merit in the claim of the people of Lackawanna County. That is the point involved here today.

These men have gone to some lengths to try this particular case before the Supreme Court and the obvious purpose of this bill is to have the court say, when this bill is passed and signed by the Governor, "you have no case, the Legislature has decided your case, and the Supreme Court can do absolutely nothing about it," which is manifestly unfair, and I ask those of you who have any sense of fairness in the Senate to vote against it.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred.)

Mr. COLEMAN. Mr. President I ask that the roll be verified.

The PRESIDENT. Request has been made to have the roll verified.

The Clerk will call the names of those recorded as having voted "aye."

The Clerk read the names of those recorded as having voted "aye" as follows:

Becker,	Geltz,	Mallery,	Tyler,
Bowers,	Heyburn,	Scarlett,	Wade,
Carr,	Homsher,	Snowden,	Walker,
Chapman,	James,	Stevenson,	Watkins,
Crider,	Jones,	Tallman,	Wilson, H. I.,
Deitrick,	Kephart,	Thomas,	Woodward,
Farrell,	Letzler,

The PRESIDENT. Are there any corrections: The Chair hears none. The affirmative roll will stand as verified. The Clerk will now verify the negative roll.

The Clerk read the names of those recorded as having voted "nay" as follows:

Barr,	Gourley,	Jaspan,	Shapiro,
Coleman,	Haluska,	McQuiddy,	Stiefel,
Cox,	Holland,	Ruth,	Woodring,
DiSilvestro.

The PRESIDENT. Are there any corrections?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will be so recorded.

Are there any other corrections? The negative roll will stand as corrected.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—26

Becker,	Geltz,	Mallery,	Tyler,
Bowers,	Heyburn,	Scarlett,	Wade,
Carr,	Homsher,	Snowden,	Walker,
Chapman,	James,	Stevenson,	Watkins,
Crider,	Jones,	Tallman,	Wilson, H. I.,
Deitrick,	Kephart,	Thomas,	Woodward,
Farrell,	Letzler,

NAYS—14

Barr,	Gourley,	McGinnis,	Shapiro,
Coleman,	Haluska,	McQuiddy,	Stiefel,
Cox,	Holland,	Ruth,	Woodring,
DiSilvestro,	Jaspan,

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 500, on third reading, entitled:

Section 15 This act shall become effective the first day of June one thousand nine hundred and forty-three

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

Mr. SHAPIRO. As I understand, Mr. President, this is the parole bill which I believe was very thoroughly discussed in detail yesterday. I do not intend to go over all the statements that were made yesterday about it, but I today would like to get on the record one of the principal objections that I have and that is this: I have heard a great deal of talk in connection with the parole law, that the first bill was passed without any study and that it is not being carried out properly, and that this board ought to be abolished, even before they could start.

Now we are very quickly, in a matter of a few weeks, setting up a new kind of parole system, one that is unknown, in my opinion, anywhere in the country, namely, that the supervisor shall be a political appointee, appointed by the Governor, that he shall be the man, instead of a parole officer, who shall visit and examine the prisoners, that he shall have under him civil service employes, but that he, the man who finally has to determine whether prisoners shall be released or retained, shall have the say, the recommending powers. The parole board itself will not, according to this bill, visit the prisoners.

I do not know yet, I have not yet found the source that is back of the movement to destroy this existing parole board before it has had a chance, and I want to say without any dramatics or attempt at oratory, I think it is a dangerous thing we are doing, and I think we will regret the step we are taking. Whether we are doing it from the best of motives or whether someone is back of it who is pushing this thing I do not know and I do not care. I do think the important proposition is that in time of war, when we should be bolstering our system of crime prevention, we should not be taking a step in a direction that might make for looseness in protection of the people of the Commonwealth. Here was a system which has been adopted by several other states and has been in force for years, has been proven to be efficient, has been proven to be a boon to those states, particularly the state of New York, and I think that system should be given a chance, after careful study by people who are civic-minded and who know something about the subject. When you take that system and destroy it, in times like these, I think that is a dangerous step, and I say to my colleagues on both sides that there is no reason for this bill, no necessity for it now I do not care about the five men who are on the board, their names have been withdrawn, put someone else in, but in the name of good government this bill ought to be defeated.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred:)

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I wish to be recorded as being present but not voting.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia will be so recorded.

Mr. JASPAN. From the very outset I insisted upon a strong system. When the parole law was passed in 1941, which I vigorously opposed, and again in 1942, when Governor James asked for postponement of the effective date, I agreed with him, and again this year I feel that the law as we have it today is not strong enough.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Schuylkill will proceed.

Mr. WATKINS. I should like to have the vote announced.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I am giving reasons why I voted "present" but not voting. I think I have the right to state my reason on the record.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair sustains the point of order of the gentleman from Schuylkill. After the vote has been announced, the gentleman from Philadelphia will have opportunity to express himself if he so desires.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

PRESENT—1

Jaspan,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. JASPAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I will not repeat what I have already stated; I think it already is a matter of record.

I will say this much, Mr. President, that everybody on this Senate floor is for a strong parole system. I still have confidence in our judicial system and our Board of Pardons, two of whom were elected by the people.

I feel that if we are going to have a parole system, let it start from the very outset, from the time a man is convicted, and let us help the judge in determining the sentence and once we help him in determining the sentence and later on we feel a man should be paroled, these parole officers should work together with the judge, and where there are state institutions involved, they should work together with the Board of Pardons.

I can appreciate the fact that men commit crimes. I come from one of the poorest districts in Pennsylvania, the Third Senatorial District, very poor people, and upon occasion they commit crimes, sometimes because of necessity, sometimes because they are diseased, and other times because they are underfed—frankly I do not think they wanted to commit crimes but they had to, due to circumstances.

However, I feel, having been born and brought up under those circumstances, I can appreciate the needs and wants of those boys and I want to work with them rather than hurt them, and I feel we should not put these matters in the hands of social service workers, these theorists who know little or nothing about the practical side of human beings.

This particular bill as introduced today—pardon me, Senator Walker, there are times I do not like what you are saying, but still I have the patience to sit and listen to you.

Mr. WALKER. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, is out of order.

Mr. JASPAN. The gentleman from Allegheny may think I am out of order, but I have my rights, and many times the gentleman from Allegheny is out of order and we take it whether we like it or not—I do not represent truckers—I am speaking on the subject and I have been given the right to talk.

I will say this much, Mr. President, I do not agree with the theory and principles under this particular bill.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. WALKER. As I understand, Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, rose to explain his vote. I submit, Mr. President, that the gentleman, by voting "present", did not vote on the bill and, therefore, he has nothing to explain and I submit, Mr. President, there is nothing before the Senate except consideration of the Calendar.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, the right was given to me to speak by the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair regrets to state that in his opinion the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, has the right to explain his vote.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

Mr. PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, under the Consitution a member can not be present and not vote unless he has an interest in the bill, in which case he shall arise and inform the Chair of that interest, and not vote. Under the Constitution the only thing a Senator can do is give personal reasons and interest in a bill, for not voting.

The PRESIDENT. To what provision of the Constitution is the gentleman from Delaware referring?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will look up the number of the section, Mr. President.

(The Senate was at ease)

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, this is the first time I ever knew of a Democrat going over to the Republicans to show them how to sustain a point of order.

Mr. SHAPIRO. I am sorry, Mr. President, I was trying to prove that the gentleman from Delaware was wrong. I think I have that right.

Mr. JASPAN. I appreciate that, Mr. President; it is not often I agree with the gentleman.

The PRESIDENT. The Senators will recall that the Senate is in session.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the only provision in the Constitution I can find covering a member being present and not voting is Section 33, Article 4, page 38, of the Manual, entitled "Members interested not to vote," and which reads: "Section 33. A member who has a personal private interest in any measure or bill proposed or pending before the General Assembly shall disclose the fact to the House of which he is a member, and shall not vote thereon."

I find no provision for a member being present and not voting.

The PRESIDENT. In the opinion of the Chair, the question which was impliedly raised by the gentleman from Delaware is not clearly settled; apparently there are authorities both ways. The Chair is glad he has not been asked to rule because in such event the Chair would have to ask the Senate to be at ease for perhaps some time while the Chair examined or consulted authorities.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, whether we wait five or seven hours, makes little or no difference to me. May I continue?

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia may proceed.

Mr. JASPAN. Frankly, I see no improvement in the Jones bill over the present system. I find fault with it and I had hoped that as a result of my ripper bill—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Schuylkill will proceed.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, is not debating the bill.

Mr. JASPAN. I am not debating the bill, Mr. President, I am giving my reasons for voting as I did.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Delaware will proceed.

Mr. HEYBURN. I raise the point of order, Mr. President, that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, did not vote.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan will restrict his statement as to an explanation of voting as he did.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I have studied this thing very carefully and frankly, I felt I should vote against this bill because it is no improvement over the present system. I had hoped for a strong parole law and I see nothing in the Jones bill that will tend to improve the present law.

I am interested in criminals. I am interested in men who are sent to jail, and I had hoped that his bill would help them. There is nothing the bill—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I rise on a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Schuylkill will state his point of order.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, has voted neither for nor against the bill, he has not voted at all, and he is debating a bill which has already passed the Senate. I press my point of order.

Mr. JASPAN. If I may change my vote, I will vote against it still, because there is no improvement over the present law; it aggravates the situation rather than helps it.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 556, on third reading, entitled:

An Act concerning the ascertainment of principal and income and the apportionment of receipts and expenses among tenants and remaindermen, and to make uniform the law with reference thereto

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 579, entitled:

An Act to further amend section one thousand one hundred forty-seven of the act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 Section one thousand one hundred forty-seven of the act approved the first day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 103) entitled "An act concerning townships of the second class and amending revising consolidating and changing the law relating thereto" as added by the act approved the eighteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (P. L. 1299) and amended by the act approved the eigthth day of May one thousand nine hundred forty-one (P. L. 39) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 1147 Taking Over of Roads Streets Lanes and Alleys Heretofore Dedicated as Public Highways Whenever plans of dedicated roads streets lanes or alleys located in second class townships have been adopted approved and recorded the board of supervisors of any such township may with the consent of the court of quarter sessions upon petition filed accept any roads streets lanes or alleys as public highways if shown in said plans as dedicated to such use and provided the roads or streets shall be not less than thirty-three feet in width and the lanes or alleys not less than fifteen feet in width said acceptance to be evidenced by a resolution of the said board of supervisors properly describing said roads streets lanes or alleys and adopted by a majority thereof by a vote duly recorded and entered upon the minutes of said board Upon the filing with the clerk of courts of quarter sessions of the county in which said township shall be situate a certified and attested copy of said resolution with the consent of the court endorsed thereon such roads streets lanes or alleys shall be and become a part of the public highway system of said township and shall be so recorded in said court of quarter sessions Provided That in the case of any plan of dedicated roads streets lanes or alleys which was adopted approved and recorded prior to the effective date of this Act said roads streets lanes or alleys if dedicated to public use may be taken over as public highways under the authority of and in accordance with the procedure prescribed by this section if said roads or streets are less than thirty-three feet in width and said lanes or alleys are less than fifteen feet in width

An said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 590, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend section six hundred four, section six hundred five, and to add section six hundred eight to the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 177), entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers thereof, including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools, or Teachers Colleges; abolishing, creating, reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments, boards, and commissions; defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers, and of the several administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers; fixing the salaries of the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, and certain other executive and administrative officers; providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers, and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments, boards, and commissions; and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments, boards and commissions shall be determined," by further defining the duties of the Auditor General, the State Treasurer and the Secretary of Internal Affairs, and requiring fiscal reports to be filed with the Governor by all administrative departments, boards, and commissions

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 594, entitled:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the twelfth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 133) entitled "An act to regulate the sale and possession of sulfanilamide and its derivatives in the interest of public health" by excepting sulfathiazole-impregnated finger or small adhesive gauze bandages.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The Clerk read the amendment as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 3, insert the word "except" after the boldface bracket and before the word "sulfathiazole-impregnated."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing on final passage.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that, House Bill No. 609, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend sections seven and thirteen of the act approved the third day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 252) entitled as amended "An act to regulate and restrain the traffic in malt and brewed beverages as herein defined providing for the licensing of the manufacture transportation sale and distribution of such beverages imposing license and permit fees and providing for collection and distribution thereof restricting ownership and interest in licensed places permitting municipalities and townships by vote of the electors to prevent the licensing therein of places where such beverages may be sold for consumption on the premises and regulating elections for this purpose imposing duties upon the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board quarter sessions courts district attorneys Department of Justice proper authorities of political subdivisions of the State and election officers providing penalties and repealing existing acts" conferring jurisdiction on the county court of Allegheny County in cases of appeals from the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 616, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend section seventeen of the act, approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (P. L. 414) entitled as amended "An act to provide revenue for State purposes; imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property; providing for the assessment, collection, and lien of the same, and the distribution of the proceeds thereof; imposing duties on executors, administrators, registers of wills, recorders of deeds, prothonotaries, and court clerks, and on persons, copartnerships, associations, banks, national banks, trust companies, and other corporations receiving deposits of money, and on certain corporations and limited partnerships; conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments; imposing penalties; and making an appropriation," by excluding from the provisions thereof personal property held in trust under the terms of a stock bonus, pension annuity, profit-sharing or deferred compensation plan as herein defined, maintained by an employer for the exclusive benefit of his employes or their beneficiaries

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 617, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to repeal section twenty-three of the act, approved the twenty-sixth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 1076), entitled "An act to provide for the organization, incorporation, operation, and supervision of cooperative savings and credit associations, to be termed credit unions; designating such credit unions as corporations, and defining their powers and duties; conferring certain powers and duties on the Department of Banking and providing penalties," which section exempts credit unions organized under said act, and the shares thereof, from certain tax and bonus liability

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. COX. Mr. President, I will not say I object—I do object, but I do not want the Majority Leader to have to make a motion in order to have these bills go over in order. However, Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. COX, I ask the gentleman from Delaware whether House Bill No. 607 is not identical with a bill of like nature which passed the Senate this week? Will the gentleman from Delaware tell me the reason for having these bills go over in order?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, some of the Democratic members of the Senate have told me that they would like to attend a dinner in Philadelphia this evening, so we agreed that all House bills should go over in order. However, Mr. President, I am perfectly willing to consider them now, if the gentlemen on the other side are agreeable.

Mr. COX. Mr. President, it is just a question of policy. These bills have gone through the House and are now in the Senate. Very shortly we are going to adjourn and some bills have passed the Senate which are not even on the House Calendar. Would it not be more appropriate for us to act on House bills?

Mr. HEYBURN. I do not understand the question.

Mr. COX. I remove my objection.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 623, entitled:

An Act to further amend section six hundred three of the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 789) entitled as amended "An act relating to insurance establishing an insurance department and amending revising and consolidating the law relating to the licensing qualification regulation examination suspension and dissolution of insurance companies Lloyds associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and certain societies and orders the examination and regulation of fire insurance rating bureaus and the licensing and regulation of insurance agents and brokers the service of legal process upon foreign insurance companies associations or exchanges providing penalties and repealing existing laws" by providing that an attorney-at-law or a licensed real estate broker shall not be required to obtain a license to act as agent for a domestic title insurance company

Section 1 Section six hundred three of the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 789) entitled as amended "An act relating to insurance establishing an insurance department and amending revising and consolidating the law relating to the licensing qualification regulation examination suspension and dissolution of insurance companies Lloyds associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and certain societies and orders the examination and regulation of fire insurance rating bureaus and the licensing and regulation of insurance agents and brokers the service of legal process upon foreign insurance companies associations or exchanges providing penalties and repealing existing laws" as last amended by the act approved the twenty-fourth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 990) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 603 Agent's Licenses The Insurance Commissioner may issue upon certification as aforesaid by any company association or exchange authorized by law to transact business within this Commonwealth an agent's license to any person of at least twenty-one years of age and to any copartnership or corporation No license as agent shall be granted to any corporation unless by provisions of its charter it is authorized to engage in the business of insurance or real estate and unless individual licenses are also secured for each active officer of such corporation and no license shall be granted to a copartnership or firm unless individual licenses are also secured for each active member of such copartnership or firm Before any such license is granted the applicant shall first make answer in writing and under oath to interrogatories on forms and supplements such as the Insurance Commissioner shall prepare and submit which answers shall be vouched for by indorsement of the company association or exchange interested and to the effect that the applicant is of good business reputation and of experience in underwriting other than soliciting and is worthy of a license Provided That any licensed agent who shall have held for a continuous period of five years a license to transact as agent any class or kind of insurance business for any company association or exchange authorized to transact business within this Commonwealth shall be entitled upon proper application to receive a license to transact as agent the same class or kind of insurance business for any other company association or exchange so authorized to transact business without the necessity of submitting to an examination When the Insurance Commissioner is satisfied that the applicant is worthy of license and that he is reasonably familiar with provisions of the insurance law of this Commonwealth he shall issue a license stating that the company association or exchange represented by the agent has complied with the requirements of law and has been authorized by the Insurance Commissioner to transact business within this Commonwealth and that the agent has been duly appointed by the company association or exchange named in the license Licenses of life insurance agents shall expire annually at midnight of March thirty-first licenses of fire insurance agents shall expire annually at midnight of September thirtieth and the licenses of casualty and health and accident insurance agents shall expire annually at midnight of November thirtieth unless sooner terminated as the result of severance of business relations between the company association or exchange and the agent or unless revoked by the Insurance Commissioner for cause Licenses for fire insurance agents and for casualty and health and accident insurance agents issued to expire at midnight March thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four are hereby extended until midnight of September thirtieth and November thirtieth one thousand nine hundred and thirty-four respectively in accordance with the expiration dates fixed by this act The department shall collect an additional fee for each such license extended at the rate of one-twelfth of the annual rate as fixed by this act for each additional month that the term of such licenses are extended Any person whose license is revoked may appeal to the court of common pleas of Dauphin County within thirty days of the date of receipt by registered mail of a notice of the fact of such revocation Nothing in this section shall be construed as applying to domestic mutual fire insurance companies An attorney-at-law or a licensed real estate broker shall not however be required to obtain a license to act as agent for a domestic title insurance company

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Some weeks ago, Mr. President, some lawyers in Philadelphia visited me and asked me if I would co-sponsor a bill which would correct a condition which they found required correction. As all lawyers know, in representing clients sometimes you have to settle properties and if you want a clear title you must make application to a title insurance company for insurance of the title.

There is a real estate broker license's law which requires persons engaged in the real estate business to take out a license. The trust companies have now taken the position that under the act that neither a lawyer nor a real estate broker should be permitted to make application for title insurance unless he gets a broker's license.

This bill is intended to correct that condition, by clarifying the act and eliminating from the provisions of the act the necessity of a lawyer taking out a license in order to make application for title insurance; the same thing would apply to a real estate broker, it limits his right to operate as a real estate broker to that single sphere.

The trust companies have asked for this bill and I think that the act ought to be clarified.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 626, entitled:

An Act to regulate persons partnerships and corporations engaged in the business of renting motor vehicles authorizing the Public Utility Commission to administer and enforce the provisions of this Act and imposing penalties

Whereas both common carriers by motor vehicles and contract carriers by motor vehicle are subject to regulation under the Public Utility Law and

Whereas the renting of motor vehicles to the public competes to a certain extent with the business of common carriers and contract carriers by motor vehicle and

Whereas the public safety and welfare demands that persons engaged in renting motor vehicles to the public should either be insured or should establish their financial responsibility and

Whereas it is therefore in the judgment of the General Assembly necessary that persons engaging in the business of renting motor vehicles be regulated to the limited extent hereinafter provided

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 In this Act

"Commission" shall mean the Public Utility Commission of Pennsylvania

"Person" shall mean an individual a partnership or other association or a corporation

The masculine gender shall include the feminine and neuter and the singular shall include the plural

Section 2 No person shall engage in the business of renting to others motor vehicles with or without drivers unless and until a certificate of public convenience shall have been obtained from the Commission evidencing such person's right to engage in such business within this Commonwealth

Section 3 Certificates of public convenience shall subject to the exception hereinafter made be issued to persons applying therefor only if

(a) The applicant shall have filed an application upon a form prescribed by the Commission and shall have paid the fee established by the Commission for filing the same

(b) The Commission shall have found that the business which the applicant proposes to conduct is necessary and convenient for the accommodation of the public taking into consideration the amount of business in the vicinity where the applicant proposes to conduct business and the facilities which other persons in the conduct of similar business are making available to the public

(c) The Commission shall have found that the applicant is or in the case of a corporation the officers thereof are of good character and reputation and that the applicant has adequate financial resources to enable him to keep the rented motor vehicles in safe operating condition

(d) The Commission shall have found either that the applicant has made arrangements to carry insurance in a reasonable amount to secure his customers and the public against damages for which he may be responsible occasioned by accidents in which the motor vehicles rented by him to others may become involved or that the applicant has adequate financial responsibility to enable him to pay such damages without insurance

Provided that persons who were engaged in the business of renting motor vehicles on January 1 1943 shall be granted certificates of public convenience immediately upon satisfying the Commission by furnishing such pertinent information as the Commission may require that they qualify under clauses (c) and (d) hereof

Section 4 For the purpose of determining the facts required by Section 3 to be found by the Commission the Commission shall hold a hearing after notice to the applicant of the time and place thereof and upon proof that the applicant has given notice of such hearing to such persons as the Commission may require him to notify The Commission shall cause notice to be given in such manner as it shall by rule or regulation prescribe to all other persons if any engaged in the business of renting motor vehicles in the vicinity of the place where the applicant desires to engage in business

Section 5 If a certificate of public convenience shall have been granted for the purpose of engaging in the business of renting motor vehicles the holder thereof shall immediately file with the Commission a tariff showing the schedule of rentals which he proposes to charge for the use of motor vehicles not definitely rented to a single lessee for a period of a year or more Such rentals may be stated exclusive of the charges for insurance Different rates may be stated for different kinds or types of motor vehicles and for different classes of lessees but the rates of rental charged to the public (exclusive of the charges for insurance) shall not be lower than the rates charged to common carriers and to contract carriers by motor vehicle

The rates of rental may at any time be changed by the lessor upon the filing of a new tariff showing the effective date of the new rates

Rates complying with the requirements of this section shall be effective without the approval of the Commission

Section 6 Specific motor vehicles may be rented under written contract for periods of a year or more The rates of rental in such cases need not conform to the filed tariff but in all such cases the lessor shall file with the Commission statements in such form as the Commission shall prescribe showing the name and address of the lessee the date and term of the contract and a detailed description of the leased motor vehicles

Section 7 The Commission may after notice and hearing revoke a certificate of public convenience for any violation of this Act or because the holder thereof has ceased to carry reasonable insurance or has ceased to have adequate financial resources either to conduct the business or to pay damages for which he may be responsible occasioned by accidents in which the motor vehicles rented by him to others may become involved

Section 8 Any person aggrieved by any decision of the Commission granting refusing to grant or revoking a certificate of public convenience may appeal therefrom to the Superior Court of Pennsylvania as in other cases coming before the Commission

Section 9 It shall be unlawful for any person to engage in the business of renting motor vehicles to others without having obtained a certificate of public convenience under the provisions of this Act or for any person holding such certificate to charge a rental or rate to any person for the lease of a motor vehicle for less than one year which is lower than the rate or rental shown in the field tariff or to charge or accept payment of a rate or rental for the lease for less than one year of any motor vehicle by any other person which is lower than the rate or rental shown by the filed tariff as the rate or rental (exclusive of the charges for insurance) chargeable to common carriers and to contract carriers by motor vehicle

Section 10 Any person violating the provisions of this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than One Hundred Dollars ($100) or more than One Thousand Dollars ($1,000) or to undergo imprisonment for not more than one (1) year or both in the discretion of the court

Section 11 The Commission is hereby charged with the duty of administering and enforcing this Act and for that purpose is empowered to make any rules and regulations appropriate to the administration and enforcement thereof It shall adopt and promulgate a schedule of fees for filing applications and other papers for issuing certificates and other papers and for holding hearings Such fees shall be in such amounts as in the judgment of the Commission shall be necessary to defray the cost of administering this Act

Section 12 This Act shall become effective thirty (30) days after its final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that House Bill No. 629, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend section four hundred thirty-seven of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" by authorizing the making of appropriations to more than one historical society be recommitted to the Committee on County Government.

Mr. LETZLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 630, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsection B of section one thousand eleven of the act approved the fifteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 565), entitled "An act relating to the powers and duties of the Department of Banking and the Secretary of Banking in exercising supervision over, and taking possession of and conducting or liquidating the business and property of, corporations, associations, and persons receiving deposits or otherwise transacting a banking business, corporations acting as fiduciaries, and building and loan associations, providing for the payment of the expense of the Department of Banking by supervised corporations, associations, or persons, and appropriating the banking Department Fund; authorizing the Department of Banking, under certain circumstances, to examine corporations, associations or persons affiliated, or having business transactions with supervised corporations, associations or persons; authorizing appeals to the Supreme Court, and prescribing and limiting the powers and duties of certain other courts and their prothonotaries, registers of wills, recorders of deeds, and certain State departments, commissions, and officers; authorizing certain local public officers and State departments to collect fees for services rendered under this act; providing penalties; and repealing certain acts and parts of acts," further regulating distribution of the assets of building and loan associations in liquidation by the Secretary of Banking

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 631, on third reading, entitled:

An Act relating to the administration, liquidation and distribution of title insurance reserve funds in the possession of the Secretary of Banking as receiver and providing for the rights and powers of corporations in respect to the writing of policies of reinsurance in connection therewith

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. WOODRING. I have no objection of this bill going over in order but I would like to call to the attention of the members of the Senate the fact that on page 6, lines 23 and 29 there has been an upside down printing, which ought to be corrected before the bill is voted on next week.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman from Northampton. The correction suggested will be made.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. JASPAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Heyburn.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Is it the thought of the Republican Party that the Legislature will adjourn some time next week?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes Mr. President it is.

Mr. JASPAN. On what day? What legislative day, I would like to know?

Mr. HEYBURN. I am not able to state that, Mr. President: I do not know.

Mr. JASPAN. But the gentleman does hope to adjourn some time next week?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes, indeed.

Mr. JASPAN. As late as Saturday, is that correct?

Mr. HEYBURN. I do not know what day.

Mr. JASPAN. May I further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Is there a resolution on record to that effect?

Mr. HEYBURN. No; that is unnecessary, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. May I further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware?

Mr. PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Why is it unnecessary?

Mr. HEYBURN. There is no final adjournment resolution necessary, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I understand there is a resolution on the desk now, which has been laid on the table, proposing that we adjourn as of April 15, is that correct?

Mr. HEYBURN. That was a House resolution, Mr. President—I heard something about a House resolution—but there has been no Senate adjournment sine die resolution.

Mr. JASPAN. I would further like to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware on that question. Has there been any action taken on the House resolution proposing to adjourn as of April 29?

Mr. HEYBURN. There was no such resolution that I know of, Mr. President, proposing to adjourn as of April 29.

Mr. JASPAN. May I further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware and ask him what was the date fixed in that resolution.

Mr. HEYBURN. I know of no final adjournment resolution before the Legislature, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. I would like to further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware and ask him in the resolution passed by the House, did that fix a date of adjournment?

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, of course, I am not a member of the House. The only thing I read was about three or four months ago some political leaders said they hoped the House and Senate would adjourn.

Mr. JASPAN. Who were those Republican leaders, Mr. President.

Mr. HEYBURN. Well, Mr. President, it was not Mr. Pew or Mr. Grundy, and it was not Mr. Holland.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, who introduced that resolution in the House? The gentleman from Delaware does not know, does he?

Mr. HEYBURN. I am sorry.

Mr. JASPAN. Why not be honest with the Senate and tell us the truth? Do you want to adjourn next week or not? We are not children.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, we expect that the Legislature will adjourn some time next week, for the fifteenth or sixteenth time, I will tell the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan.

Mr. JASPAN. I take it, therefore, Mr. President, that we will adjourn some time next week finally, is that correct or is it not correct?

Mr. HEYBURN. Yes; I would take from my answers all along that we are going to adjourn next week.

Mr. JASPAN. And that was the answer of the gentleman from Delaware at the very outset when I first interrogated him?

Mr. HEYBURN. That is right.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 641, on third reading, entitled:

An Act providing for the validation and amendment of defective tax liens heretofore or hereafter entered of record; repealing inconsistent legislation

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 726, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend section twelve of the act approved the twelfth day of May, one thousand nine hundred twenty-five, (P. L. 603), entitled "An act concerning conditional sales; and to make uniform the law relating thereto," making further provision for the satisfaction of conditional sales contracts filed in the office of the prothonotary

L. 626), entitled "An act providing for and regulating the assessment and valuation of all subjects of taxation in counties of the second class; creating and prescribing the powers and duties of a Board of Property Assessment, Appeals and Review; imposing duties on certain county and city officers; abolishing the board for the assessment and revision of taxes in such counties; and prescribing penalties," further regulating appeals from assessments, and exonerations and refunds of taxes effected thereby; validating appeals heretofore taken; and imposing additional duties upon the said board

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 736, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend section sixteen of the act, approved the third day of May, one thousand nine hundred thirty-three (P. L. 252), entitled, as amended "An act to regulate and restrain the traffic in malt and brewed beverages, as herein defined; providing for the licensing of the manufacture, transportation, sale and distribution of such beverages; imposing license and permit fees, and providing for collection and distribution thereof; restricting ownership and interest in licensed places; permitting municipalities and townships, by vote of the electors, to prevent the licensing therein of places where such beverages may be sold for consumption on the premises, and regulating elections for this purpose; imposing duties upon the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, quarter sessions courts, district attorneys, the Department of Justice, proper authorities of political subdivisions of the State, and election officers; providing penalties; and repealing existing acts," by providing for the surrendering by persons in military service of licenses granted to them, the renewal thereof by the board during the licensee's continuance in such service and the renewal thereof thereafter

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 742, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend section one of the act, approved the fifteenth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 346), entitled "An act to promote uniformity in the assessment and taxation of properties and persons within the territorial limits of cities of the second class by providing that city taxes within such territorial limits shall be assessed, levied and collected upon the basis of the county assessments; imposing duties on county assessing authorities; abolishing the department of assessors in cities of the second class and tranasferring certain property to county taxing authorities," by defining the effect upon appeals of the certification of tax duplicates to cities of the second class and to school districts coterminous therewith, and providing for exonerations and refunds of taxes assessed against properties affected by such appeals

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 750, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend subsection (a) of section twenty-five of the act, approved the seventh day of June, one thousand nine hundred seventeen (P. L. 447), entitled as amended, "An act relating to the administration and distribution of the estates of decedents and of minors; and of trust testates; including the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties, liabilities, accounts, discharge and removal of executors, administrators, guardians, and trustees, herein designated as fiduciaries; the administration and distribution of the estates of presumed decedents; widow's and children's exemptions; debts of decedents; rents of real estate as assets for payment thereof, the lien thereof, sales and mortgages of real estate for the payment thereof, judgments and executions therefor, and the discharge of real estate from the lien thereof; contracts of decedents for the sale or purchase of real estate; legacies, including legacies charged on land; the discharge of residuary estates and of real estate from the lien of legacies and other charges; the appraisement of real estate devised at a valuation; the ascertainment of the curtilage of dwelling houses or other buildings devised; the abatement and survival of actions, and the substitution of executors and administrators therein; the survival of causes of action and suits thereupon by or against fiduciaries; investments by fiduciaries; the organization of corporations to carry on the business of decedents; the audit and review of accounts of fiduciaries; refunding bonds; transcripts to the court of common pleas of balances due by fiduciaries; the rights, powers, and liabilities of non-resident and foreign fiduciaries; the appointment, bonds, rights, powers, duties and liabilities of trustees durante absentia; the recording and registration of decrees, reports and other proceedings, and the fees therefor; appeals in certain cases; and, also, generally dealing with the jurisdiction, powers, and procedure of the orphans' court in all matters relating to fiduciaries concerned with the estates of decedents," by providing for the filing of petitions for the enforcement of payment of legacies charged upon real estate by executors, administrators cum testamento annexo and administrators de bonis non cum testamento annexo.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 787, on third reading entitled:

An Act to further amend section one hundred thirty-six of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" changing the requirements for creating the office of county controller by court decree in counties of the sixth seventh and eighth classes and authorizing the establishment of such office by referendum

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 805, on third reading, entitled:

An Act authorizing the appointment of a clerk to the jury commissioners in counties of the third class by the court of common pleas; the fixing of his salary by the salary board, and the payment thereof by the county

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 823, on third reading, entitled:

An Act to further amend section fourteen of the act approved the thirteenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and fifteen (P. L. 286), entitled "An act to provide for the health, safety, and welfare of minors: By forbidding their employment or work in certain establishments and occupations, and under certain specified ages; by restricting their hours of labor, and regulating certain conditions of their employment; by requiring employment certificates for certain minors, and prescribing the kinds thereof, and the rules for the issuance, reissuance, filing, return, and recording of the same; by providing that the Industrial Board shall, under certain conditions, determine and declare whether certain occupations are within the prohibitions of this act; requiring that certain minors shall, during the period of their employment, attend certain schools, to be established as therein provided, and to be approved by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, and regulating the conditions of such attendance; authorizing the State Board of Education, in certain cases, to appoint attendance officers to aid in enforcing the provisions of this act, and creating the salary and expenses of such officers a charge against the school district wherein they are employed requiring certain abstracts and notices to be posted; providing for the enforcement of this act by the Commissioner of Labor and Industry, the attendance officers of school districts, and police officers; and defining the procedure in prosecutions thereunder, and establishing certain presumptions in relation thereto; providing penalties for the violation of the provisions thereof; and repealing all acts or parts of acts inconsistent therewith," by permitting examinations to be made by any licensed physician

go over in its order.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 917, entitled:

An Act to promote interstate cooperation for the use conservation protection and equitable diversion of the water resources in the Delaware River Basin between and among the States of Pennsylvania New York and New Jersey for the purpose of meeting prospective needs for domestic and municipal water supply regulating and limiting the use of the waters of the Delaware River and its tributaries and prescribing rules and standards requiring permits from and providing for hearings by the Water and Power Resources Board and for appeals from its decision vesting power in the Water and Power Resources Board to vary or modify the rules and standards under certain conditions and to adopt rules and regulations and further defining its powers and duties requiring notice to the States of New York and New Jersey of all applications for water diversion providing for the filing of stipulations by the Attorney General with the United States Supreme Court and obtaining its approval of water diversions

Whereas The States of New York New Jersey Pennsylvania and Delaware have each created and now maintain a Commission or Committee on Interstate Cooperation for the purpose of establishing and maintaining governmental machinery to facilitate communication negotiation understanding and cooperation between said states respectively and other states of the Union both regionally and nationally with power to establish such committees sub-committees and advisory boards as are deemed advisable to conduct conferences and to formulate proposals concerning subjects of intergovernmental cooperation in the common cause of reducing the burdens which are imposed upon the citizens of every state by governmental confusion competition and conflict and

Whereas said Commissions or Committees on Interstate Cooperation of said states have organized and established and are now maintaining as an instrument of governmental machinery a joint advisory board known as "The Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin" as a regional commission composed of standing sub-committees of said Commissions or Comittees on Interstate Cooperation respectively for the purpose of entering upon a program to study among other subjects the water supply and the conservation and protecton of the water resources of the Delaware River Basin and

Whereas the Commissions or Committees on Interstate Cooperation among the said states favor the enactment of uniform laws and the adoption of uniform rules to regulate the use and diversion of the waters of the Delaware River and its tributaries for the purpose of meeting present and prospective needs for domestic and municipal water supply purposes in said states respectively and

Whereas the said Commission on the Delaware River Basin through its Technical Advisory Committee on Quantity of Water consisting of representatives of the Water and Power Resources Board of the Department of Forests and Waters of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and of similar agencies of New Jersey and New York has made a study for the purposes above recited of the said Delaware River and its tributaries in said Delaware River Basin and

Whereas the said Commission on the Delaware River Basin has formulated and approved proposals for interstate cooperation in the use conservation protection and equitable diversion of the water resources of the Delaware River Basin

Section 1 Legislative Intent It is hereby declared to be the intent and purpose of this act to regulate the diversion and use of the waters of the Delaware River and its tributaries for the purpose of meeting present and prospective needs for domestic and municipal water supply and the provisions of this act shall apply to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof any municipality or civil division of the Commonwealth any district or similar agency or authority person partnerships corporations or associations

Section 2 Definitions The following words phrases or abbreviations unless the context clearly indicates otherwise shall have the meanings ascribed to them in this section

"Board" means the Water Power and Resources Board of the Department of Forests and Waters of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania or its duly constituted successor

"Person" includes the Commonwealth or any agency thereof any muncipality or civil division of the Commonwealth any district or similar agency or authority persons partnerships corporations or associations

"c.f.s." is the abbreviation for cubic feet per second

"c.s.m." is the abbreviation for cubic feet per second per square mile of contributing drainage area

"Delaware River" means that reach of the Delaware River which extends from the confluence of the West Branch and the East Branch of the Delaware River near Hancock New York to the point where it passes the boundary line between the States of Delaware and Pennsylvania

"Delaware River Basin" means the total area drained by the Delaware River and its tributaries

"Waters of the Delaware River" or "Waters of the Delaware River Basin" means the surface waters originating within the Delaware River Basin

"Channel" or "Channel of the Delaware River" means the bed of the Delaware River and the lands on and over which the waters of said river flow

"Upper Basin" means that part of the Delaware River Basin from which the surface waters flow and enter the channel of the Delaware River at and about its confluence with the Neversink River The Upper Basin shall be understood to include the area drained by the Neversink River

"Lower Basin" means that part of the Delaware River Basin which is not embraced within the Upper Basin

"Tributary" or "Tributary of the Delaware River" means any watercourse the waters of which naturally flow into the channel of the Delaware River

"Complete Diversion" means the taking or removal of waters of the Delaware River Basin to a point outside of the Delaware River Basin

"Partial Diversion" means the taking or removal of waters from any point in the Delaware River above Trenton Falls or from any tributary of the section of the Delaware River above Trenton Falls which water is returned to the channel of the Delaware River under the following conditions

A If taken from a tributary such water is returned but not in such a manner as to be available in the channel at the confluence of such tributary and the Delaware River

B If taken from the Delaware River such water is returned but not above a point twelve miles below the point of taking as measured along the center line of the channel provided that if the water is returned within twelve mlies of the point of the original taking said taking shall not be considered a partial diversion

"Divert" means to effect a complete diversion or a partial diversion

"Development" means the construction of any works for the taking of water or the storage of water for diversion

"Develop" means to make available by development

"Point of Development" means the place on the Delaware River or upon a tributary at which the lowermost structure dam intake or other works is maintained for the purpose of making water available for diversion

"Domesic and Municipal Water Supply" means the use of water by or for water works serving the public

"Natural Flow" means the rate of flow of a river stream or tributary as it would occur if it were not affected materially by artificial works or developments

"Actual Flow of the Delaware River" means the existing flow of the Delaware River uncorrected for the effects of any developments or works of man excepting for the effect of any by-passing of the flow of the stream around the point of development.

"Control Rates" means certain rates of natural flow of a stream at the point of development used in fixing the rate of flow to be maintained below the point Such rates are correlated with certain rates of natural flow at the stream gaging station cooperatively operated by the United States Geological Survey at Trenton New Jersey and they are to be obtained as follows From the record of flow of the Delaware River at Trenton gage for the years between October 1 1928 and September 30 1941 both inclusive corrected for diversion around that station and for artificial regulation using for this purpose the corrections reported by the United States Geological Survey it has been determined that the natural daily flows of the river at that point exceed 4,000 c.f.s for seventy-six (76) per cent of the time exceed 3,400 c.f.s. for eighty-two (82) per cent of the time and exceed 2,500 c.f.s. for ninety (90) per cent of the time From the measured or computed rates of natural flow of the stream under consideration at the proposed point of development and for the years between October 1 1928 and September 30 1941 both inclusive rates of flow are determined which will be exceeded by the natural flow for the same percentages of time seventy-six (76) per cent eighty-two (82) per cent and ninety (90) per cent as have been determined from Trenton gage as shown These rates of flow are termed the 4,000 c.f.s. 3,400 c.f.s. and 2,500 c.f.s. control rates for that point of development In arriving at the rates of natural flow of the stream as above set forth measured rates of flow shall be used as far as they may be available Otherwise the rates shall be derived from the records of the nearest and most suitable gaging stations using accepted hydrological methods for making the computations

"Mean-annual-yield" means the average daily rate of natural runoff of the stream under consideration at its point of development for the period between October 1 1928 and September 30 1941 both inclusive In determining the mean-annual-yield as above set forth measured rates of flow shall be used as far as they may be available Otherwise such yield shall be derived from the records of the nearest most suitable gaging stations using accepted hydrological methods for making the computations

"Diversion Project" means any project for development or use of the waters of the Delaware River for domestic and municipal water supply involving a complete diversion of water from the channel of the Delaware River or a complete diversion of water from a tributary of the Delaware River or a partial diversion of water from a tributary of the Delaware River all as set forth in this act

Section 3 General Provisions for Diversions It shall be unlawful to divert water under a Diversion Project without the previous consent and approval of the Water and Power Resources Board Such consent and approval shall be given only if in addition to the determinations which the Board is required to make under any other statutory provision it shall also determine that such Diversion Project fully complies with the provisions of this act

Section 4 Provisions for Complete Diversions from Tributaries of the Delaware River Complete diversions of water from the tributaries of the Delaware River for domestic and municipal supply purposes shall be subject to the following provisions

A Whenever the natural flow of the tributary under development at its point of development exceeds its 4000 c.f.s. control rate no release of water from storage to maintain the flow of the tributary need be made as far as this act is concerned

B Whenever the natural flow of the tributary under development at its point of development falls below its 4,000 c.f.s. control rate the flow of the tributary immediately below the point of development shall be maintained as follows

1 Whenever the natural flow of the tributary falls below its 2,500 c.f.s. control rate the rate of flow required to be maintained shall be fifty (50) per cent of the mean annual yield of the stream if in the Upper Basin and forty (40) per cent of the mean annual yield of the stream if in the Lower Basin

2 Whenever the natural flow of the tributary is between its 2,500 c.f.s. control rate and its 4,000 c.f.s. control rate the rate of flow required to be maintained shall be twenty-five (25) per cent of the mean annual yield of the stream if in the Upper Basin and twenty (20) per cent of the mean annual yield of the stream if in the Lower Basin

Section 5 Provisions for Partial Diversions from Tributaries of the Delaware River Partial diversions of water from tributaries of the Delaware River for domestic and municipal supply purposes shall be subject to the following provisions

A Whenever the natural flow of the tributary under development at its point of development exceeds its 3400 c.f.s. control rate no release of water from storage to maintain the flow of the tributary need be made as far as this act is concerned

B Whenever the natural flow the tributary under development at its point of development falls below its 3,400 c.f.s. control rate the flow of the tributary immediately below its point of development shall be maintained at a rate at least equal to said natural flow during the time it is below the 3,400 c.f.s. control rate

Section 6 Provisions for Complete Diversions from the Channel of the Delaware River Complete diversions of water from the channel of the Delaware River for domestic and municipal water supply purposes shall be subject to the following provisions

A Whenever the actual flow of the Delaware River at the point of development exceeds a rate of 0.59 c.s.m. equivalent of 4,000 c.f.s. at Trenton if in the Upper Basin or exceeds a rate of 0.50 c.s.m. equivalent to 3,400 c.f.s. at Trenton if in the Lower Basin all or any part of such actual flow in excess of the rates hereinabove specified may be withdrawn from the river and be diverted

B Whenever the actual flow of the Delaware River at the point of development falls below a rate of 0.59 c.s.m. if in the Upper Basin or falls below a rate of 0.50 c.s.m. if in the Lower Basin no part of such actual flow may be withdrawn from the river In addition to this restriction during the time that the actual flow of the Delaware River is below the rates hereinabove specified water shall be released from storage and be delivered into the Delaware River in such a manner as to be available immediately below the point of development The amount of water to be so released shall be determined by the following formula

$$R = \frac{C}{S} (YK)$$ in which formula

"R" represents the amount of water to be so released in cubic feet per second

"C" represents the average daily amount of the proposed diversion in c.f.s.

"S" represents the safe yield which has been determined to be representative of tributary streams located in the various parts of the Delaware River Basin before providing for compensating releases Values of "S" shall be as follows

In the Upper Basin	1.8 c.s.m.
In the Lower Basin
In Pennsylvania	1.6 c.s.m.
In New Jersey	1.2 c.s.m.

"Y" represents the mean-annual-yield of the stream upon which storage is provided for the purpose of making the prescribed release of water

"K" represents 40 per cent whenever the aforesaid actual flow of the Delaware River at the point of development is less than 0.37 c.s.m. and twenty (20) per cent whenever the aforesaid actual flow is between 0.37 c.s.m. and 0.59 c.s.m. if in the Upper Basin or between 0.37 c.s.m. and 0.50 c.s.m. if in the Lower Basin

Section 7 Provisions for Partial Diversions from the Channel of the Delaware River The provisions of this act do not apply to partial diversions from the channel of the Delaware River but the Board shall nevertheless make determination of the fact that such proposed diversion is a partial diversion as herein defined

Section 8 Provisions for Complete and Partial Diversions from the tributaries or the Channel of the Delaware River Whenever a project involving both complete and partial diversions from either the tributaries of the Delaware River or the channel of the Delaware River is undertaken the provisions for complete and partial diversions as herein prescribed shall apply to each kind of diversion and to the respective quantities involved in each of such diversions

Section 9 Act to be Enforced by the Water and Power Resources Board The Board is hereby designated as the agency of the Commonwealth to administer and enforce compliance with the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations adopted under its authority

Section 10 Powers and Duties of the Board in Relation to the Delaware River Basin The Board shall have power and authority to

1 Adopt such rules and regulations for the efficient administration of this act as it shall find to be necessary

2 Study consider and determine upon a public policy with regard to the conservation and protection of the water resources of the Delaware River Basin and the equitable and reasonable diversion of water from the Delaware River and its tributaries

3 Request the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin to cooperate and assist the Board in such surveys and investigations of the water resources of the basin as the Board may undertake

4 Request the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin to investigate report on and recommend the equipment necessary adequately to measure all quantities and rates of stream flow necessary for the proper enforcement of this act to cooperate and assist the Board in the observation of the operation of all developments and to recommend procedures necessary to secure compliance with this act and its purposes to report and to recommend to the Board whether the quantity of water proposed for diversion and use by a project in New York New Jersey or Pennsylvania is fair and equitable to report and to recommend to the Board the manner in which water may be diverted from the channel of the Delaware River and its tributaries and specific rules and regulations based on the principle of equitable apportionment and reasonable diversion in compliance with this article

5 Supply information and data on water diversions from the Delaware River or its tributaries to the State of New Jersey and the State of New York

6 Continue as a commission or by representation to confer with the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin and representatives of the State of New Jersey and the State of New York with regard to all of the above matters and the general problem of the regulation and diversion of the waters of the Delaware River Basin for water supply and municipal purposes

Section 11 Procedure for Obtaining the Approval of the Board The procedure for obtaining the consent and approval of the Board for any diversion project shall be that set forth in any present or future statute authorizing such diversions by any person as above defined and all applicable terms and provisions of all such statutory provisions shall remain in full force and effect in such cases but in addition thereto before approving an application the Board must have made the additional determinations specified in section three Upon receipt of an application for approval of a diversion project as above defined or before making decision with regard to such diversion project in a case wherein the Board adopts such project the Board shall send written notice to the corresponding agency of the State of New York and the State of New Jersey outlining the proposed diversion project stating when and where the hearing thereon will be held and requesting such agencies to submit to the board a statement of its position in regard thereto At the hearing on such project representatives of such state agencies of New York and New Jersey may appear and present oral and wrtiten testimony

Section 12 Approval by the United States Supreme Court Whenever acting under the provisions of this act the Board after having duly considered the views of the other states shall give its final approval to any diversion project application shall forthwith be made to the Supreme Court of the United States for approval of such project The decision and approval of the Board shall be of no force or effect unless and until the project has been approved by the Supreme Court of the United States in those cases in which the said Court retains or assumes jurisdiction in the matter

Section 13 Diversion Projects in Other States Whenever the Board shall receive written notice similar to that provided for in section eleven from either the States of New Jersey or the State of New York of an application for approval of a diversion project or the proposed adoption of such a project in either or both of these states the Board shall study the matter communicate and confer with the proper authorities of the other states attend hearings and generally take all proper steps to protect the interests of this State As promptly as possible and not later than six months after the receipt of such notice the Board shall submit a statement of its findings with regard thereto to the interested state or states If the Board shall find that the project is fair and equitable to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and in accordance with the provisions of this act it shall prepare a statement to that effect and submit it to the Attorney General and the Governor for approval On receipt of such approval the agencies of the other two states shall be so advised Thereafter when application is made to the Supreme Court of the United States for approval of such project the Attorney General may by stipulation or otherwise consent to an entry of an order by that Court approving of such diversion

Section 14 Enforcement The board shall have the power to bring such actions suits or proceedings as in its judgment may be necessary or proper to enable the Board to perform any of the duties imposed on it by any of the provisions of this act or to prevent the violation by any person or corporation public or private of any of the provisions thereof

Section 15 Existing Rights Preserved The passage of this act shall not impair or affect any lawful rights existing at the time this act takes effect to make complete or partial diversions Any person in this Commonwealth now legally diverting or having legal authority to divert water for domestic and municipal water supply from the Delaware River or its tributaries may apply to the Board for modification of the restrictions under which such diversion is made or is to be made The board may modify such restrictions subject to and in accordance with the provisions of this act to such extent as may be necessary or appropriate for the purpose of any diversion project hereunder In acting on such cases the Board shall follow the procedure set forth in this act in so far as it may be made to apply

Section 16 Constitutional Construction and Severability The provisions of this act shall be severable and if any phrase clause sentence or provision of this act is declared unconstitutional or the applicability thereof to any person is held invalid the constitutionality of the remainder of this act and the applicability thereof to other persons and circumstances shall not be affected thereby It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that the act be construed liberally

Section 17 Repeals All acts or parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed

Section 18 Adoption of Similar Acts by New Jersey and New York On approval of the enactment of this act by the Governor the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall certify copies thereof to the Secretaries of State of New Jersey and New York with a request that similar acts enacted by those states be certified to him On receipt of certified copies of such acts he shall determine whether in his judgment said acts contain substantially the same provisions as to water supply diversion projects to be constructed in the Delaware River Basin as those herein contained Should he so find with regard to enactments by both the State of New Jersey and State of New York he shall so certify to the Governor the Water and Power Resources Board and the Secretaries of State of New Jersey and New York The provisions of this act shall not be put into operation until the first day of January next suceeding such certification

Section 19 Effective Date The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

THURSDAY, April 29, 1943

The House met at 1. p. m.
The SPEAKER (Ira T. Fiss) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Rev. Charles A. Lantz, pastor of Milroy Lutheran Church, a guest of the Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

Almighty and Eternal God, in whom we live and move and have our being, we come to Thee this day seeking Thy blessing. We are Thine, for Thou hast made us in Thine own image, and bestowed upon us the likeness of our Creator. Thou hast put into our hearts great hungerings, and great longings that the things of the world cannot satisfy. For Thou, O God, hast made us for Thyself, and our hearts will be at unrest until they rest in Thee.

We seek Thy divine guidance. Thou art the Supreme Law Giver, help us this day to make law that is in harmony with the divine law.

Bless our great country, and make us a people worthy of victory. Graciously regard the president of the United States, and the governor of this Commonwealth. Preserve and keep in body and soul all those who serve in the Armed Forces of our country; and may peace and good will cover the earth very soon. Through the same Jesus Christ Thy Son our Lord. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. BRETHERICK

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 67.

In the House of Representatives, April 29, 1943.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Legislative Reference Bureau of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be directed to prepare at an early date a compilation of the laws of the Commonwealth relating to county and city sealers of weights and measures, and that said compilation shall be printed as a legislative document, and shall be distributed and sold by the Department of Property and Supplies in the manner provided by law.

Referred to the Committee on State Government.

By Mr. BARTON (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 68.

In the House of Representatives, April 26, 1943.

George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, the first and second Presidents of our Nation, the father of his country and the great liberator both not only believed that no President of the United States should serve more than two terms, but both refused to accept a third term.

Andrew Jackson also left the office more popular than he entered it, adhered to the tradition established by the great men who had preceded him.

Any President's serving more than two terms weakens the legislative branch and creates a subservient judiciary, thereby impairing the constitutional plan and framework of the Federal Government.

At this time when democracy is being challenged all over the world, it well behooves us to return to the tradition established by Washington, Jefferson and Jackson.

When the same President serves for more than a decade, many of the younger citizens, such as those who are now fighting and dying to preserve our ideals, become unfamiliar with the merits of the system and tradition under which there is periodically a change in the presidency of our country; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of this Commonwealth hereby memorializes the Congress of the United States to propose an amendment to the Federal Constitution prohibiting any person thereafter from serving more than two successive terms as President of the United States; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the presiding officers of each House of Congress and to each United States Senator and Congressman from Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. ROBERTSON (Not printed).

In the House of Representatives, April 28, 1943.

Honorable Martin Memolo born in Province Di Avelino, Italy on March 16, 1879, elected a Member of this House from Lackawanna County in 1924 and reelected in 1926, 1928 and 1930, died last Sunday April 25th.

In many capacities he served the public faithfully. Among the earlier public offices he held were those of burgess and controller of Old Forge, where he resided many years. Later he served as a clerk in the county commissioners' office, as chairman of the board of county assessors, and again as an employe of the Public Service Commission.

During his membership in the House he distinguished himself by outstanding service. In all his years of public service Mr. Memolo was a conscientious, energetic servant of the people. To him a public office was truly a public trust.

In his active career, Mr. Memolo was an organizer for the United Mine Workers of America, and throughout his life he always was sympathetic to the cause of the workingman. He did yeoman service in their behalf while a member of the House, and at the same time advanced the interests of his agricultural constituents in the rural districts of the sixth district. Mr. Memolo was an able champion of the underprivileged and was a supporter of all measures having for their objective adequate aid to the needy.

A kindly and friendly man, Mr. Memolo had a wide circle of friends not only in Lackawanna County but throughout the Commonwealth. He was a leader in Italian-American circles, prominent in fraternal movements; therefore be it

Resolved, That in his death the Lackawanna Valley has lost an outstanding citizen and sustained a real loss and from the roll of living ex-members of this House has been taken the name of one who faithfully and with ability served his constituants; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution shall be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House to the surviving members of his family.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

RESOLUTIONS REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. WALTER E. ROSE asked and obtained unanimous consent to report from the Committee on Rules a House Resolution (not printed) and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 26, 1943.

George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, the first and second Presidents of our Nation, the father of his country and the great liberator both not only believed that no President of the United States should serve more than two terms, but both refused to accept a third term.

Andrew Jackson also left the office more popular than he entered it, adhered to the tradition established by the great men who had preceded him.

Any President's serving more than two terms weakens the legislative branch and creates a subservient judiciary, thereby impairing the constitutional plan and framework of the Federal Government.

At this time when democracy is being challenged all over the world, it well behooves us to return to the tradition established by Washington, Jefferson and Jackson.

When the same President serves for more than a decade, many of the younger citizens, such as those who are now fighting and dying to preserve our ideals, become unfamiliar with the merits of the system and tradition under which there is periodically a change in the presidency of our country; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of this Commonwealth hereby memoralizes the Congress of the United States to propose an amendment to the Federal Constitution prohibiting any person hereafter from serving more than two successive terms as President of the United States; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the presiding officers of each House of Congress and to each United States Senator and Congressman from Pennsylvania.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. HERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, on January 19th his Excellency the Governor of Pennsylvania addressed the Assembly and among other things he said:

> Today, as the Governor of all the people of Pennsylvania I ask for united support in order that during our term of office we may accomplish the maximum good for the greatest number of people. This war effort must go on, move forward and its tempo must be increased. In this country we recognize that the interests of the worker and the employer are basically the same. Both working together, have helped to mould and create this mighty Republic.

Mr. Speaker, we have passed quite a bit of legislation in favor of employers in Pennsylvania. But so far as the worker is concerned we have passed here next to nothing. He has been neglected. I would like to have the Members of the House consider the various vital wartime problem of Workmen's Compensation, as developed in House Bills 227, 229, 244, 437 and 438, introduced in this House by me last February the 8th. These bills deal with the very serious subject which vitally affects that extremely large number of workers who are casualties of industry. They are crippled and maimed by physical accidents or victims of occupational disease and consequently become quite a heavy burden on their helpless dependents.

Since the war began these casualties have increased rapidly and tragically, as could be expected from speeding up of industry, long hours, the entrance of inexperienced workers in a great effort to defeat this Nation's enemies, in this great war.

According to statistics industrial accidents have increased tremendously in the past three years. I have obtained some statistics from the Department of Labor and Industry of this Commonwealth, prepared by the Bureau of Research and Information, which show that in 1940, 109,475 workers were injured in industry. In 1941 this number increased to 130,403 workers injured. In 1942 there were 139,565 workers injured, and from present indications in 1943 there will be about 175,000 workers injured in industry. These do not include, however, those who are incapacitated as a result of occupational disease. My bills deal with two particular problems in workmen's compensation and occupational disease legislation as met under the Pennsylvania acts; first, employers' responsibility and, second, benefits paid.

The present laws provide for the payment of compensation by such employers as voluntarily come under the acts. Employers can take them or leave them alone. Employers who leave them alone take their chances in suits for damages or face other settlement with the victims of industrial accidents and diseases, or make no payment whatever, resulting in many injustices and hardships.

Employers who accept the acts have to satisfy the Department of Labor and Industry that they are financially capable of paying compensation awards. It is optional with the employers as to what form of insurance they carry.

But employers who do not accept the present law, or refuse to come under it are not required to prove they are financially capable of meeting court damage awards or other settlements. Such employers as do not meet their obligations or chisel on them therefore have a definite competitive advantage over fair employers who make good.

House Bills Nos. 227 and 229 provide amendments to the Occupational Disease and Workmen's Compensation Acts by adding Section 205. By this provision employers who do not come under the act would have to prove their financial responsibility no less than employers who come under the act.

House Bill No. 244 would authorize the State Fund to accept and carry all employers who desire to use that form of insurance to meet workmen's compensation and occupational disease obligations.

House Bills Nos. 437 and 438 deal with benefits.

Pennsylvania today ranks about 28th in the list of states for payment of workmen's compensation.

There can be no justification for such utter disregard of the miserable condition in which workers are left, those whose misfortune it is to be maimed or stricken at their jobs, and, whose injuries deprive their dependents of breadwinners.

The present state acts likewise have many other shortcomings so that compensation payments are hard to get as well as inadequate compared with the other large industrial states.

The state Occupational Disease Act covers only certain limited cases. New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri and California are great industrial states which provide compensation for all occupational diseases. Pennsylvania should be in this humane class.

Without going into further detail of the many particulars in which the present state acts are behind other important states. I desire to impress upon you that if House Bills Nos. 227, 229, 244, 437 and 438 were considered on their merits and adopted, Pennsylvania would take the place in which it rightfully belongs; especially now when such injuries have increased enormously in war production.

House Bills Nos. 227, 229 and 244 were referred to the Workmen's Compensation Committee on February 9. House Bills Nos. 437 and 438 went to that Committee on February 24.

As this session of the General Assembly draws to a close, there seems no disposition on the part of that Committee to take up these bills, and give them proper consideration

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LICHTENWALTER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, on the members' desks I think there is a copy of House Bill No. 549, Printer's No. 653, which has been recalled from the Governor for amendment. The amendments have been inserted. It is very necessary that this bill be concurred in by the Senate and signed by the Governor today.

I would like to ask unanimous consent to act on this bill immediately. The reason is that this is the bill which will allow the State Treasurer, with the approval of the Governor, to invest funds of the Commonwealth in Government war bonds. There is an issue of bonds to be on sale tomorrow, of which the Commonwealth is greatly interested in purchasing a considerable amount. It is very necessary that this bill be concurred in by the Senate and be on the Governor's desk today. So, Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent of the House in advance of the calendar to consider this bill immediately.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUESTED

Mr. LICHTENWALTER asked unanimous consent to call up out of order House Bill No. 549, Printer's No. 653, on page 20 of today's calendar, bills on final passage recalled from the Governor.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent? Is there objection?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the gentleman tell us in what particular bonds the state is particularly interested.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I understand, Mr. Speaker, that there is a series of war bonds, government bonds, to be put on sale tomorrow, Friday, April 30, and they are very much interested, I believe, in purchasing a considerable amount of them; investing the Commonwealth's money, which this bill will allow them to do. They are short term bonds which the act that we passed two weeks ago described and which may be purchased by the Commonwealth. That is the only reason for the haste. The bill had to be recalled from the Governor because of an amendment that had been inserted in the Senate, and it was taken care of in the title of the bill.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if these bonds are to be offered only, or put on sale only for one or two days or one week?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I understand that this type of bonds may be purchased by the Commonwealth, and I believe other municipalities in the Commonwealth. There are usually bids on these bonds, and unless the bid goes in before the time the issue is released it is very difficult to obtain the bonds until another sale is held. These sales are held at various times and at those times are released for sale to the public. That is the only reason, I believe, for our haste on this occasion.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if he could designate the particular bonds, is it E bonds, B bonds, H bonds or what particular type of bonds?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I cannot, Mr. Speaker. However, I know they are government bonds and war bonds, and certainly the State Treasurer of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania with the approval of the Governor does not care what series it is, whether A, B, C, or D, or whatever it may be. I have been so confused in the last few years in the alphabet, the way it is being used, that I don't care what series it is. The money is going to be invested in government war bonds. We are all interested in having this government of ours receive the support of everybody, and here is the Commonwealth ready and willing through the State Treasurer, with the approval of the Governor, to invest money in these bonds to purchase the things that are so necessary to the war effort. I don't think the gentleman on the other side should now question whether they are series A, B, C, D, E or what series. It makes no difference as long as the money is going to be invested in short term war loans, which is going to be a benefit in the crisis in which we find ourselves.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I realize that the gentleman is probably confused in the alphabet. I also realize that there are quite a number of different types of bonds. We are interested in seeing that the state buys the type of bonds in which we feel that they will receive the best security that they can receive when they purchase the bonds. That is the only reason I asked the gentleman if he could designate the particular type of bonds, because we realize that some types of bonds are better than others.

Mr. BROWN. We have the calendar on file now and House Bill No. 549 is on the desk. It will just save our procedure if we get hold of the calendar and call up this bill.

The SPEAKER. Unanimous consent would still be required to call it up.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I understood the request of the gentleman was that we call it up without the calendar. If he will strike that out of his remarks our record will show that we had the calendar.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, it is perfectly agreeable to me to strike out that portion because the calendar is now on file. I would still ask unanimous consent to call it up for immediate consideration and action.

The SPEAKER. On page 20, the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter, asks unanimous consent to call up House Bill No. 549, Printer's No. 653. Is there objection? The Chair hears none and consent is granted.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 549, as follows:

An Act to further amend sections three hundred one and three hundred three of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 343) entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government providing for the settlement assessment collection and lien of taxes bonus and all other accounts due the Commonwealth the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties affecting every department board commission and officer of the State government every political subdivision of the State and certain officers of such subdivisions every person association and corporation required to pay assess or collect taxes or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth" by authorizing the Treasury Department with the approval of the Governor to invest State deposits in short-term obligations of the United States government and to dispose of the same and conferring certain powers and duties upon the Treasury Department with respect to such obligations

Section 1 That section three hundred one of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 343) entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government providing for the settlement assessment collection and lien of taxes bonus and all other accounts due the Commonwealth the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties affecting every department board commission and officer of the State government every political subdivision of the State and certain officers of such subdivisions every person association and corporation required to pay assess or collect taxes or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth" as last amended by the act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (P. L. 283) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 301 Deposit of Moneys The Treasury Department shall deposit all moneys of the Commonwealth received by it including moneys not belonging to the Commonwealth but of which the Treasury Department or the State Treasurer is custodian in State depositories approved by the Board of Finance and Revenue

The Treasury Department shall not at any time have in all active depositories more than an aggregate of such total sum as the Board of Finance and Revenue shall by resolution have prescribed and shall not deposit in any one inactive depository an amount in excess of twenty-five per centum of its paid-in capital and surplus nor in excess of five hundred thousand dollars Provided however That in the case of any particular depository these limitations may be waived by the Board of Finance and Revenue so as to permit the State Treasurer to deposit State moneys not in excess of one million dollars in any bank banking institution or trust company designated as an inactive depository

All departments boards or commissions having in their possession any moneys belonging to the Commonwealth shall deposit them in State depositories approved by the Board of Finance and Revenue In all such cases the depositing department board or commission shall forthwith upon opening the account notify the Department of the Auditor General and the Treasury Department of the name of the depository and the nature of the funds to be deposited in the account

The Board of Finance and Revenue with the approval of the Governor may from time to time invest in direct short-term obligations of the United States government such amounts of the moneys of the Commonwealth with the exception of moneys in any fund authorized by law to be invested by any other board commission or State officer on deposit from time to time in State depositories as shall have accumulated beyond the ordinary needs of various funds The Board of Finance and Revenue with the Governor's approval shall from time to time as necessary sell such short term obligations and credit the proceeds to the funds out of which the purchases were made

Section 2 That section three hundred three of said act as amended by the act approved the first day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-one (P. L. 318) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 303 Securities The Treasury Department shall

(a) Safely keep all securities delivered to it or to the State Treasurer as custodian thereof by any department board or commission under authority of any act of Assembly

(b) From time to time collect dividends interest or any other income accruing on such securities and credit the proceeds of such collections to the proper fund

(c) In proper cases surrender such securities for redemption and credit the proceeds thereof to the proper fund

(d) Upon receipts of written authorization from the department board or commission which deposited them make delivery of any such securities lawfully sold by such department board or commission [and]

(e) Safely keep all short-term obligations of the United States government purchased by it under the provisions of this act from time to time collect interest or other income accruing on such short-term obligations and credit the same to the proper funds

[(e)] (f) From time to time to advise the Department of Revenue and the departments boards or commissions affected of amounts credited to any funds hereunder

The Treasury Department is authorized to carry such insurance against the loss of all or any cash and securities of which it or the State Treasurer is custodian through theft burglary or otherwise and such insurance to cover forgeries of all kinds on checks drafts warrants and requisitions as the department shall deem advisable The Treasury Department is also authorized to make settlement for to take delivery of and to have held for the account of the funds out of which purchased any of the short term obligations of the United States Government which may be purchased under the terms of this act at the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia or the Pittsburgh branch of the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. SARGE asked and obtained permission for the Committee on State Government to meet during the session of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LONCO asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House—I introduced, on March 16th, a series of bills dealing with the social welfare of the citizens of this Commonwealth.

These bills have reference to the establishment of hospitals for the care and treatment of persons afflicted with venereal disease; authorizing the Governor to direct the head of the Pennsylvania State Police to create a State Vice Squad; authorizing the Secretary of Revenue to suspend or revoke registration plates and licenses of car owners who use or permit the use of their vehicles for the purpose of prostitution or for the purpose of transporting prostitutes from one locality to another; penalizing policemen for failure to report bawdy houses in the district which they patrol; authorizing judges to confine, for the duration of the war, persons convicted of being procurers, panderers and prostitutes; and lastly, a bill simplifying the rules of evidence necessary to convict persons arrested for prostitution.

The subject matter of these bills is free from politics. Therefore, none of them should create a political issue. These bills, however, do affect corrupt and unscrupulous public officials and police officers whose salaries are paid from public funds and for whom the people of Pennsylvania hold no brief. Why have these bills not been reported out? Is there anything wrong in the establishment of hospitals for the care and treatment of persons afflicted with venereal disease? Is there anything wrong with the Governor directing the head of the Pennsylvania State Police to create a State Vice Squad? Is there anything wrong with the Secretary of Revenue suspending or revoking registration plates and licenses of car owners who use or permit the use of their vehicles for purposes of prostitution or for the purpose of transporting prostitutes from one locality to another? Is there anything wrong with penalizing policemen for failure to report bawdy houses in the district which they patrol? Is there anything wrong with authorizing judges to confine, for the duration of the war, persons convicted of being procurers, panderers and prostitutes? Is there anything wrong with the simplifying of the rules of evidence necessary to convict persons arrested for prostitution? Just recently, three of my bills were discussed in committee, without proper study and without any investigation, they were tabled, which, of course, means that these bills have been given a "solemn burial."

However, on leaving this Committee and after its adjournment, a Republican member of the Committee, in an attempt to console me after he observed my dislike for the action taken by the Committee, informed me of his regret in not being able to "go along" with my bills.

Upon inquiry from this member, I learned that a new lobby composed of persons commonly known as pimps were and are actively opposed to these bills. Gentlemen of the House, in my experience as a member of the House, I have met and discussed many problems with various Lobbyists, but never did I believe that a group of racketeers, underworld hoodlums and pimps were organized into a lobby. This situation is disgraceful and shameful, and leaves me as it must leave the members of the House, in a quandary to judge the strength and fortitude behind the sinister and evil forces which would stymie legislation intended for the protection of the health and welfare of the general public and aid in hindering the war effort. This along in my opinion is sufficient reason for the support and passage of this legislation.

In discussing House Bill No. 784 with the Chairman of the Motor Vehicle Committee, I was further amazed to learn that this bill was not released because it received no favor.

Favor for whom? What decent member of this House, or what decent administrator or executive of this Commonwealth would reject proposed legislation authorizing the Secretary of Revenue to suspend or revoke registration licenses of motor vehicles (which include trailors) used for purposes of prostitution and for transporting prostitutes from one locality to another. Is there anything wrong with such a bill? It appears bewildering, and I am sure the people of Pennsylvania will find disfavor with this Assembly for its failure to remove from our highways automobiles used for illicit purposes, especially in these times of National Peril.

House Bill No. 765 pertains to an appropriation of $600.000 for the establishment of hospitals to cope with the increasing menace of venereal diseases and prevent its spread and the destruction of human life. Gov. Martin, in a number of press releases, expressed a desire and declared the necessity for the establishment of these hospitals. Action on this bill cannot be delayed if we are to curb the spread of these horrible diseases in this State. The problem is gaining in proportion and gravity. Shall it be permitted to reach a point beyond control? Our failure to act will leave the residents of the State of Pennsylvania in great danger. Our manpower will be decreased. Women will undergo great suffering, our institutions will be flooded with mental and physical wrecks.

J. Edgar Hoover, Chief of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in a speech delivered at the graduation exercises of the F.B.I.'s annual academy, attended by specially elected local police officers, said "Something has happened to our moral fibers—to the Nation's youth under voting age—the arrest of girls under twenty-one years of age for offense against common decency increased 76 per cent. Now is the time to start a counter offensive to keep the home front clean, wholesome and strong."

On another occasion Mr. Hoover pointed out that prostitution and commercialized vice among minor girls increased 64.8 per cent while those arrested for other sex offenses increased 104.7 per cent.

All the authorities agree that there is an alarming increase in venereal disease, in many parts of the country. The consequence to the State and to the Nation will be tragic unless increased effort is given to the prevention of infection. Members of the House, shall we remain complacent in the face of these conditions.

It is very true that morality should not be based merely on the threat of venereal disease. We hope that our young people will conduct their life on a high plane, not because they fear infection, but because they understand and respect the dignity of the human body. The major responsibility for developing this healthy attitude rests on the home, the church and the school. That last statement was made by R. A. Vonderlehr, Assistant Surgeon General, Division of Venereal Diseases, U. S. Public Health Service.

The homes, the churches, and the schools of Pennsylvania have the right to demand the cooperation of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and its General Assembly.

Wartime delinquency is not merely a crop of wild oats, to be forgotten when family life is more stable. From these tragic incidents of today will come our postwar crop of vice, disease and crime. Back of every tragedy of promiscuity and venereal disease stands the shadow of delinquent law enforcement. Every father in uniform leaves a double responsibility with this Assembly and all public officials. Every mother on the production line adds the same responsibility.

If we do not become deeply conscious, and at once, of the importance of the subject matter of these bills too many of our mothers and fathers of the future will have a sordid background of immorality and venereal disease.

The Committee Judiciary Special has three bills pertaining to this subject matter. The Committee on Law and Order has one. The Committee on State Government has one and the Committee on Motor Vehicles has one.

Members of the House—these bills have been in the committees since March 16th, 1943, which is more than ten days and not one of them was reported out for your consideration. Will the members of this Assembly permit these bills to die in Committee without affording the members of this House the opportunity of expressing their opinions on the subject? Or shall it be assumed that the hoodlums and racketeers of the underworld have made the necessary contacts. Shall this Assembly be labeled the protectors of vice and bawdy houses in this Commonwealth?

Mr. Speaker, believing that the Committee to which these bills were referred have been derelict and neglectful in the exercise of their duty, I offer the following resolutions that the Committee on Judiciary Special, the Committee on Law and Order, the Committee on Motor Vehicles and the Committee on State Government be discharged from further consideration of these bills to the end that they might come before this body for proper consideration and disposition, and I ask for the roll call Mr. Speaker on all of the resolutions.

RESOLUTION TO DISCHARGE COMMITTEE

Mr. LONGO offered a resolution which was twice read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 29, 1943.

Resolved, That the Committee on Judiciary Special be discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 782 entitled "An act to amend section five hundred twelve of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 872), entitled 'The Penal Code,', by providing that in any prosecution for prostitution, proof of the presence of the accused in a house of prostitution shall constitute prima facie proof of the commission of prostitution," said bill having been in the hands of said committee more than ten calendar days from the date of its reference thereto.

On the question,
Will the House adopt the resolution?

RESOLUTION TABLED

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the resolution be laid on the table.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the motion?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. TATE. Mr. Speaker, after a motion has been made to discharge a committee and a roll call has been asked for on the question of discharging the committee, can such motion be placed on the table?

The SPEAKER. A motion to lay on the table has precedence over the original question before the House.

Mr. TATE. I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

QUESTION OF INFORMATION

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of information.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Westmoreland will state his question of information.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask whether it is permissible for me now to ask a question regarding the resolution to discharge?

The SPEAKER. Discussion of the resolution is not permissible, and the motion to lay on the table is not debatable.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask that the gentleman withdraw his motion so that I may ask one question in regard to the motion to discharge?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh withdraw his motion?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I disagree with the gentleman from Northampton on this matter of bringing up the resolution at this time. I cannot go along in prolonging this matter with any further questioning or anything further on it at this time. I therefore will not withdraw my motion.

Mr. LOVETT. May I say, Mr. Speaker, that there is only one question.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman declines to withdraw his motion.

Mr. LONGO. Mr. Speaker, I merely want to inform the Members of the House of the agreement that was made. Due to the fact that it would take too much time to have roll calls on all these matters it was agreed between me and the leaders on both sides that there would be no verification of the roll.

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and neys were required by Mr. Longo and Mr. Weiss and were as follows:

RESOLUTION TO DISCHARGE COMMITTEE

Mr. LONGO offered a resolution which was twice read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 29, 1943.

Resolved, That the Committee on Law and Order be discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 781 entitled "An act providing for the establishment of a 'Vice Squad' as an agency in the Pennsylvania Motor Police force, to be used for the elimination and control of prostitution and other immoral and indecent offenses throughout the Commonwealth," said bill having been in the hands of said committee more than ten calendar days from the date of its reference thereto.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. BROWN. Cannot the House, Mr. Speaker, by unanimous consent make one roll call for all the resolutions, to save the time of the House?

The SPEAKER. The House can do that by unanimous consent.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Longo?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Northampton permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LONGO. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Longo, object to having one vote by unanimous consent on all the resolutions that are now on the desk to save the time of the House?

Mr. LONGO. Mr. Speaker, I am not entering my objection, but of course, it is not according to the terms of the agreement, Mr. Speaker, and I will insist that if there is to be a rollcall on one bill it shall include all of the resolutions, and then I would ask for a verification of the roll.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to object to any agreement but it seems to me it would be better to have one verification and one rollcall than to have four rollcalls, therefore, I ask unanimous consent of the House that the four resolutions be read as one and that the gentleman be allowed one verification. Certainly, one rollcall and one verification is better than four rollcalls on all of the resolutions.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I have no objection, Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will agree.

Mr. COHEN. I have no objection, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. BROWN. I request unanimous consent, Mr. Speaker, that the four resolutions be combined and that a rollcall be had on one resolution, which will apply to the other three.

The SPEAKER. And the roll verified?

Mr. BROWN. And the roll verified on the roll call.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to have one rollcall on all the resolutions to discharge committees? If there objection? The Chair hears none and consent is granted.

RESOLUTIONS TO DISCHARGE COMMITTEES

Mr. LONGO offered the following resolutions which were twice read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 29, 1943.

Resolved, That the Committee on Judiciary Special be discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 783 entitled "An act to amend section five hundred twelve of the act, approved the twenty-fourth day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine (P. L. 872), entitled 'The Penal Code,' by authorizing the court to sentence women convicted of prostitution to undergo imprisonment in a public institution maintained by the Department of Welfare and set apart for such purpose; and authorizing the court in its discretion, during the continuance of the present war, to sentence women convicted of prostitution to undergo imprisonment until the termination of this war," said bill having been in the hands of said committee more than ten calendar days from the date of its reference thereto.

In the House of Representatives, April 29, 1943.

Resolved, That the Committee on Motor Vehicles be discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 784, entitled "An act to further amend clause (a) of section four hundred twelve and clause (b) of section six hundred fifteen of the act, approved the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. L. 905), entitled 'Vehicle Code,' by providing for the suspension of registrations, operators' licenses and learners' permits in certain cases in which vehicles are used for purposes of prostitution, assignation, pandering, fornication, or other immoral purposes," said bill having been in the hands of said committee more than ten calendar days from the date of its reference thereto.

In the House of Representatives, April 29, 1943.

Resolved, That the Committee on Judiciary Special be discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 887 entitled "An act authorizing the suspension of certain local police officers for failure to discover and report bawdy houses in the locality over which they have supervision, or for their failure to take other appropriate action with respect thereto, in any case in which the Pennsylvania Motor Police has made arrests for the keeping of such bawdy houses," said bill having been in the hands of said committee more than ten calendar days from the date of its reference thereto.

In the House of Representatives, April 29, 1943.

Resolved, That the Committee on State Government be discharged from further consideration of House Bill No. 765 entitled "An act authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies to lease suitable land and buildings to be used for the confinement, treatment and rehabilitation of women convicted of sexual crimes and to make any necessary alterations or improvements to such property; providing for the operation and maintenance of such property by the Department of Welfare; directing the making of certain researches and investigations by the Department of Welfare into problems related to venereal diseases; and making an appropriation," said bill having been in the hands of said committee more than ten calendar days from the date of its reference thereto.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolutions?

RESOLUTIONS LAID ON TABLE

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that these four resolutions be laid on the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the Majority Floor Leader, the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Lichtenwalter, on the motion?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman what number of votes it takes in the House of Representatives to discharge a committee?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. A constitutional majority, I believe, one hundred and five, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman if at any time in the House of Representatives it did not take one hundred and five votes?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Not that I know of, Mr. Speaker, although I believe there was a time during the 1935 and 1937 sessions when the rules of the House were changed and as I recall probably at that time it did not require a constitutional majority.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman recall how many votes it took at that time to discharge a committee?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker, I do not. I think eighty-five. I am not exactly positive, but I remember we had a reduction of the number required under the Rules of the House at that time.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman recall when the Rules of the House were changed to make it a majority.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. In 1939, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. May I ask the gentleman if during the time of the change in the rules, when it took eighty-five to discharge a committee, if there was ever a motion on the floor of this House to discharge a committee under those rules?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. I do not recall, Mr. Speaker.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Longo and Mr. Weiss.

Messrs. Longo, Lovett and Weiss requested a verification of the roll.

The roll was verified and was as follows:

RECALLING HOUSE BILL No. 390 FROM THE GOVERNOR

Messrs. SCHUSTER and BARRETT offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, April 29, 1943.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), that House Bill No. 390, Printer's No. 428, entitled "An act to further amend section three and section thirty of the act approved the eleventh day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-one (P. L. 522) entitled as amended 'An act relating to dogs and the protection of live stock poultry and game birds raised in captivity from damage by dogs providing for the licensing of dogs by the Secretary of Agriculture providing for the enumeration of dogs by assessors regulating the keeping of dogs and authorizing their destruction in certain cases providing for the protection of licensed dogs and for dogs temporarily imported for trial show and breeding purposes prescribing certain privileges for hunting dogs and dogs owned or used by the Board of Game Commissioners providing for the assessment of damages done to live stock poultry and game birds by dogs and for live stock killed by or dying from rabies and for the illegal killing of licensed dogs and the payment of such damages by the Commonwealth imposing powers and duties on certain State county city borough town and township officers and employes directing the payment of all moneys collected into the State Treasury and providing penalties' by providing for the issuing of free licenses for seeing-eye dogs and by increasing the amount of certain payments to be made to the Commonwealth for damages caused by dogs or rabies" be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of further consideration.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate for concurrence.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Mr. LICHTENWALTER asked and obtained unanimous consent of the House to take up the Third Reading calendar beginning on page 23.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 944, Printer's No. 359, was passed over the request of the SPEAKER.

There being no objection Senate Bill No. 347, Printer's No. 301, was passed over the request of Mr. LICHTENWALTER.

Section 3

Subsection B of Section one thousand one hundred nine of the said act as last amended by the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 726) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 1109 Common Trust Funds

B If the instrument under which a trust company or a bank and trust company acts as fiduciary whether such fiduciary capacity arose before or is created after this act takes effect shall limit or restrict the investment of moneys of the estate in assets of the class authorized by law as legal investments the trust company or bank and trust company may in its capacity as sole fiduciary or with the consent of any person acting with it in a fiduciary capacity invest and reinvest moneys of the estate in any such common trust fund maintained by the trust company or bank and trust company provided the assets composing such fund consist solely of assets of the class authorized as legal investments for funds held by fiduciaries

If the instrument under which a trust company or bank and trust company acts as fiduciary whether such fiduciary capacity arose before or is created after this act takes effect shall authorize the investment of moneys of the estate in a common trust fund or in investments other than those designated by law as legal investments or shall authorize the trust company or bank and trust company either alone or in conjunction with any person acting with it in a fiduciary capacity to exercise its or their discretion with respect to the investment of moneys of the estate the trust company or bank and trust company may in its capacity as sole fiduciary or with the consent of any person acting with it in a fiduciary capacity invest and reinvest moneys of the estate in any such common trust fund maintained by the trust company or bank and trust company Any such common trust fund consisting solely of moneys of estates contributed thereto by the trust company or bank and trust company pursuant to authority contained in any such instruments creating the fiduciary capacity to invest moneys of the estates in a common trust fund or in investments other than such legal investments or pursuant to such discretionary power with respect to the investment of moneys of the estates as contained in any such instruments creating the fiduciary capacity may be composed of investments other than those of the class designated by law as legal investments for funds held by fiduciaries including common and preferred stock

Bonds secured by mortgages and securities of the class authorized by law as legal investments for fiduciaries shall be deemed proper investments for any such common trust funds Provided however That no investment for a common trust fund shall be made or maintained in bonds secured by mortgages which would cause the total amount of the investment for such fund in bonds secured by mortgages to exceed forty per centum of the value of all the assets comprising such fund

No moneys of any one estate [in excess of twenty-five thousand dollars] shall be invested in any one or more of such common trust funds as may be maintained by a trust company or bank and trust company if such investment would result in such estate having an interest in excess of ten per centum of the value of the assets of such common trust funds or funds or the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars whichever is less at the time of investment In applying this limitation if two or more trusts are created by the same settlor or settlors and as much as one-half of the income or principal or both of each trust is payable or applicable to the use of the same person or persons such trusts shall be considered as one

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, may I state briefly on this bill that the original reading of the bill left some doubt in my mind as to its propriety. However, I have taken the matter up with several different persons in the Banking Department and with persons outside the Banking Department who know something about the subject, and I find that briefly what the bill does is: Under the present law the Banking Department may require reserves in banks anywhere from fifteen to thirty percent. This bill would make it from nothing to fifteen percent. The real intent of the bill is to permit the reserve of coin and cash required under the law, to be used for the purpose of purchasing war bonds.

Further, Mr. Speaker, this would put our State banks in the same position as the National banks, put them under the same type of regulation, the Federal Reserve System, as now required in the case of National banks. Therefore, I ask the Members of the House to support the bill.

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 207, as follows:

An Act providing for commissioning as police officers certain employes of institutions maintained in whole or in part by the Commonwealth conferring upon them the powers of constables in certain cases and imposing duties on wardens and keepers of jails police stations and lock-ups

Section 1 The head of each administrative department having under its jurisdiction any penal reformatory or correctional institution mental hospital or any institution for feeble-minded or epileptic persons for inebriates or for juvenile delinquents and defectives or any medical and surgical hospital for crippled children sanitorium or any charitable institution whatsoever within this Commonwealth maintained in whole or in part by the Commonwealth and whose boards of inspectors managers trustees or directors are appointed by the Governor shall certify to the Governor the names of employes of such institutions to act as police officer thereat If the Governor shall approve the persons designated he shall issue to each a commission under which each employe shall have and exercise full power to make arrests without warrant for all violations of law which they may witness upon any part of the premises of the institution at which they are employed and to serve and execute warrants issued by the proper local authorities for any violation of law committed thereon and to arrest with or without warrant anywhere within this Commonwealth any inmate of such institution that may have escaped therefrom and to return him or her thereto For such purposes and generally on the premises of the institution at which they are employed the persons so commissioned shall have all the powers and prerogatives conferred by law upon constables of the Commonwealth

Section 2 It shall be the duty of the warden of every county jail and the keeper of every city borough town or township police station or lock-up to receive every person arrested by any employe of an institution so commissioned by the Governor under the authority hereby conferred and to detain him or her until discharged by proper authority in accordance with law

Section 4 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, may I say briefly for the information of the Members of the House that I have examined this bill and consulted with the Department. The only purpose of the bill is to permit the employes who are given the authority to act as police officers of institutions, to act as police officers only on the grounds of the institution itself and nowhere else. It is just to help keep trespassers off of state property and the institutions' grounds and I think we should approve the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

An Act to further amend section four hundred two of the act approved the fifth day of December one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (P. L. 2897 1937) entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis requiring employers to keep records and make reports and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons providing procedure and administrative details for the determination payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies creating certain special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer and prescribing penalties" to correct an error in previous amendment in connection with provisions covering ineligibility for compensation

Section 1 Section four hundred two of the act approved the fifth day of December one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (P. L. 2897 1937) entitled "An act establishing a system of unemployment compensation to be administered by the Department of Labor and Industry and its existing and newly created agencies with personnel (with certain exceptions) selected on a civil service basis requiring employers to keep records and make reports and certain employers to pay contributions based on payrolls to provide moneys for the payment of compensation to certain unemployed persons providing procedure and administrative details for the determination payment and collection of such contributions and the payment of such compensation providing for cooperation with the Federal Government and its agencies creating special funds in the custody of the State Treasurer and prescribing penalties" as last amended by section three of the act approved the twenty-third day of April one thousand nine hundred forty-two (P. L. 60) is further amended to read as follows

Section 402 Ineligibility for Compensation An employe shall be ineligible for compensation or waiting period credit for any week

(a) In which his unemployment is due to failure without good cause either to apply for suitable work at such time and in such manner as the department may prescribe or to accept suitable work when offered to him by the employment office or by his previous employer In determining whether or not any work is suitable for an individual the department shall consider the degree of risk involved to his health safety and morals his physical fitness and prior training and experience and the distance of the available work from his residence

(b) In which his unemployment is due to voluntarily leaving work without good cause Provided That no employes shall be deemed to be ineligible under this section where as a condition of continuing in employment such employe would be required to join or remain a member of a company union or to resign from or refrain from joining any bona fide labor organization or to accept wages hours or conditions of employment not desired by a majority of the employes in the establishment or the occupation or would be denied the right of collective bargaining under generally prevailing conditions

(c) With respect to which or a part of which he has received or is seeking unemployment benefits under an unemployment compensation law of any other state or of the United States Provided That if the appropriate agency of such other state or of the United States finally determines that he is not entitled to such unemployment benefits the disqualification shall not apply

(d) In which the employe's total unemployment is due to a voluntary suspension of work resulting from an industrial dispute but this disqualification shall apply only to the week in which the suspension occurred and for the three consecutive weeks of total unemployment which immediately follow such week

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment

L. 858) entitled "An act establishing a State employes' retirement system and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof establishing certain funds from contributions by the Commonwealth and contributing State employes defining the uses and purposes thereof and the manner of payments therefrom and providing for the guaranty by the Commonwealth of certain of said funds imposing powers and duties upon the heads of departments in which State employes serve excepting annuities allowances returns benefits and rights from taxation and judicial process and providing penalties" further defining State employes and original members

Section 1 Clauses six and nine of section one of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred twenty-three (P. L. 858) entitled "An act establishing a State employes' retirement system and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof establishing certain funds from contributions by the Commonwealth and contributing State employes defining the uses and purposes thereof and the manner of payments therefrom and providing for the guaranty by the Commonwealth of certain of said funds imposing powers and duties upon the heads of departments in which State employes serve excepting annuities allowances returns benefits and rights from taxation and judicial process and providing penalties" as last amended by the act approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred forty-one (P. L. 202) and by the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 683) respectively are hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 1 Be it enacted That the following words and phrases as used in this act unless a different meaning is plainly required by the context shall have the following meanings

* * * * *

6 "State employe" shall mean any person holding a State office or position under the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania employed and paid on a yearly or monthly basis by the State Government of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in any capacity whatsoever and shall include also any attorney solicitor investigator appraiser and clerk employed by the year or by the month in the office of any register of wills howsoever appointed whose compensation is actually paid from Commonwealth moneys and shall also include all judges of the several courts of this Commonwealth whose salaries are paid by the Commonwealth and also all clerks and secretaries employed by judges and paid on a yearly or monthly basis by such judges from moneys appropriated by the Commonwealth for such purposes and also all officers and employes of the Pennsylvania State College paid on a yearly or monthly basis other than those paid wholly from Federal funds and also all officers and employes of the Delaware River Joint Commission and of the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission paid on a yearly or monthly basis if the Delaware River Joint Commission and the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission shall agree to contribute and contributes to the State Employes' Retirement Fund from time to time the moneys required to build up the reserves necessary for the payment of the State annuities of such officers and employes without any liability on the part of the Commonwealth to make appropriations for such purposes and also but only for the purposes of this act all officers and employes of any separate independent public corporation created by act of assembly (not including however any municipal or quasi-municipal corporation) who immediately prior to their employment by such public corporation were employes of the Commonwealth so long as they remain officers or employes of such public corporation if such public corporation shall agree to contribute and contributes to the State Employes' Retirement Fund from time to time the moneys required to build up the reserve necessary for the payment of the State annuities of such officers and employes without any liability on the part of the Commonwealth to make appropriations for such purposes [But the] Employes of the respective institutions acquired by the Commonwealth from counties cities or institution districts for actual use as State mental hospitals under the provisions of the act approved the twenty-ninth day of September one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight (P. L. 53) shall for the purposes of this act be deemed to have been "State employes" from the time they first entered the employ of such institution even though the same may have been prior to the acquisition of the institution by the Commonwealth The term "State employe" shall not include those persons defined as employes in section one paragraph seven of the act approved the eighteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 1043) entitled "An act establishing a public school employes' retirement system and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof establishing certain funds from contributions by the Commonwealth and contributing employes defining the uses and purposes thereof and the manner of payments therefrom and providing for the guaranty by the Commonwealth of certain of said funds imposing powers and duties upon boards having the employment of public school employes exempting annuities allowances returns benefits and rights from taxation and judicial process and providing penalties" as amended by section one paragraph seven of the act approved the twenty-first day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 245) excepting such officers and employes of the Department of Public Instruction as are not members of or who may withdraw from the public school employes' retirement association provided by said act and no member shall be deprived of credit for prior service as a State employe because of the fact that such service was rendered while he or she was a member of the public school employes retirement association

The term "State employe" shall also include all State officers and employes regularly employed by the year or by the month at a fixed annual or monthly compensation when the General Assembly is not in session but who during a legislative session instead of a fixed annual or monthly salary or compensation are paid upon a per diem basis or by a fixed salary or compensation from the legislative session

In all cases of doubt the retirement board shall determine whether any person is a State employe as defined in this paragraph and its decision shall be final

* * * * *

9 "Original members" of the retirement association shall mean a State employe who was at any time a State employe prior to January first one thousand nine hundred twenty-five whether or not such employment has been continuous and who shall have become a member of the retirement association on or before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred thirty-five or any State employe who is an employe of any of the respective institutions acquired by the Commonwealth from any county city or institution district for actual use as a State mental hospital under the provisions of the act approved the twenty-ninth day of September one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight (P. L. 53) who was at any time an employe of such institution prior to January first one thousand nine hundred twenty-five whether or not such employment has been continuous and who shall have become a member of the retirement association on or before December thirty-first one thousand nine hundred forty-three

Any such State employe who shall become an original member of the association after the approval of this amendment including those who having heretofore become a new member thereof shall become an original member under the provisions hereof shall pay to the retirement association a sum equal to all the back payments which such person would have made had he or she become a member of the retirement association when the retirement system was established Such back payments may be spread over a period of years by having such regular payroll deduction of such person increased by not less than one-third of the amount thereof which deduction increase shall be credited to such back payments owing and shall be continued until the amount thereof shall be paid in full unless such member is retired under the provisions of this act before such back payments have been completed Any such deduction increase may be anticipated in full by the member at any time and shall be anticipated in full at the time of retirement before a retirement allowance is granted and if not so anticipated then the member's annuity shall be calculated on the total accumulated deductions standing to his credit and his State annuity shall be reduced by an amount equivalent to the reduction which occurs in the member's annuity due to the amount of the back payments not so anticipated

Original member of the retirement association shall also mean any judge in service on the second Monday of January one thousand nine hundred thirty who shall elect to become a member of the retirement association at any time during the term for which he was then elected or appointed and any person hereafter elected or appointed a judge who at the time of his election or appointment is an original member of the retirement association or who was retired voluntarily or involuntarily as an original member and is at the time of his election or appointment as a judge receiving a retirement allowance as an original member

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

Section 508 Any school district having no indebtedness or whose indebtedness incurred or created without the assent of the electors thereof is less than two (2) per centum of the total valuation of property taxable for school purposes therein may at any time for the purpose of providing funds in any fiscal year for current expenses and debt service for permanent improvements the acquiring of school buses or in anticipation of proceeds from a bond issue already officially authorized and approved by the Department of Internal Affairs with such limitations and for such length of term as hereinafter provided by or through its board of school directors incur in addition to any bonds therein authorized a temporary debt or borrow money and issue an obligation or obligations therefor under the seal of the district if any properly attested by the president and secretary thereof and bearing interest not exceeding the legal rate but no such obligation shall be sold for less than par Providing That the incurring of any such temporary debt or borrowing money upon such obligation shall receive the affirmative vote of not less than two-thirds of the members of the board of school directors therein

In addition thereto any such school district may as hereinbefore provided incur a temporary debt or borrow money for permanent improvements where no bond issue has been previously officially authorized and refund such temporary indebtednes by the issue of bonds in the manner provided by law when the exact amount required for such permanent improvement becomes known

The total amount of temporary indebtedness incurred for current expenses and debt service shall at no time exceed an amount equal to the State appropriations not received but payable during the fiscal year and the tax levied upon property taxable for school purposes within such school district for school purposes and remaining uncollected and unpledged for the current fiscal year Provided That for a period [of five years from the effective date of these amendments] beginning July first one thousand nine hundred forty-three and ending July first one thousand nine hundred forty-seven any temporary indebtedness incurred for current expenses and debt service may equal but not exceed the State appropriations not received but payable during the fiscal year and all taxes levied upon taxable property within the school district for school purposes for past years as well as for the current fiscal year and remaining uncollected and unpledged All such loans shall be paid out of the receipts available or pledged for the repayment thereof when and as the said funds are received Provided That the total amount of the temporary indebtedness for such purpose remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year shall become an obligation upon the following year's budget and be included therein

The total amount of temporary indebtedness incurred in any school district for the purpose of permanent improvements and the acquiring of school buses shall at no time in school districts of the first and second class exceed one-half of one (1) per centum of the last assessed valuation of property taxable for school purposes therein and in school districts of the third and fourth class two (2) per centum of such assessed valuation Provided That except where such temporary indebtedness is to be refunded by the issue of bonds as hereinbefore authorized at or before the time of incurring such indebtedness for such purpose provision shall be made for the collection of an annual tax sufficient to pay the interest and also the principal thereof within the term of such indebtedness as hereinafter provided Provided That the total indebtedness in any school district of the first class except obligations incurred under the provisions of section five hundred eight and one-tenth (508.1) shall never exceed two (2) per centum of the last assessed valuation of property taxable for school purposes therein and in school districts of the second third and fourth class shall not exceed seven (7) per centum of such assessed valuation

The total amount of temporary indebtedness incurred in anticipation of proceeds from a bond issue already officially authorized and approved by the Department of Internal Affairs as hereinbefore provided shall not exceed seventy-five (75) per centum of the full amount of bonds authorized by such bond issue

All money borrowed for permanent improvements and the acquiring of school buses for which no bond issue has been previously provided and for which an obligation or obligations other than bonds have been issued shall unless refunded by the issue of bonds as heiernbefore authorized be paid within three years from date of issue of such obligation together with interest and at least one-third of the total principal of the original loan shall be paid annually Such obligation or obligations may be paid in full or in part each year when the taxes are received and reborrowed again the latter part of the fiscal year Provided That the amount reborrowed is less than the amount borrowed the preceding year by at least one-third of the total amount of the original loan Provided further That each time the money is reborrowed the date and purpose for which it was originally borrowed shall be restated Provided further That the amount of the original loan shall be paid in full within a maximum term of three years from the date of the original loan for such purpose unless funded as hereinbefore provided

All obligations other than bonds issued by any school district in anticipation of proceeds from a bond issue already officially authorized and approved by the Department of Internal Affairs shall be paid in full together with interest out of the proceeds of such bond issue within one year six months from the date of authorization of such bond issue

In case of an emergency any school district in this Commonwealth in any fiscal year after borrowing money in anticipation of current revenues to the full extent of the provisions of section five hundred eight and one-tenth (508.1) and finding the receipts from said loans together with all other receipts to be inadequate to meet the expenditures of the official fiscal year's budget may appeal to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction for permission to incur a temporary debt for the purpose of providing funds for current expenses and debt service and shall present to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction or his agent such financial statements or reports as he may require to give him adequate facts relative to the necessity of such increase in indebtedness The State Superintendent of Public Instruction is hereby authorized after due examination of the need of such school district either to refuse or grant permission to such school district to borrow additional funds for current expenses and debt service beyond the provisions of section five hundred eight and one-tenth (508.1) and in case of approval he shall designate the maximum length of the term and shall set a maximum limit of the total amount of such temporary indebtedness that such school district may incur during the fiscal year in addition to all temporary indebtedness for other purposes outstanding at the time of such approval Provided That all temporary indebtedness for the purpose of current expenses and debt service in school districts of the first class shall not exceed four-tenths of one (1) per centum and in school districts of the second class shall not exceed three-fourths of one (1) per centum and in school districts of the third and fourth class shall not exceed one (1) per centum of the total amount of property taxable for school purposes in such district and the total indebtedness for such purposes together with all other indebtedness incurred without authorization by vote of the electors of the district shall at no time exceed two (2) per centum of the last total assessed valuation of the property taxable for school purposes therein

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall become effective the first day of July one thousand nine hundred forty-three

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 209, as follows:

An Act to further amend section eleven (b) of the act approved the nineteenth day of March one thousand nine hundred nine (P. L. 46) entitled "An act to regulate the practice of osteopathy in the State of Pennsylvania to provide for the establishment of a State Board of Osteopathic Examiners to define the powers and duties of said Board of Osteopathic Examiners to provide for the examining and licensing of osteopaths in this State and to provide penalties for the violation of this act" by further regulating the requirements for license as an osteopathic surgeon

Section 1 Section eleven (b) of the act approved the nineteenth day of March one thousand nine hundred nine (P. L. 46) entitled "An act to regulate the practice of osteopathy in the State of Pennsylvania to provide for the establishment of a State Board of Osteopathic Examiners to define the powers and duties of said Board of Osteopathic Examiners to provide for the examining and licensing of osteopaths in this State and to provide penalties for the violation of this act" as added to said act by the act approved the fourteenth day of June one thousand nine hundred twenty-three (P. L. 795) and as last amended by the act approved the fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 1649) is hereby further amended to read as follows

Section 11 (b) Any person licensed to practice osteopathy in this State and desiring to enter upon the practice of operative surgery as taught and practiced in the legally incorporated reputable colleges of osteopathy may deliver to the Superintendent of Public Instruction upon the payment of a fee of one hundred dollars or such fee as shall be fixed by the Superintendent of Public Instruction a written application for license together with satisfactory proof in such form as may be required by the Osteopathic Surgeons' Examining Board that the applicant has served for a period of not less than two years as an interne [or assistant surgeon] in [an] any approved osteopathic hospital which shall have at least ten beds per interne devoted to the treatment of diseases shall maintain a thoroughly equipped modern pathological and clinical laboratory proportionate to the necessities of the hospital and shall maintain a department of [anaesthetists] anaesthesia consisting of one or more anaesthetists who shall have supervision over all the anaesthesia given in the institution and whose duty it shall be to instruct all internes in the administration of anaesthetics After the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and forty-one all applicants shall in addition to the requirements hereinabove set forth have sucessfully completed one year of surgical training in some legally incorporated reputable osteopathic college or osteopathic hospital or special courses or training equivalent thereto as determined by the Osteopathic Surgeons' Examining Board [or] In lieu of [such qualifications the applicant may submit proof as hereinbefore required] the three-year requirement hereinabove set forth the applicant may submit proof that he has served for a period of not less than five years as [an interne or] assistant to a surgeon [in any] and in a hospital approved by the Osteopathic Surgeon's Examining Board for such training [which shall meet the requirements hereinbefore set forth] [All applicants while serving as interne or assistant surgeon shall be registered with both the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners and the Osteopathic Surgeons' Examining Board] The Osteopathic Surgeons' Examining Board shall examine and fix the rating of all osteopathic colleges and hospitals [for graduate students and provide interne positions as hereinbefore provided for this inspection and rating] either chartered under the laws of this Commonwealth or operating therein as [it] relates to surgery only It shall further be the duty of the board by inspection or otherwise to examine and fix the rating of all colleges and hospitals outside this Commonwealth providing osteopathic surgical training under the laws of any particular state whose graduates or internes desire to obtain licensure as osteopathic surgeons in this Commonwealth but the standards for the approval of osteopathic hospitals in this Commonwealth shall be required in fixing any such rating The same standard for graduates in medicine shall be used for examination by the Osteopathic Surgeons' Examining Board in the examination of the osteopathic graduates for licenses to practice surgery Provided That any person duly licensed as an osteopath who has had at least five years of actual practice as a surgeon may be examined by the board without being required to prove that he has had two years' experience as an interne or assistant surgeon in a hospital as hereinbefore provided

Thereupon the Osteopathic Surgeons' Examining Board if satisfied with said proof shall admit said applicant to examination as to his or her qualifications for the practice of operative surgery as taught and practiced in the legally incorporated reputable colleges of osteopathy Such examination shall include the subjects of surgical diagnosis and operative surgery and such other subjects as the said board may deem necessary to test the qualifications of the applicants The Osteopathic Surgeons' Examining Board shall cause the Department of Public Instruction to issue forthwith to each applicant who shall have obtained a general average of not less than seventy-five per centum and who shall have been adjudged by the said board of examiners to be duly qualified for the practice of operative surgery as taught and practiced in the legally incorporated reputable colleges of osteopathy a license to practice such operative surgery in the State of Pennsylvania Such license shall be issued and recorded in the same manner as licenses to practice osteopathy are now issued by the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners under the provisions of this act Provided however That no such license shall be issued if any objection thereto is filed by the State Board of Osteopathic Examiners

Every license issued by said board to practice surgery shall authorize the holder thereof to practice major or operative surgery as taught and practiced in the legally incorporated reputable colleges of osteopathy and the use of anaesthetics antiseptics narcotics and germicides when used for the purposes in the manner and to the extent only as taught and practiced under surgical procedure in the legally incorporated reputable colleges of osteopathy shall not be considered the practice of medicine or in violation of any of the laws relating to the practice of medicine or regulating public health

Any osteopathic physician who has been practicing operative surgery for a period of not less than seven years prior to the passage of this act shall not be required to take the examination required by this section and shall be eligible to appointment as a member of the Osteopathic Surgeons' Examining Board

Applicants examined and licensed by the osteopathic surgeons' examiners of any other state where such examiners exist separate from the osteopathic physicians' examiners on the payment of a fee of two hundred dollars ($200.00) and the filing with the Osteopathic Surgeons' Examining Board of this Commonwealth a copy of such license certified by the president or secretary of the examiners of such other state showing that the standard of requirements adopted by such examiners is substantially the same as is provided by this act shall without further examination receive a license conferring on the holder thereof the right to practice operative surgery as taught and practiced in the legally incorporated reputable colleges of osteopathy

Every person now or hereafter licensed under the provisions of this act to practice operative surgery shall register as such practitioners with the Osteopathic Surgeons' Examining Board on or before the first day of January one thousand nine hundred and thirty-eight and annually thereafter on or before the first day of January of each succeeding year The form for such registration shall be prescribed and furnished by the board The annual registration fee shall be ten dollars ($10.00) or such other sum as shall be fixed by the Department of Public Instruction under authority of law The fee shall in all cases accompany the application for such registration

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed

Section 3 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

L. 810) is hereby further amended to read as follows

(b) 1 In all cases in which under any proceeding in any orphans' court of this Commonwealth or by any last will and testament or by the provisions of this act any dower legacy recognizance or other charge shall have been imposed upon land payable presently or at a future time and such charge shall have been paid or a period of twenty years shall have elapsed after the principal of such charge has become due and payable and no payment shall have been made within such period on account of such charge by the owner or owners of the land and no sufficient satisfaction release acquittance or acknowledgment of payment thereof shall be of record in the county in which the land is situated it shall be lawful for the orphans' court of said county or in case said land is divided by a county line then the orphans' court of the county where the mansion-house may be situated or if there be no mansion-house in the county where the principal improvements may be or if there be no improvements in either county to entertain a petition for the discharge of said land from the lien of said charge

2 Such petition shall be presented by the owner or owners of said land or any part thereof shall be duly verified by affidavit and shall set forth the facts and allege that said charge has been paid or that no payment of principal or interest has been made within said period of twenty years on account of said charge by the present owner or owners or so far as can be ascertained by his or their predecessors in title and shall state the names of all known parties interested in such charge their places of residence if known and a description of the lands subject to the charge and sought to be released and discharged

3 Upon the presentation of such petition it shall be lawful for said court to issue a citation in the manner authorized by law to all such parties which citation shall be served as other citations are required to be served and shall require the parties to appear in court on a day designated to show cause why said land should not be discharged from the lien of such dower legacy or other charge

4 If the court aided if necessary by the report of a master shall determine at a hearing held in pursuance of said citation that such dower legacy or other charge has been paid or is otherwise no longer chargeable upon the land by reason of any presumption of payment or if no person shall appear to answer the citation or if all parties in interest shall have joined in the petition upon which such citation was issued the court being satisfied of the truth of the allegations of the petition shall decree that all the land subject to the charge [or any part thereof] sought to be released or discharged shall be released and discharged from the same and the payment thereof and a certified copy of such decree may be recorded in the office for recording deeds in each county where such land or any part thereof is situated upon the terms and with the effect provided in clause (a) paragraph two of this section

In all cases where any such charge shall have been imposed upon land as set forth in paragraph one of clause (b) of this section and a petition is presented by the owners of any part thereof to the proper court as herein provided for a discharge of the charge from all of the land or any part thereof on which it was originally imposed and such court [makes] is satisfied to make a decree discharging any part of such land such decree shall be made discharging all of the land from the payment of such charge and the decree of such court when entered of record as herein provided shall have the effect of discharging and shall discharge all of the said land upon which such charge shall have been originally imposed in the same manner as if the petition had been filed by the owners of the whole or of all parts thereof

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 108, as follows:

An Act to authorize cities boroughs incorporated towns townships and school districts to file suggestions of nonpayment and averments of default or to sue out writs of scire facias on certain tax or municipal claims and to revive judgments where the lien of such claims or the judgments thereon have been lost and providing for the reinstatement of the liens of such claims and judgments

Section 1 Whenever any city borough incorporated town township or school district has heretofore filed in the office of the prothonotary of the proper county any tax or municipal claim and the city borough incorporated town township or school district has not within the period of five years after the date on which any such claim was filed sued out a writ of scire facias to reduce the claim to judgment or in the case of a tax claim has not within said period of five years filed a suggestion of nonpayment and an averment of default or filed an amicable scire facias or whenever any writ of scire facias has been issued to reduce any such claim to judgment and by reason of defense or any other court proceedings judgment has not been entered within the period of five years after the date on which such writ was issued or whenever any such tax or municipal claim has been reduced to judgment and the city borough incorporated town township or school district has not within the period of five years after the date on which such judgment was entered or within five years after the date on which such judgment was last revived filed a suggestion of nonpayment and an averment of default or sued out a writ of scire facias to revive the same then in any such case any such city borough incorporated town township or school district may within six months after the passage and approval of this act issue its praecipe for a writ of scire facias on any such tax or municipal claim and proceed to judgment in the manner provided by law to obtain judgments upon tax or municipal claims or in case a writ of scire facias has been issued but the same has not been reduced to judgment within five years from the date of issuance issue its praecipe for an alias writ of scire facias on any such tax or municipal claim and proceed to judgment in the manner provided by law to obtain judgments upon tax or municipal claims or in the case of a tax or municipal claim where no judgment has been entered file a suggestion of nonpayment and an averment of default or in case judgment has been entered on a tax or municipal claim either file a suggestion of nonpayment and an averment of default or issue its praecipe for a writ of scire facias on any such judgment and proceed to judgment in the manner provided by law to obtain judgments of revival and such claim or judgment so entered or revived shall be a valid claim or judgment and be a lien upon the real estate upon which it was a lien at the time the claim was filed or the judgment was entered and said claim or judgment may be revived or further revived and collected as other claims or judgments upon tax or municipal claims are revived and collected or whenever any city borough incorporated town township or school district has heretofore filed in the office of the prothonotary of the proper county an amicable writ of scire facias or a suggestion of nonpayment and an averment of default to revive any municipal claim or has reduced such claim to judgment in the manner provided by law and such writ of scire facias or suggestion of nonpayment and an averment of default shall not have been filed within the period of five years from the time the original claim was filed or within five years after any prior revival of such claim and such judgment shall not have been entered within a period of five years after the filing of the writ of scire facias to reduce such claim to judgment then in any such case such action in filing such amicable writ of scire facias or suggestion of nonpayment and an averment of default or entering such judgment is hereby ratified confirmed and made valid notwithstanding that the same was not filed or entered within the time required by law and that the lien of such municipal claim was lost and the lien of any such municipal claim shall be deemed revived from the date such amicable writ of scire facias or suggestion of nonpayment and averment of default was filed or such judgment entered in the office of the prothonotary and such lien may have been or may be proceeded upon further revived and collected as provided by law Provided however That the lien of any such claim or judgment shall not reattach against any real estate transferred to any purchaser during the time when the lien of any such tax or municipal claim or judgment was lost nor shall the lien of any such claim or judgment impair or affect the priority of the lien of any mortgage or other lien which gained priority because of the failure of the city borough incorporated town township or school district to sue out the writ of scire facias or file a suggestion of nonpayment and an averment of default within the five year period or was entered of record during the time the lien of such tax or municipal claim or judgment was lost

An Act to amend section seventeen of the act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 363) entitled "An act relating to the organization jurisdiction and procedure of the orphans courts the powers and duties of the judges thereof and appeals therefrom" by prescribing procedure in cases affecting the interest of any lunatic weak-minded person presumed decedent or any person who may be unknown or unborn or under disability or out of the jurisdiction under such circumstances that actual notice cannot reasonably be given to such person

Section 1 Section seventeen of the act approved the seventh day of June one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (P. L. 363) entitled "An act relating to the organization jurisdiction and procedure of the orphans court the powers and duties of the judges thereof and appeals therefrom" is hereby amended by adding thereto a new subsection to read as follows

(j) In all cases in which proceedings may be had in any orphans court affecting the interest of any lunatic weak-minded person presumed decedent or any person who may be unknown or unborn or under disability or out of the jurisdiction under such circumstances that actual notice cannot reasonably be given to such person the orphans court of the county in which such proceedings may be pending or intended shall have the power either on its own motion or on petition of any person or fiduciary interested to appoint a trustee ad litem for such person Notice of such proceedings served upon or accepted by such trustee ad litem shall have the same force and effect as though personally served upon or accepted by the person for whom such trustee was appointed Provided however that nothing herein contained shall be considered as affecting the rights of any persons in military service as such persons are defined and such rights limited under the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief Act of 1940 (Act Oct. 17 1940 C 888 54 Stat. 1178) as the same is now or may hereafter be amended

The court appointing such trustee ad litem shall have power to require security of such trustee for the faithful execution of his trust and to award reasonable compensation for his services and in all cases whether security be given or not such trustees shall be responsible to the proper fiduciary thereafter appointed under existing laws or to such person under disability should he thereafter become competent or to his heirs and legal representatives

SENATE MESSAGES

RESOLUTIONS CONCURRED IN BY SENATE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 29, 1943.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That House Bill No. 390, Printer's No. 428, entitled "An act to further amend section three and section thirty of the act approved the eleventh day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-one (P. L. 522) entitled as amended 'An act relating to dogs and the protection of live stock poultry and game birds raised in captivity from damage by dogs providing for the licensing of dogs by the Secretary of Agriculture providing for the enumeration of dogs by assessors regulating the keeping of dogs and authorizing their destruction in certain cases providing for the protection of licensed dogs and for dogs temporarily imported for trial show and breeding purposes prescribing certain privileges for hunting dogs and dogs owned or used by the Board of Game Commissioners providing for the assessment of damages done to live stock poultry and game birds by dogs and for live stock killed by or dying from rabies and for the illegal killing of licensed dogs and the payment of such damages by the Commonwealth imposing powers and duties on certain State county city borough town and township officers and employes directing the payment of all moneys collected into the State Treasury and providing penalties' by providing for the issuing of free licenses for seeing-eye dogs and by increasing the amount of certain payments to be made to the Commonwealth for damage caused by dogs or rabies" be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of further consideration.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, April 20, 1943.

The success of the celebration of the bi-centennial of the birth of Thomas Jefferson held on Wednesday, April 14th, in the Hall of the House of Representatives at a joint session of the Senate and House of Representatives, was due to those who appeared on the program.

That it was a success, is attested by the things that have been said about it since the termination of the meeting.

His Excellency, the Governor, again assumed his new role as State orator, and again delighted his audience with the charm and sincerity of his delivery, and the interesting nature of his discourse, and Dr. Robert L. Johnson, President of Temple University, brought to his audience a new conception of the third President of the United States.

These addresses, however, were the parts of the arranged program that were expected to be worth hearing, and it was that expectation which accounted for the large number of persons attending. It is needless to say that no one was disappointed.

It was, however, the speeches made by the two school boys of the Commonwealth, James M. Gammon, a junior at the West View High School, and Francis E. Zabkar, a student at Pennsylvania State College, that surprised and amazed and delighted every person fortunate enough to have attended the celebration.

Each held his audience by the substance of his discourse and the skill of his delivery, and won the applause and commendation of every one in attendance; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That this General Assembly is most grateful to His Excellency, the Governor, to Dr. Johnson, and to the young men who contributed so much to the success of the celebration, and to them it hereby extends its thanks, and its assurance of deep appreciation of their contribution; and be it further

Resolved, That, in evidence of that gratitude and appreciation, the Chief Clerk of the House is hereby directed to send a copy of this resolution to His Excellency, the Governor, to Dr. Robert L. Johnson, and also to James M. Gammon and Francis E. Zabkar.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

SENATE MESSAGE

AMENDED HOUSE BILL RETURNED FOR CONCURRENCE

HOUSE BILL No. 547.

An Act to further amend the act approved the first day of June one thousand eight hundred eighty-nine (P. L. 420) entitled "A further supplement to an act entitled 'An act to provide revenue by taxation' approved the seventh day of June Anno Domini one thousand eight hundred and seventy-nine" by increasing for a further limited period of time the rate of tax imposed by the act upon the gross receipts of certain companies limited partnerships associations joint-stock associations copartnerships and persons and by further defining the gross receipts tax liability of companies limited partnerships associations joint stock associations copartnerships and persons engaged in the sale of electric energy

With the information that the Senate has passed the same with amendments, in which the concurrence of the House of Representatives is requested.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1, page 3, at the end of line 29, by striking out the word "period" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "periods"; also on page 6, line 5, by striking out the word "municipality" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "municipally."

On the question,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Mr. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, the amendments that the Senate inserted in this bill may have added a few words to it. I suspect that they had in mind this nebulous idea of post war planning for industry. But, Mr. Speaker, whether the bill was passed by the Senate without amendments or whether the Senate amended the bill, it is still a bad bill, it is still a pay off to the utilities. We still disagree on it and we are still against it and I am asking the Members on this side of the House to vote against concurring in these amendments. We only wish we had a chance to vote against the bill itself again.

On the question recurring,

Will the House concur in the amendments made by the Senate?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Session 1943. 135th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 27. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MAY 3, 1943. No. 52.

SENATE

MONDAY, May 3, 1943.

The Senate met at 3:00 o'clock, p. m., Eastern War Time. The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor John C. Bell, Jr.) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. EDWIN S. WALLACE, D.D., offered the following prayer:

O Thou whose throne is established in righteousness and therefore can never be shaken, if we have not learned that Thou demandest righteousness of us in all departments of our living, and that nothing else will do, may we learn it now, lest we fail in our service to God and our fellowmen, and lose the "well done" promised to the faithful by the Master of us all.

Thou are giving to each of us great opportunities, and endowed us mentally and spiritually to use these opportunities helpfully for our Nation and our State. Give us a divine hatred for all that is false, all that is demeaning, selfish and intolerant. Give us a divine desire for all that is god, ennobling and generous.

We pray for our country, that it may be united and victorious at home and abroad in all theaters of war, strong with the strength and valor of the free, and victorious because her cause is just.

"God of our fathers be the God of their succeeding race."

We ask all in the Name that is above every name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. HEYBURN and Mr. SCARLETT, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. JASPAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Chairman of the Committee on Public Health.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northumberland, Senator Deitrick, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DEITRICK. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Northumberland have in his possession Senate Bill No. 632, introduced by Senators Stiefel, DiSilvestro and myself?

Mr. DEITRICK. I have not.

Mr. JASPAN. The gentleman does not?

Mr. DEITRICK. I have not.

Mr. JASPAN. I desire to ask the gentleman from Northumberland, Senator Deitrick, whether he was present when Senate Bill No. 632 was introduced by Senators Stiefel, DiSilvestro and myself last Thursday?

Mr. DEITRICK. I was in the next room, yes.

Mr. JASPAN. Was not Senate Bill No. 632 referred to the Committee on Public Health?

Mr. DEITRICK. I do not believe so, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I am anxious to know what disposition was made of Senate Bill No. 632, as introduced last Thursday by Senators Stiefel, DiSilvestra and myself.

The PRESIDENT. For the information of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, the bill to which he refers, Senate Bill No. 632, was referred by the Chair last Thursday to the Committee on Public Health, but the bill has just this moment been delivered to the Chairman of that committee.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, may I further interrogate the gentleman from Northumberland, Senator Deitrick?

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northumberland permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. DEITRICK. Yes, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, does the Chairman of the Committee on Public Health expect to hold a meeting of that committee some time today in order to consider this all-important bill, particularly as it affects Philadelphia and neighboring counties?

Mr. DEITRICK. I do not know what the bill is, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Does the gentleman from Northumberland, Senator Deitrick, expect to read the bill within the next half-hour or hour.

Mr. DEITRICK. I do not, no.

Mr. JASPAN. This is a very important bill, as it affects Philadelphia, and may I suggest to the gentleman from Northumberland that he read the bill and then hold a meeting of the Committee on Public Health today, if it is at all possible.

Mr. DEITRICK. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan, will notice that it is now just about five o'clock and we are just entering into today's session. I do not know whether or not I will have an opportunity to call a meeting of the Committee on Public Health today. I do not know whether we will have time for such a meeting, but I will be glad to read the bill.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I have been given to understand that after the dinner hour, we expect to come back and deal with important legislation.

This is a very important bill, Mr. President, as it affects Philadelphia and surrounding territory. It deals with the water situation in Philadelphia that many of us have discussed, and we are very much interested that such legislation should pass at this session—not the next session—at this session. Therefore, may I impress upon the Chairman of the Committee on Public Health the urgency of this bill.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is sure that Doctor Deitrick will carefully consider the suggestion of the gentleman from Philadelphia.

SENATE BILL No. 246, PRINTER'S No. 187 BE RECALLED FROM THE GOVERNOR

Mr. WADE offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, May 3, 1943.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that Senate Bill No. 246, Printer's No. 187, entitled "An act to enable tax collectors and receivers of taxes in counties of the sixth class to make return to the county commissioners of unpaid taxes assessed on seated lands for certain years and validating the liens of such taxes" be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of amendment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, in explanation of the resolution just introduced and adopted, recalling a bill from the Governor, I wish to advise the members of the Senate that unfortunately the printers left out an entire line from the bill, and that is the purpose of the resolution, in order to correct the bill.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of House Bill No. 675, entitled:

An Act to further reenact and amend section seventeen of the act approved the twenty-ninth day of May one thousand nine hundred thirty-one (P. L. 280) entitled "An act relating to delinquent taxes on seated lands and prescribing interest charges on non-payment thereof requiring the receivers and collectors of county city borough town township school district and poor district taxes to make a return to the county commissioners of such unpaid taxes and providing for the lien thereof authorizing the county treasurers to collect such taxes and to sell seated lands at public sale for taxes heretofore or hereafter returned as unpaid and authorizing the county commissioners to purchase such lands and resell the same under certain circumstances" making the sale of land purchcased at treasurer's sale discretionary providing for the readvertisement of such sales heretofore advertised but not held authorizing the sale of such property on court order and the redemption thereof after such sale free and clear of all mortgages, municipal claims and ground rents and validating previous sales.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

POINT OF INQUIRY

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, I rise on a point o inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Northampton will proceed.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, today's Calendar shows House Bill No. 675 as on final passage. I am of the opinion that this bill was passed over in order last Thursday and should be on third reading today. Am I correct?

Mr. HENRY I. WILSON. Mr. President, I have that memorandum also, but the way I have it, House Bill No. 675 went over in order on final passage on that day; whether rightfully or wrongfully, it was on final passage, not third reading, on April 29. I believe the bill had the wrong Printer's number, which has been corrected.

The PRESIDENT. The record show that House Bill No. 675 passed third reading as amended and, therefore, is now properly on final passage.

Mr. WOODRING. Then, Mr. President, I would like to ask that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered, for the following reasons:

On page 6 of the bill there is a clause which provides for the distribution of the fund after a sale; the schedule of distribution provides for the distribution of the costs of the sale and for municipal tax claims and for state claims and so forth.

This bill, Mr. President, primarily is designed to discharge mortgages. There is, however, in the schedule of distribution nowhere any clause to take care of the distribution to the mortgagees, which are divested by this sale, and there is no scheme of participation in the fund under the present language of the bill.

I have, therefore, prepared a very brief amendment which I would like to have considered at this time.

RECONSIDERATION OF HOUSE BILL No. 675

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now reconsider the vote by which House Bill No. 675 passed third reading.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. How did the Senator vote?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I voted "aye."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

SENATE AT EASE

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, may we be at ease for a few minutes?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I rise on a point of information.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Schuylkill will proceed.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I understand that the motion of the gentleman from Northampton, that the vote by which House Bill 675 passed third reading be reconsidered, is to be withdrawn.

I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Northampton.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Northampton permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODRING. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, does the gentleman from Northampton wish to withdraw his motion?

MOTION TO RECONSIDER WITHDRAWN

Mr. WOODRING. I withdraw the motion temporarily.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that House Bill No. 675, on final passage go over in its order, temporarily.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 26, as follows:

An Act providing for the payment of moneys to school districts of the fourth class the taxes of which have been reduced by the acquisition of certain lands and property by the Commonwealth

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 In all cases where the Commonwealth has at any time since the first day of June one thousand nine hundred and eight acquired any lands or property within the limits of any school district of the fourth class for use in connection with any educational welfare or penal institution and the amount of property within the school district taxable for school purposes has thereby been reduced and no provision has heretofore been made for reimbursing the school district either in whole or in part for the loss of such revenue the board of school directors of any such school district shall immediately after the effective date of this act certify to the Auditor General and the Department of Public Instruction the assessed valuation of such lands and property at the time of such acquisition

Section 2 After the effective date of this act the board of school directors shall from year to year at the time of its annual levy of taxes for school purpose certify to the Auditor General and Department of Public Instruction the rate of its levy for the next school year Thereupon the Department of Public Instruction shall ascertain the amount of taxes which would have been collected upon the assessed valuation certified as hereinbefore provided at the rate of the levy so certified Upon the ascertainment of such amount the same shall be paid by the Commonwealth from time to time from the general fund

Section 3 This act is intended to make provision for payments by the Commonwealth to school districts in addition to all other payments now provided for by law and shall not be construed to repeal or in anywise effect any other law making such provision

Section 4 The provisions of this act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I understood this bill was going to be held up for further consideration, when it was reported out of committee, because it seems to me that this bill changes the whole system of our government. A sovereign has the right to take land but now this bill provides that when a sovereign government takes land by right of its sovereignty, it has to pay to the county the tax which the county would have received if the sovereign had not taken it.

My understanding was that this bill was going over in order for further consideration. If I am wrong and it is not going to be given further consideration, I will be obliged to vote "no."

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

Shapiro,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 55, as follows:

An Act to amend section two hundred fourteen of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" providing for temporary filling of vacancies on boards of school directors in districts of the second third and fourth class caused by induction or enlistment in the military or naval forces of the United States in time of war

Section 1 Section two hundred fourteen of the act approved the eighteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred eleven (P. L. 309) entitled "An act to establish a public school system in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania together with the provisions by which it shall be administered and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof providing revenue to establish and maintain the same and the method of collecting such revenue and repealing all laws general special or local or any parts thereof that are or may be inconsistent therewith" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 214 In case any vacancy shall occur in any board of school directors in any school district of this Commonwealth by reason of death resignation removal from the district or otherwise such vacancy shall in a school district of the first class be filled for the unexpired term by the court of common pleas of the county in which such school district is situated and in a school district of the second third and fourth classes the remaining members of the board of school directors shall by a majority vote thereof fill such vacancy within thirty (30) days thereafter In a district of the second third or fourth class the person selected to fill such vacancy shall hold his office if the term thereof so long continues until the first Monday of December after the first municipal election occurring more than thirty (30) days after his appointment at which election an eligible person shall be elected for the remainder of the unexpired term Provided That if by reason of a tie vote or otherwise such vacancy shall not have been filled by the board of school directors as is herein provided within thirty (30) days after such vacancy shall have occurred the court of common pleas of the proper county upon the petition of ten or more resident taxpayers shall fill such vacancy by the appointment of a suitable person for the unexpired term And provided further That when any member of a board of school directors heretofore or hereafter enlists or is inducted into the military or naval forces of the United States in time of war a temporary vacancy shall be declared which shall be filled by the remaining members of the board or the court as the case may be until the return of such member of the board from the military or naval service or until the expiration of the term for which he shall have been elected whichever shall be the shorter period

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

BILL ON THIRD READING AMENDED

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 92, entitled:

An Act to amend the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 872) entitled "An act to consolidate amend and revise the penal laws of the Commonwealth" changing and revising sections of said act relating to obstructing an officer in the execution of process fornication and bastardy lotteries firearms receiving stolen property trespass on posted property cheating by fraudulent pretenses principals in the second degree and accessories aiders and abettors and repealing certain sections relating to larceny and certain existing acts.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I should first like to have the amendments read.

(The amendments were read by the Clerk.)

Mr. SHAPIRO. I have no objection, Mr. President.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Kephart.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KEPHART. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, I understand that this amendment is to a section of the bill which pertains to trespass on real estate.

Mr. KEPHART. That is right.

Mr. WOODRING. And this language which would be deleted from the bill by the amendment of the gentleman from Philadelphia provides for the manner in which notices shall be posted.

Mr. KEPHART. That is correct.

Mr. WOODRING. I object to the offer of the amendment, Mr. President I do so very carefully and out of great respect for my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Kephart, but it seems to me that that language is a very beneficial addition to the trespass clause of the Penal Code.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER VOTE BY WHICH HOUSE BILL 675 PASSED SECOND READING

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I move that the vote by which House Bill 92 passed second reading be reconsidered.

OBJECTION WITHDRAWN TO INTRODUCTION OF AMENDMENTS

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, in order that it shall not be necessary to go through the procedure of reconsidering the vote by which House Bill No. 92 passed second reading, and because of the lateness of the hour, I am going to withdraw my objection and ask my colleagues to vote "no" on the amendment.

Therefore, Mr. President, I withdraw my objection.

MOTION TO RECONSIDER WITHDRAWN

Mr. KEPHART. Mr. President, I withdraw my motion to reconsider the vote by which this bill passed second reading.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. KEPHART. I offer the following amendments.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend Section 1 (Section 954), page 7, by omitting all of lines 22, 23 and 24.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing on final passage.

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 127 on third reading, entitled:

An Act permitting certain organizations to conduct the playing of the game bingo under certain circumstances providing for the issuance suspension and revocation of licenses therefor and for payment of a registration fee and providing penalties be recommitted to the Committee on Law and Order.

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I suppose it is really useless to say any more about this bill, but the evening is young yet and we might as well have a little time on this bill.

First, of all, Mr. President, I am surprised that the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Woodward, took the floor, because as a rule he is very considerate in what he does. If it had been the Republican Floor Leader that was picked to do this trick, I would not mind. This bill has been on the Calendar, it has been in and out of committee three or four times, and I can not understand why it came out on the floor now just for the purpose of being killed.

I am very much surprised and I certainly do feel hurt that we have perhaps forty-eight or fifty state Senators here, the majority of them around the ages of fifty, sixty and seveny-five, and all of these men know the pleasures that may be enjoyed by playing the game of bingo.

Those people who play bingo do not frequent taprooms or ball rooms, and if they did, they would not be fit to go around a ball room floor—and I include myself in the bunch—and I say to you, Mr. President, I am very much surprised at this action. There are thousands of people in Philadelphia and all over the the state—I have had letters from American Legion Posts, from Veterans of Foreign Wars and other associations, all backing this bill. If there is a law against playing bingo, then why do we not get some way of enforcing it and have people locked up all over the state, but perhaps they have pull in one place and play bingo and then in another place they have not the right to play bingo because some one comes in and for some reason the game of bingo is stopped.

If I were the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Woodward, when a bill like this comes on the floor, I would simply sit down and take no part in recommitting such a bill, and again I say I am very sorry and I do not see what good the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Woodward, gets out of recommitting such a bill.

I am going to ask for a roll call on the motion.

Mr. WOODWARD. It is with great regret, Mr. President, that I am in opposition to my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator McCreesh, who represents more people than any other Senator on the floor.

The trouble here is that we took the same action with regard to this bill previously and then, "bingo", the bill was out again on the Calendar. This time I hope it will stay in committee and not appear again on the Calendar.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, in the last session of the Legislature it seems that I handled bingo bills and every time I rose to my feet some one hollered "bingo," and for that reason I refrained this Session from introducing such bills.

I must agree with my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator McCreesh, when he said that he was surprised that once again this bill is to be recommitted. I can not quite understand the attitude of this Senate. The attitude might be that the lobbyists once again have ruled.

We have bingo games being played in every hamlet in Pennsylvania, a game in which elderly persons of our Commonwealth find pleasure, men and women who find no other pleasures, and we all know as law makers, that today they are playing bingo illegally and no one has the courage to go back to our local authorities and ask that bingo players be penalized. I dare say that not one of you men have the courage to try to stop it, but you do have the courage to sit here and recommit such a bill.

There is no harm in this bill. It is a good piece of Legislation and I say again that if it is illegal, let us offer a resolution and have the state police go out and raid every place where bingo is played. If it is not that bad let us pass the bill and make those persons feel that they are playing bingo legally.

I am more than surprised to know the attitude of this body.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I have no particular interest in this bill. However, I feel that our Republican friends are not keeping faith with my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator McCreesh.

When this bill was first reported out it was sent back to committee with the understanding that there was a companion bill introduced by a state representative—I believe his name was Tiemann—and the understanding was that they would consider both bills and, therefore, it went back to committee.

Now, Mr. President, we have this bill out once again and my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator McCreesh, not knowing that they intended to play fast and lose, was unprepared. I say it is a sad state of affairs. Let us be honest. If you want to defeat the bill, defeat it on the floor. As I said before I am not interested in this matter, but let us keep faith with one of our Senators.

This bill was considered along with Representative Tienmann's bill and of the two, the bill introduced by Senator McCreesh was reported out, and now the last moment you are ready to send it back to committee once more. For what reason? I have not heard a good reason yet and I ask all my colleagues to vote against the motion to recommit this bill.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Senator Letzler.

Mr. PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Clearfield permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LETZLER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, will the gentleman from Clearfield tell me whether a religious group last week went on record in Clearfield, Pennsylvania, against the bingo bill.

Mr. LETZLER. I think, Mr. President, there were resolutions adopted at a meeting or a conference held in Clearfield.

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, that is the answer to the statement of my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Jaspan. It is a sad time when in Pennsylvania the people of a big state like the Keystone State must live according to the moods, fashions and customs of religious groups.

I think that it is not fair to a city like Philadelphia, or a city like Pittsburgh or a big community where people would like to play bingo, that a small segregated group from another part of the state of Pennsylvania should tell us what to do. I think that this should be a question of local option and that people who like to play bingo should have that right to play bingo and those who do not like to play bingo, let them do just whatever they want.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(During the calling of the roll the following occurred.)

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, I would like to inquire how the Senator from Philadelphia, Senator Farrell, voted; I did not hear him vote.

Mr. PRESIDENT. How did the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Farrell vote?

Mr. FARRELL. I voted, "aye", Mr. President.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BARR and Mr. McCREESH and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 134, as follows:

An Act to further amend section eleven of the act approved the thirteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-five (P. L. 644) entitled "An act relating to and regulating the solicitation of moneys and property for charitable religious benevolent humane and patriotic purposes" by providing that said act shall not apply to certain war veterans' organizations or the subordinate units thereof

Section 1 Section eleven of the act approved the thirteenth day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-five (P. L. 644) entitled "An act relating to and regulating the solicitation of moneys and property for charitable religious benevolent humane and patriotic purposes" as amended by the act approved the twenty-second day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-one (P. L. 871) is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 11 This act shall not apply to fraternal organizations incorporated under the laws of the Commonwealth religious organizations raising funds for religious purposes colleges schools universities labor unions municipalities or subdivisions thereof nor to charitable institutions or agencies required by the provisions of existing law to file reports with the Department of Welfare or with any other department or office of the Commonwealth nor to any war veterans' organization or any subordinate units thereof whenever the purpose for which it is soliciting funds has been approved by the Department of Military Affairs

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODRING. Mr. President, having requested the floor prior to passage of this bill on third reading, I would like the record to note my objection to its passage on third reading and also my objection to the bill on final passage. For the reasons I stated last Thursday, I feel that this bill is unlawfully on the Calendar and, therefore, I object to its consideration.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire the record to show my objection to passage of this bill in its present form.

Mr. JASPAN. I object to passage of this bill. I contend that it is unconstitutional. I contend, as I stated before, that this bill is unconstitutional and if enacted into law it will be declared unconstitutional, in view of the fact that a reapportionment bill was passed in 1942 and became law. Once we have a reapportionment after a census, we certainly can not pass another reapportionment bill and make it a law once more. Since 1790 there have been reapportionment bills once every ten years, not every two or three or five or six years, but every ten years.

As I previously stated, Mr. President, I renew my objection to passage of this bill on constitutional grounds. I have yet to hear anyone on the other side to say that it is constitutional.

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. President, I want to point out to the members of the Senate that there is one man in particular who is very much in favor of this bill. This man is a member of Congress and before Pearl Harbor, he was noted for his opposition to preparedness, and he also had his office used by seditionists in passing out legislation. According to the Philadelphia Record of Thursday April 22, Representative Fish backs the G.O.P. redistributing plan for the state of Pennsylvania with the statement that if this bill is passed he will be be Chairman of the Rules Committee and will run the House.

I might also point out that there has always been the question in the minds of those who prosecuted his secretary, Mr. Hill, that Mr. Hill was merely taking the rap for Congressman Fish.

Mr. DENT. I object to this bill in its present form, because I am convinced that if the Governor signs it, it will be thrown out by the courts because after careful examination I find that you have missed certain ward lines and boundary lines in districts.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 356, as follows:

An Act to amend sections twelve and seventeen of the act approved the twenty-first day of June one thousand hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 626) entitled "An act providing for and regulating the assessment and valuation of all subjects of taxation in counties of the second class creating and prescribing the powers and duties of a Board of Property Assessment Appeals and Review imposing duties on certain county and city officers abolishing the board for the assessment and revision of taxes in such counties and prescribing penalties" by providing for appeals from the judgment order or decrees of the court of common pleas to the Supreme or Superior Court and for exoneration and refund of taxes when any assessment has been reduced by the Board of Property Assessment Appeals and Review or by any court

Section 1 Sections twelve and seventeen of the act approved the twenty-first day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine (P. L. 626) entitled "An act providing for and regulating the assessment and valuation of all subjects of taxation in counties of the second class creating and prescribing the powers and duties of a Board of Property Assessment Appeals and Review imposing duties on certain county and city officers abolishing the board for the assessment and revision of taxes in such counties and prescribing penalties" are hereby amended to read as follows

Section 12 After action on such assessments by the board any taxpayer dissatisfied with the assessment of his property may appeal therefrom to the court of common pleas of the county within sixty (60) days from the date of notice of the assessment as provided by existing law and it shall be the duty of the court to hear and determine said appeal and if necessary to make such changes in the assessment as may be right and proper [The action of the court thereon shall be final] Any taxpayer or the Board of Property Assessment Appeals and Review may appeal from the judgment order or decree of the court of common pleas of such county to the Supreme or Superior Court in the same manner as appeals are taken in other cases to the said Supreme or Superior Court Provided That where such judgment order or decree of the court of common pleas was made affecting a 1943 assessment prior to the effective date of this act appeals to the Supreme or Superior Court may be taken at any time within three (3) calendar months after such effective date Only one such appeal may be taken during the period of any triennial assessment unless the assessed valuation of the property has been changed during such period

Section 17 [No appeal taken from any such assessments shall affect the validity of any taxes assessed but if such assessment shall thereafter be reduced an exoneration shall be granted or restitution ordered for the excess of taxes paid by reason of any improper increase in the assessment] No appeal taken from any assessment made under this act shall prevent the collection of the taxes based upon such assessment but in case such assessment shall be or shall heretofore have been reduced a proper exoneration shall be granted if the taxes based upon such assessment have not been paid or if the taxes based upon such assessment have been paid the excess taxes collected shall be refunded to the person or persons who shall have paid the same No such appeal shall operate to relieve the appellant from liability for accrued interest and penalties on any unpaid taxes based upon the assessment as finally established

L. 343), entitled, "An act relating to the finances of the State government; providing for the settlement, assessment, collection, and lien of taxes, bonus, and all other accounts due the Commonwealth, the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale, the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth, and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth, the resettlement of accounts and appeals the courts, refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth, auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth or any agency thereof, and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties; affecting every department, board, commission and officer of the State government, every political subdivision of the State, and certain officers of such subdivisions every person, association, and corporation required to pay, assess, or collect taxes, or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes, or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth," exempting the affairs of the State Building and Loan Insurance Board from audit by the Auditor General be recommitted to the Committee on Banking.

Mr. BECKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WOODRING. I, too, Mr. President, rise to second the motion.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Northampton will be noted on the record as another seconder.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Majority Floor Leader.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. May I ask the Majority Floor Leader why this bill is being sent back to the Committee on Banking?

Mr. HEYBURN. By action of the Republican Caucus Mr. President, the bill is going back to the committee for further study.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to further interrogate the gentleman from Delaware.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. HEYBURN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Am I to take from that, realizing the short time we have to go before final adjournment, that this bill is to be relegated to the ash heap or retired further into the shade.

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, the bill has had three readings now and it is not necessarily being relegated to the ash heap.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. JASPAN and were as follows, viz:

RECESS

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a recess until 9:30 o'clock p. m

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now return to the order of business of reports of committees.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. HAPMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. CHAPMAN. Mr. President and members of the Senate, I think perhaps I should say a few words before reporting from committee a bill on our state-aided hospitals. I called your attention to the penal and correctional institutions and departments of the state last week.

Tonight I am about to report from committee a bill from the House relative to state-aided hospitals. As you may recall, I introduced a resolution in the Senate that passed the Senate and the House, increasing the per diem allowance for service cases in state-aided hospitals from $3.00 to $3.50. That resolution called on the committee to make an investigation of state-aided hospitals, which we did very carefully. We have sent to each of our state-aided hospitals, which number 174, a six page questionnaire asking them to state the amount of their appropriation during 1939 and 1941, and we find that the average cost for such hospitals in the 1939-1941 biennium was $3.48 per patient. The average cost in the 1941-1943 biennium was $4.41 per patient.

It is interesting to note that the free service has declined from the 1939-1941 biennium appropriation, which was over $5,000,000, and in the 1941-1943 biennium it declined to $4,000,000. Pay patient visits during 1939-1941 amounted to $41,000,000, which increased in the 1941-1943 biennium to $53,000,000.

These six page questionnaires have been returned and from the information therein received we are justified in increasing the per diem allowance to state-aided hospitals from $3.00 to $3.50.

I am about to report from the Committee on Appropriations House Bill No. 1107. This bill has been gone over very carefully. We have visited every one of these state-aided hospitals, personally, besides receiving these questionnaires. This amounts to approximately $8,500,000.

I am also about to report from the Committee on Appropriations House Bill No. 1109, as amended, and at the same time I shall report, as amended, House Bill 1106 in reference to state-aided homes and institutions of the State.

Mr. President, I request that there be no more amendments made to any of these bills, as it would interfere with our date of adjournment. I hope that all the Senators, both Democrats and Republicans, are satisfied with the findings of the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. CHAPMAN, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as amended, House Bill No. 671, entitled:

A Further Supplement to the act approved the first day of April one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three (P. L. 213) entitled "An act to accept the grant of Public Lands by the United States to the several states for the endowment of Agricultural Colleges" making an appropriation for carrying the same into effect.

Mr. CHAPMAN, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as amended, House Bill No. 1107, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Welfare for the maintenance of certain hospitals.

He also, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as amended, House Bill No. 1106, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Welfare for the maintenance of certain homes.

Mr. JAMES, from the Committee on Municipal Government, reported as committed, House Bill No. 273, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the fourth day of May one thousand nine hundred twenty-seven (P. L. 519) entitled "An act concerning boroughs and revising amending and consolidating the law relating to boroughs" by further regulating the affairs of boroughs and revising amending and changing the law relating thereto.

Mr. CARR, from the Committee on Insurance, reported as committed, House Bill No. 665, entitled:

An Act to amend section three hundred sixteen of the act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (P. L. 682) entitled "An act relating to insurance amending revising and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies and the regulation supervision and protection of home and foreign insurance companies Llodys associations reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges and fire insurance rating bureaus and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies associations and exchanges including insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund providing penalties and repealing existing laws" by extending the provisions to include officers and employes.

Mr. FARRELL, from the Committee on Judiciary General, reported as committed, House Bill No. 1064, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 343), entitled "An act relating to the finances of the State government; providing for the settlement, assessment, collection, and lien of taxes, bonus, and all other accounts due the Commonwealth, the collection and recovery of fees and other money or property due or belonging to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, including escheated property and the proceeds of its sale, the custody and disbursement or other disposition of funds and securities belonging to or in the possession of the Commonwealth, and the settlement of claims against the Commonwealth, the resettlement of accounts and appeals to the courts, refunds of moneys erroneously paid to the Commonwealth, auditing the accounts of the Commonwealth and all agencies thereof, of all public officers collecting moneys payable to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, and all receipts of appropriations from the Commonwealth and imposing penalties; affecting every department, board, commission, and officer of the State government, every political subdivision of the State, and certain officers of such subdivisions, every person, association, and corporation required to pay, assess, or collect taxes, or to make returns or reports under the laws imposing taxes for State purposes, or to pay license fees or other moneys to the Commonwealth, or any agency thereof, every State depository and every debtor or creditor of the Commonwealth," by providing for the manner of payment of escheators' fees, informants' commissions, and other lawful charges due from moneys escheated to the Commonwealth, and escheatable moneys paid to the Commonwealth without escheat; designating the funds to which such moneys shall be credited; and making an appropriation.

Mr. STEVENSON, from the Committee on Appropriations, re-reported as committed, House Bill No. 929, entitled:

An Act creating a commission to study the method of participation by the Commonwealth and local school districts in the maintenance of a thorough and efficient system of public schools prescribing its powers and duties and making an appropriation.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STEVENSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STEVENSON. Mr. President, I am about to report from the Committee on Appropriations House Bill No. 1101, the General Appropriation Bill, which, however, we desire to have returned to the Committee on Appropriations after it has been read once. It will be necessary to do that in order that we may insert the amount of money that is to be applied to increase the pay of teachers. House Bill No. 1101 is to have just one reading.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. STEVENSON, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported as committed, House Bill No. 1101, entitled:

An Act to provide for the ordinary expenses of the Executive Legislative and Judicial Departments of the Commonwealth interest on the public debt and the support of the public schools for two years beginning June first one thousand nine hundred and forty-three and for the payment of bills incurred and remaining unpaid at the close of the fiscal year ending May thirty-first one thousand nine hundred and forty-three.

Mr. THOMAS, from the Committee on County Government, reported as committed, House Bill No. 422, entitled:

An Act to amend section four of the act approved the ninth day of April one thousand eight hundred and seventy (P. L. 1121) entitled "A Supplement to an act entitled 'An act for the regulation and government of the Lehigh county prison' approved the sixth day of April one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine" by increasing the salaries of prison inspectors in Lehigh county.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WOODWARD asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I listened very carefully to the report of the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations with regard to state-aided hospitals. I have met members of some of the staffs of state-aided hospitals who came here to prove their case and to get $3.50 per capita, per diem, but there are ten state owned hospitals we do not hear anything about and I am trying to find out what their per diem rate is, and I will lay a bet that it is more than $3.50. I am going to find out somehow and I will report later.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. JASPAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, in answer to the remarks of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Doctor Woodward, as to the actual cost of maintaining free patients at the various hospitals, it was indicated very clearly by the gentleman from Warren, Doctor Chapman, that for the biennium starting in 1941 it ran much above $4.00, and in time may run much above that. I think $3.50 is a happy medium, and I think the gentleman from Philadelphia, Doctor Woodward, should be satisfied without further investigation. The fact remains that the gentleman from Warren, Senator Chapman, is Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations and that committee, together with the sub-committee, did a very good job and there is no need for further investigation.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. WOODWARD, from the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions, reported as amended, House Bill No. 1071, entitled:

An Act to further amend the act approved the twenty-fourth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (P. L. 2051) entitled "An act relating to public assistance providing for and regulating assistance to certain classes of persons designated and defined as dependent children aged persons blind persons and other persons requiring relief providing for the administration of this act by the Department of Public Assistance and county boards of assistance hereby created for this purpose authorizing the Department of Public Assistance to cooperate with and to accept and disburse moneys received from the United States Government for assistance to such persons providing for the liquidation of the State Emergency Relief Board Boards of Trustees of the Mothers' Assistance Fund and Boards of Trustees of Pension Fund for the Blind and repealing laws relating to mothers' assistance pensions for the blind old age assistance and the State Emergency Relief Board" declaring the legislative intent restricting the powers of the Department of Public Assistance and the State Board of Public Assistance extending the powers of county boards of assistance and making provision reciprocal with other states for assistance to certain aged persons

Mr. SHAPIRO, from the Committee on Welfare, Public Assistance and Pensions, reported as committed, House Bill No. 245, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Department of Welfare for use by the State Council for the Blind in supplying home instruction for adult blind persons.

Mr. WADE, from the Committee on Insurance, reported as committed, House Bill No. 827, entitled:

An Act to amend section two thousand four hundred and four of the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred twenty-nine (P. L. 177), entitled "An act providing for and reorganizing the conduct of the executive and administrative work of the Commonwealth by the Executive Department thereof and the administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers thereof, including the boards of trustees of State Normal Schools, or Teachers Colleges; abolishing, creating, reorganizing or authorizing the reorganization of certain administrative departments, boards, and commissions; defining the powers and duties of the Governor and other executive and administrative officers, and of the several administrative departments, boards, commissions, and officers; fixing the salaries of the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, and certain other executive and administrative officers; providing for the appointment of certain administrative officers, and of all deputies and other assistants and employes in certain departments, boards, and commissions and prescribing the manner in which the number and compensation of the deputies and all other assistants and employes of certain departments, boards and commissions shall be determined," as amended, in order to provide automobile liability insurance on vehicles owned by the United States of America and its instrumentalities, which are loaned to and operated by State employes and certain other persons.

Mr. SNOWDEN, from the Committee on Highways, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 635, entitled:

An Act to amend the act, approved the twenty-second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 594), entitled "An act establishing certain township roads as State highways; authorizing their construction, maintenance, and improvement under certain conditions and restrictions; limiting the obligation of the Commonwealth in the construction of certain structures located on such highways; conferring certain powers upon the Department of Highways and local authorities; persons, associations and corporations for sharing the cost of the maintenance and construction of such highways; and making an appropriation to carry out the provisions of said act," by changing certain routes.

RECALLING SENATE BILL No. 69, PRINTER'S No. 63 FROM THE GOVERNOR

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. HOMSHER, offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate of Pennsylvania, May 3, 1943.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That Senate Bill No. 69, Printer's No. 63, entitled "A supplement to the act approved the eleventh day of May, one thousand nine hundred and five (P. L. 518), entitled 'An act making an appropriation for the erection of a home or school for indigent orphans to be called the Thaddeus Stevens Industrial and Reform School of Pennsylvania, in which school provision shall be made for giving instruction in reading, writing, arithmetic, drawing, duties of citizenship, elementary manual training, the elements of farming, and other requisite branches,' authorizing the Thaddeus Stevens Industrial School to collect fees for board and tuition from certain special students" be recalled from the Governor for the purpose of further consideration.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

RECESS

Mr. HEYBURN. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now take a short recess so that a meeting of the Committee on Labor and Industry may be held in the office of the President Pro Tempore.

Mr. THOMAS B. WILSON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDENT. The time of recess having elapsed the Senate will be in order.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to make report from committee at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. THOMAS, from the Committee on Labor and Industry, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 593, entitled:

An Act relating to vocational rehabilitation; accepting the provisions and benefits of the act of Congress, approved the second day of June, one thousand nine hundred and twenty, entitled "An act to provide for the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry or otherwise and their return to civil employment"; providing for the rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry and their return to civil employment; imposing duties upon the Bureau of Rehabilitation, the Department of Labor and Industry and the State Treasurer.
